Ziller Reported Named in True Bill

FRAUD CHARGED IN SALE OF U. S. BUILDING JOBS

Refuses to Testify Before Jury.

Bloomington, Ill., June 7 [Special].—Workers' stories that they paid thousands of dollars for jobs in the construction of government ordnance plants were reported to have brought true bills late today against George W. Ziller, 600 pound Weston, Ill., promoter.

George F. Barrett [top] and C. N. Coolidge

The true bills, charging conspiracy to defraud, were reported to have been voted by the McLean county grand jury. It was reported that they accused four or five other persons besides Ziller, but their names were not divulged.

The grand jury was understood to have acted after Ziller had refused to waive his constitutional right to decline to testify against himself before it. The grand jury's report is to be made to Judge William C. Radliff in Circuit court on July 16.

Exposed by Tribune.

Ziller is the central figure in a politico-union alliance exposed by THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE on May 21. Union officials have acknowledged that he was their job dispenser in the construction of the Kankakee and Elwood ordnance plants. The union heads say Ziller was recommended to them by Democratic politicians of the state.

Ziller was one of 41 witnesses subpenaed by the grand jury today when it resumed the investigation after an adjournment since June 25. Attorney General George F. Barrett and Clifford N. Coolidge, McLean county state's attorney, had ordered Ziller to bring the records of the Weston Democratic club.

Laborers previously had testified that Ziller had required them to take a $25 membership in the club as one of the conditions of getting a job.

Ziller arrived early, in a deep blue suit, a black shirt, an enormous panama hat and gleaming white shoes.

Waits for 6½ Hours.

Ziller waited for 6½ hours while 40 other witnesses testified. Then he was called to the grand jury room where he refused to sign the immunity waiver.

The grand jury took a recess and was reported to have voted the true bills in half an hour.

When Ziller reached the witness room, he found Constable William Peterson waiting to serve him with an execution on a judgment for $75.20 obtained by Frank L. Smith, a Bloomington druggist.

"I'm attaching your car," said the constable.

"O, no you're not." Ziller assured him. "It's in my wife's name."

"O, yes I am," retorted the constable. "You transferred it to her after the judgment was rendered."

Ziller then produced a $100 bill and paid the debt.

Stories Told by Laborers.

The Ziller story, as pieced together by laborers, truck owners and drivers, union officials, and investigators, is this:

Ziller came to the unions with Democratic politicians in 1940, when construction on the great ordnance plant was getting under way. The politicians said Ziller had their approval. Ziller proposed that he be the unions' job dispenser.

Soon Ziller was collecting fees and putting men to work for the teamsters' and hod carriers' unions.

Total fees of the teamsters' union for allowing a new man to go to work were $66. New members of the hod carriers paid $21.

But truck owners have given affidavits that Ziller charged them $300 a truck in addition to put their trucks to work, and then assessed them $50 a week.

Records of the hod carriers' union show that $400,000 poured into its treasury during Ziller's régime.

Iron Precious, but La Guardia Builds a Fence

New York, July 7 [Special].—This city's scrap metal campaign, which has reached the point where the salvage board is covetously eying old iron fences, got a major jolt today with the disclosure that a new iron fence—400 feet long and 6 feet high—has just been built around Mayor Fiorello H. LaGuardia's new official home.

"We are right now laying plans for acquiring iron fences," said a spokesman for the salvage board. "In fact we have just finished conversations with representatives of cemetery groups on the question of iron fences and benches."

Criticism of the use of iron for a residential fence at this time brought the irate comment from Robert Moses, city commissioner of parks, who supervised the building of the mayor's fence, that the drive for scrap metal was "surrounded with hysteria."

Useless, Moses Says.

Moses said the iron used in the mayor's fence belongs to the category of useless metal.

"It was just junk until we fixed it up," Moses declared. "Most of it had been there for years along the water front. We repaired it with the WPA and the park fellows."

Moses did not explain why junk metal which could be used for an ornamental fence could not be used in the war effort, but said a lot of misinformation had been disseminated concerning scrap metal drives and that most of it was "sheer, unadulterated bunk."

Valuable to Workmen.

Workmen on the job said they had considered the fence valuable because they had been held accountable for every unused piece, large or small. According to a sign displayed near the mansion the fence was built as "a WPA project—sponsored by the city of New York."

The mayor's new home is the old Gracie mansion overlooking the East river at 88th street, recently converted from a museum to serve as the residence of the city's chief executive. Inside the fence, green lawns, drenched by a dozen garden sprinklers, stretch to the river.

Premier of Turkey Dies, Berlin Says in Broadcast

LONDON, July 8 [Wednesday]—(AP).—The Berlin radio broadcast a report from Istanbul today that the premier of Turkey, Refik Saydam, had died.

BRITAIN SAYS TROOPS WILL STAY IN INDIA UNTIL WAR IS WON

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, July 7.—British and American forces now in India are indispensable for the safety of the country and will be retained there until victory is achieved, Leopold S. Amery, secretary of state for India, informed the house of commons today. Amery replied to Laborite Stephen Davies, who had said that the Indian national congress should be approached with a view to establishing a national government so that the Indian people would be inspired to organize their own defense and thereby make retention of united nations troops unnecessary. The suggestion was turned down.

Canadian Air, Army Forces Aid in Alaska

VICTORIA, B. C., July 7 (AP).—Canadian army units and royal Canadian air force squadrons both are stationed in Alaska to aid United States forces, Air Minister C. G. Power disclosed today upon his arrival here from that territory. This was the first mention of Canadian army units being in Alaska.

Powers said the Canadians he visited in Alaska were in "fine fettle and very keen at having an opportunity of meeting the Jap wherever and whenever he can be found." The air minister, accompanied by Air Marshal L. S. Breadne, also inspected Alaskan air bases.

Airports in Operation.

A chain of airports built across Canada and in Alaska now is in full operation, Power said, and is "proving of inestimable value in reënforcing Alaska."

He did not disclose the size of the Canadian army units in Alaska, merely stating that he had visited the Canadian soldiers as well as the air forces during his trip.

Talks with Commanders.

He also visited the main United States bases, meeting United States army, navy, and air commanders and discussing with them the problem of Alaska's defense as related to Canada's west coast.

"The Americans are doing everything within their power to make Canadian squadrons comfortable and have given them a most important rôle in the operations," Power said.

Prepare Plan for Staggered Hours of Work

Phillip Harrington, local administrator for the Office of Defense Transportation, disclosed yesterday that plans for staggering working hours thruout the Chicago area are being drafted for use in the event the rubber shortage should require the sudden storage of hundreds of thousands of automobiles.

Harrington's announcement followed the statement by President Roosevelt yesterday that it may be necessary for the government to commandeer all the automobile tires in the country.

"The chief aim of the ODT is to shift all possible riding from rubber to steel," Harrington said. "Staggered hours may do this by increasing the loads that can be carried by street cars and elevated trains."

[OPA will act today to force return to 7 cent carfare. Details on page 4.]

Survey All Large Businesses.

Harrington said every plant, store, and other business in this area with 200 or more employés has been asked to submit detailed reports of hours of business, number of employés, when they go to and leave their jobs, how far they live from work, and what transportation they are now using.

"The staggering of hours and increase in group riding in automobiles are the two most important objectives of the ODT," Harrington said. He added that he was not prepared to say when or where staggered working hours might be placed in force.

Earlier in the day Harrington told the city council transportation committee that a public information drive will be started in Chicago July 19 in an effort to get many thousands of residents to use less rubber for transportation.

No Civilian Rubber Until 1944.

He declared that 90 per cent of the world's rubber supply is now controled by the axis powers and that no rubber for any but essential uses will be available until 1944 at the earliest.

A 12 point program to get the maximum local transportation service for the war effort with the least use of rubber was outlined by Harrington.

The Chicago, North Shore and Milwaukee railroad yesterday filed an appeal in Superior court from an Illinois Commerce commission order of May 5 authorizing a bus service between Chicago, Fort Sheridan, and Great Lakes Naval Training station. The bus route was granted to the Central West Motor Stages, Inc. The North Shore contended in its appeal that its trains provide adequate service.

ACTION MAY BE ORDERED IF WAR BECOMES WORSE

Outcome of Salvage Drive Uncertain.

BY WALTER TROHAN.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., July 7.—President Roosevelt today said if the war gets worse he may have to commandeer every automobile tire in the country.

He told his first press conference in two weeks that he is trying to save the country—not gas or tires. He declared he is confident the people are ready to make any sacrifice necessary to win the war.

The chief executive advanced tire requisitioning as a possibility in stating he hoped to separate the tire problem from the gasoline problem. So far no method of achieving this end has been found, he added.

Nowhere Near Answer.

Mr. Roosevelt said he still felt that if a man lives next to an oil well and has a perfectly good set of tires for an automobile which he uses in his business, there should be some way he should be able to use the gas.

He said he knew more about the situation than any one in the room and yet was not anywhere near the answer. The problem is so complex no one understands it completely, he said. Suppose the situation gets worse, he said, then he might have to take every single auto tire.

Mr. Roosevelt said the rubber salvage campaign has not gone far enough yet to have any bearing on the final decision on the necessity of gasoline rationing to save tires. However, he added, the government is beginning to find out where it stands.

Total Below Expectations.

He gave no figures on the rubber campaign, which he extended because collections of scrap had not come up to expectations. He reported collections were below the most optimistic expectations, but above the minimum estimate.

Told there was some confusion in the public mind whether useful articles such as rubber mats should be contributed, Mr. Roosevelt said that the army and navy need rubber for a great many useful purposes as well as for tires. He said he could say no more than that to resolve the doubts of the hesitant.

The President reiterated his opposition to any further increase in the cost of living in acknowledging that a wage increase for workers in the "little" steel industry would be a factor in increasing living costs.

Termed Kindergarten Stuff.

It is obvious and copybook stuff that an increase in steel wages would be a factor in increasing the cost of living, he said. Asked whether he would like to see the cost of living go up, he replied that was kindergarten stuff, adding he was most certainly against any further rise.

Asked whether the government will make an early announcement of a wage policy, he said he did not know. Asked if he thought there is need for enunciation of such a policy, he said he would not reply to the question because it was not specific.

Asked whether he thought a standard was needed to guide the war labor board, he replied, with a laugh, yes and no.

SWEDISH ENVOY DOUBTS PREMIER HAS BEEN SLAIN

Washington, D. C., July 7 (AP).—M. Bostrom, Swedish minister to the United States, said tonight he was unable to believe rumors circulated in Switzerland that the Swedish prime minister, Per Albin Hansson, had been assassinated.

"I feel sure I would have been notified immediately if such a tragedy had occurred," Bostrom said. "The legation here certainly would hear of it as quickly as any one in Switzerland."

[Reuters said in a dispatch from Berne that the assassination reports were current in Switzerland, but were unconfirmed.]

France Cuts Rail Travel; Hint Germans Need Trains

BERNE, Switzerland, July 7.—In France notification has just been given of further reduction of railroad schedules because of the "general situation." Private advices intimated that the real reason was the ever increasing demand for rolling stocks on the part of the Germans.

U-Boat Chief Kills 12; Offers to Shake Hands

The sinking of three more merchant ships in the Caribbean sea was announced yesterday. The ships were of American, Norwegian, and British registry. The British ship, a tanker, was shelled by submarines the night of June 17 and 20 of her crew of 21 were reported to have reached port.

343

The new sinkings brought to 343 the number of vessels lost in American and adjacent waters since Pearl Harbor, according to an unofficial tabulation by the Associated Press. Since then 297 vessels have been sunk near the shores of the United States, bringing the toll to 1,862 known dead, 1,810 missing, and 9,733 rescued.

Details of the sinking of the Norwegian and the American freighters follow:

SUNK IN 30 SECONDS

A CARIBBEAN PORT, July 7 (AP).—The chief engineer of a medium size Norwegian cargo ship which was torpedoed and sunk June 15 in the Caribbean sea today told of thrice spurning the effort of a submarine commander to shake hands with him.

The engineer was one of 13 members of a 25 man crew which naval authorities said had been rescued from two life rafts. The 12 others were believed to have gone down with the ship, which sank 30 seconds after having been broken almost in half by a torpedo.

The engineer said there was no previous warning of a submarine's presence and the ship sank so rapidly that those of the crew who could simply jumped overboard.

Goes Aboard U-Boat.

The chief told this story: About five minutes after the ship went down a submarine came to the surface and its commander asked for the captain of the ship.

Told that the officers were killed, he asked the chief engineer to come aboard the submarine. There the U-boat commander a man about 25 years old, wearing shorts, no shirt, and a blue cap with yellow insignia, talked to the survivor on the after deck.

"I think this is a surprise to you," said the submarine commander.

"Anything can happen in war," the engineer replied.

Gives Victims 2 Loaves of Bread.

"I am sorry this had to happen to you," continued the submarine officer. "I'll give you two loaves of bread."

Then he gave the engineer two loaves of dark brown, hard bread, and three cans of water and wished his victims a happy voyage.

He extended his hand, but the chief did not take it, merely saying, "I thank you for your bread and water."

The commander appeared to become angry and walked toward the conning tower, but came back again and asked the chief to shake hands, with the same result. A third try likewise was rebuffed. The chief said he believed it probably was the commander's purpose, for propaganda reasons, to have a hand shaking photographed by one of three other men on the U-boat's conning tower.

TWO DIE IN SINKING

An East Coast Port, July 7.—The torpedo sinking of another American merchant ship in the Caribbean sea, with the loss of two lives, was reported today by the navy. The attack occurred a month ago in daylight, and the ship sank in seven minutes. The remaining 29 crew members were rescued.

The announcement stated that two of the ship's three lifeboats were

CANADIAN COMMONS O. K.'S WAR DRAFT FOR SERVICE OVERSEAS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

OTTAWA, Ont., July 7.—After nearly a month's debate the Canadian commons tonight approved by a vote of 158 to 54 the principle of the mobilization act amendment, which will remove legal barriers to sending Canadian conscripts overseas for military service. Nearly 50 French speaking Quebec Liberals voted against the measure.

It does not enact the principle of conscription for overseas, however. Such enactment will come by direct cabinet action if and when it is deemed necessary, Prime Minister Mackenzie King said tonight.

The prime minister announced that the administration was ready to conscript both men and wealth if that should prove necessary in the war.

RUSSIA ADMITS A NEW RETREAT NEAR VORONEZH

Calls Nazis' Losses 'Enormous.'

MOSCOW, July 8 [Wednesday]—(AP).—The Red army has withdrawn again before the smashing German drive in the Don river basin aimed at Voronezh, an important city on the vital Moscow-Rostov railway, the soviet midnight communique said today.

Before this communique was issued, the Russians acknowledged that the Germans had streamed across the upper Don and had plunged eastward into the steppes of Voronezh province in the deepest penetration of the war into soviet soil.

Call Advance Dire Threat.

This penetration menaced the main rail link between Russia's central and southern armies in the direst threat since the Nazis thundered at the gates of Moscow last December.

[The German high command said the city of Voronezh had fallen in a drive 130 miles east of Kursk and 60 miles beyond the high water mark of Germany's 1941 advance. From Voronezh, the German command said, the advance was continuing toward Povorino on a secondary Moscow-to-Caucasus railway connection 140 miles farther east.]

The Red army's midnight communique said the main force of the German attack was "west of Voronezh" and around Staryi Oskol, 65 miles to the southwest.

The communique referred especially to heavy tank and infantry attacks in the vicinity of Staryi Oskol, where the Germans were driving still deeper into the Don basin.

Retire to New Lines.

Red army forces in that sector "retired to previously prepared defense lines" after a smashing attack by 200 German tanks and a large infantry force.

Commenting on the violence of the fighting, the communique said: "Eighty German tanks were disabled. Enormous losses were likewise sustained by enemy infantry. Our men mowed down the Hitlerites by point-blank machine gun, automatic rifle, and rifle fire."

Another battle was said to be continuing west of Voronezh, an industrial city east of the Don with a peacetime population of 212,000.

Reds Evacuate Towns.

Earlier in the day the Russians announced that their Don river defense line had been rolled back west of Voronezh by sheer weight of German men and metal.

"Our troops evacuated a number of populated places," that communique said.

Timed with the drive east toward Voronezh from Kursk, 280 miles south of Moscow, was a supporting German thrust northeast from Belgorod, south of Kursk, into the Staryi Oskol region.

Thus the attack formed a triangle midway between Moscow and Rostov with its point driven across the Don toward Voronezh.

Demolish Hundreds of Tanks.

A Tass news agency correspondent reported that every foot of the German advance into the ravine-cut chalk hills of western Voronezh was over the piled bodies of Nazi dead. He wrote that six trains totaling 247 cars had taken German wounded back from the Don river battle zone alone, yet still new troops surged on in their places.

Tanks, the rolling forward wall of the Nazi offensive, were demolished by the hundreds. In one sector German infantrymen marched in massed ranks, shoulder to shoulder, to death in an ambushing cross-fire of machine guns and mortars.

Particularly heavy was the toll the Germans paid for their foothold on the east bank of the Don.

Russian tanks and guns which lined the bank smashed attempt after attempt to cross the navigable stream. Almost 100 tanks which the Germans first got across the river were boxed in by tank and artillery fire and destroyed.

Bomb German Columns.

Even when Russian defenses had been pushed back from the river's bank, Russian bombers "wrought chaos" among the crowded columns of German troops and trucks backed up west of the river, waiting to take their turn at attempting the crossing under the shower of bombs and long range shelling.

Red Star, newspaper of the soviet army, said the battle made clear that "the danger hanging over our country is not dispelled and the threat to the independence, freedom, and very existence of the people of the soviet union still remains."

Russian dispatches told also of an increase in activity on the Kalinin front northwest of Moscow.

Pravda, the Communist party newspaper, said the Germans hurled a full division into a thrust in this region. One regiment was said to have wedged into Russian defense lines in the wake of a tank attack. Pravda reported that the infantry was cut off from the tanks and wiped out, and said the tanks withdrew after 12 of them were destroyed.

Report Red Counterattack.

LONDON, July 7 (AP).—Reuters quoted the Vichy news agency today as reporting the Russians had launched a violent counteroffensive at Izyum and Kupyansk on the southern flank of the Ukraine battlefront and had pushed the Germans back across the Krasnaya river.

Here Is German Story.

BERLIN, July 7 [from German broadcasts]—(AP).—The German high command announced today the capture of Voronezh, 10 miles east of the upper Don river, important center of the main Moscow-Rostov rail line running northward from the Caucasus oil fields.

The communique said one division destroyed 61 soviet tanks and that "enemy counterattacks have been defeated. The number of prisoners and amount of booty are continually increasing."

Nazi planes ranging far behind the Russian lines were declared to have dealt shattering blows to Red army supply lines.

Claim Success Near Rzhev.

In another violent eruption of fighting, the high command said the Russians were thrown from their positions "on a broad front" in the Rzhev area, 120 miles northwest of Moscow.

[Rzhev, to which the Germans clung thruout the winter, is the closest point to Moscow now held by the Nazis. Action on a broad front there may mean the beginning of a gigantic pincers movement aimed at Moscow, with the Nazis ultimately wheeling northward from the Voronezh area.]

The communique said the Russians started an offensive of their own above Orel, in the sector about midway between Moscow and Kharkov, and counterattacking Germans knocked out 22 soviet tanks. Hard fighting was reported still in progress there.

In Monday's aerial fighting the Germans listed 96 Russian planes destroyed against only two of their own.

Two soviet submarines have been sunk, the high command said, one by Nazi bombing planes in Black sea waters off the Crimea and the other in the Gulf of Finland by a minesweeper.

HUNGARY WARNS RUMANIA: 'OUR ARMY IS THE BEST'

ISTANBUL, Turkey, July 6 [Delayed]—(AP).—The Hungarian radio today warned Rumania and Slovakia that "the Hungarian army is the best in southeastern Europe and we remind small nations with imperialistic designs that they stand to lose their own territories."

"Hungary resents publications of Rumania and Slovakia," the Budapest broadcast went on in reviving the long smouldering territorial quarrel between the axis satellites. "If Hungary faces a threat to her honor she will know what to do."

The Turkish radio said this tirade was touched off by statements of the Rumanian and Slovak press and radio that Hungary was their "common enemy."

Hungary and Rumania have been at odds since the German dictated award of a large slice of Transylvania to Hungary, and Slovakia recently renewed demands for return of territory Hungary got in the break-up of Czecho-Slovakia.

Concentration of armed forces and speeding of fortifications along the frontiers of the three countries were reported.

Forecast Military Tieup Between U. S., De Gaulle

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, July 7.—A link between the United States and the "Free French" fighting forces will be provided soon by the appointment of official American military and naval delegates to Gen. Charles De Gaulle's London headquarters, diplomatic observers said tonight. Arrangements are also being made for an exchange of broadcasts between De Gaulle and Gen. John J. Pershing on July 14, French national day, it was said.

SINK U. S. CRUISER AND 28 SHIPS IN ARCTIC—GERMANY

Battle Still Going On, Says Hitler Communique.

BERLIN, July 7 [from German broadcasts]—(AP).—The Germans today reported the sinking of an American heavy cruiser and 28 merchantmen out of a convoy in arctic waters between Spitsbergen and the Norwegian North cape.

[There was no confirmation of the German claim from any other source. In the last previous big arctic convoy battle the Germans said they sank 18 allied ships, when actually six were sunk.]

Reports Big Naval Escort.

A special announcement from Adolf Hitler's headquarters said the convoy consisted of 38 merchant ships carrying planes, tanks, ammunition, and food supplies bound for Archangel, Russia, with a heavy escort of allied warships.

The attacks upon the convoy started on July 2 in arctic waters 300 to 400 miles off the north Norwegian coast. The convoy escort was said by the Germans to have included battleships, cruisers, destroyers, and corvettes.

"Battle Still Going On."

"In close coöperation, German submarines and air formations sank a heavy American cruiser and 19 merchantmen totaling 122,000 tons," the announcement said. "Submarines sank nine ships totaling 70,400, making a grand total of 28 ships of 192,400 tons.

"The remaining vessels were dispersed. The battle still is going on.

"German Red Cross planes rescued a number of American sailors."

BRITAIN REVEALS AERIAL WIRE TRAP TO CURB RAIDERS

LONDON, July 7 (AP).—Wire-trailing rockets were disclosed officially today as one of Britain's newest weapons of defense against aerial raiders. The weapon, which has been in use to protect merchant ships for more than a year, was described as an apparatus which shoots a projectile that opens into a parachute from which long wires dangle. The rockets, fired up as planes swoop to attack, often force them to veer off course or risk entanglement in the wires.

A last minute censorship was clamped down on the disclosure of another development in Britain's anti-aircraft defense after the London Daily Mail had protested against the revelation.

Details of the new secret weapon, the result of five years of experimentation, had been released for morning newspapers when the censorship was imposed with the explanation that "new instructions have been issued."

The device, it was said, has already been used successfuly against enemy raiders.

NAZIS SAY THEY CAPTURED 430,000 AT SEVASTOPOL

BERLIN, July 7 [from German broadcasts]—(AP).—A special report by the German high command today said that Crimean operations from Sept. 21, 1941, to the fall of Sevastopol cost the Russians 430,000 prisoners, 1,198 tanks, and 2,102 guns.

In the heavy fighting for Sevastopol from June 7 to July 4 the Russians lost 30,000 to 40,000 dead, the high command said.

Total German losses in the same period were listed at 872 officers and 23,239 men. These included 190 officers and 4,147 men killed; 11 officers, 1,580 men missing, and the remainder wounded.

Between June 2 and July 4 the Russians lost 123 planes in aerial combat and 18 on the ground, while German losses were 31, it was stated.

Soviet naval losses were listed as four destroyers, four submarines, two 10,000 ton steamers, one 5,000 ton transport, two smaller transports, and numerous coastal vessels and freighters.

MARTHA BARKLEY RYAN.

Santa Fe, N. M., July 7 (AP).—A divorce decree obtained here last Nov. 21 by Basil A. [Pat] Ryan, grandson of the late New York copper magnate, Thomas Fortune Ryan, has been set aside by the District court and a substitute decree granted awarding his ex-wife, Martha Barkley Ryan, a cash settlement of $30,000. The new decree was issued late yesterday by Judge David Chavez Jr. and disclosed today.

The original decree was granted Ryan without settlement in an uncontested suit, in which he alleged that advertisment of the pending action and notices to his wife's last known address went unanswered.

Ryan married Miss Barkley in 1937. A receiver appointed for Ryan's New York property on petition of his wife in 1938 reported he was unable to find any property owned by Ryan, reputed heir to a $1,200,000 trust fund. Mrs. Ryan was granted a separation in New York July 18, 1938, with $833.33 monthly separate maintenance.

SAILORS THRIVE IN SEA BATTLE, JOHNSTON SAYS

Stanley Johnston, Tribune war correspondent who was the only reporter aboard the aircraft carrier Lexington in the Coral sea battle, last night told a Lake Forest audience of 800 that most of "our boys actually put on weight in that battle."

He spoke at a benefit given at the Deerpath theater in Lake Forest for the Peacock camp for crippled children in Lake Villa. Among the guests were 22 handicapped girls from the camp. Proceeds of the lecture amounted to $1,800.

"It is very interesting to me to talk to parents of the young men who took part in that battle," Johnston said. "The parents are unable to understand how in such a short time their sons were transformed into such splendid and vicious fighters. It's the American spirit. After the battle they were the same as before."

Johnston was introduced by Lieut. Comm. John C. Clarkson of Great Lakes Naval Training station.

ENGINE EXPLODES AFTER WRECK, KILLS 2, HURTS 20

Williamson, W. Va., July 7 (AP).—A Norfolk and Western coal train smashed into a line of loaded cars waiting to be switched near Nolan tonight, derailing the engine which exploded and killed two men and injured some 20 bystanders.

The explosion demolished a house and wrecked several automobiles belonging to persons who had gathered at the scene of the wreck, nine miles northwest of here.

The dead were identified as John W. Baber, the engineer, of Portsmouth, O., and Allen Maynard, 37 years old, of Nolan.

Baber, apparently the only person injured when the engine and several cars were derailed, was killed several minutes later by the explosion as he was returning to the wreckage to warn bystanders away.

601 More Service Pins Sold; Total Nears 60,000

The sale yesterday of 601 service pins at the Tribune's public service office at 1 South Dearborn street and in Tribune Tower brought the total of pins sold to 59,852. In New York City, the New York Daily News sold 2,380 of the same type of pins to bring the total sales there to 38,136. Any profits from the sales are turned over to the United Service organizations.

A WOMAN EDITOR PRINTS A STORY ABOUT MACLEISH

Follows Poet's Attack on Her Patriotism.

BY WILLIAM FULTON.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, July 7.—Eleanor Patterson, publisher of the Washington, D. C., Times-Herald, has taken another devastating verbal poke at a political pink who had the temerity to question her patriotism. Her current effort is aimed at "The Bald Bard of Balderdash, Archibald MacLeish."

A poet by trade, MacLeish until recently was riding herd on the American press as head of the Office of Facts and Figures. The Washington paper, like THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE, was singled out for attack by MacLeish and his OFF hacks, because it was demanding an all-out effort to win the war, even tho some political careers had to be sacrificed.

MacLeish was taken apart in a full page layout in Sunday's edition of The Times-Herald. Written under the name of Georgiana X. Preston, this was another in the paper's series on "Having a Wonderful Time" people who are attacking noninterventionist papers and individuals opposed to sending an ill-prepared country into the war prior to Pearl Harbor.

Names Leaders in Group.

"You have heard of the whole crew, no doubt—" said the Times-Herald.

"Henry Robinson Luce, the tycoon of Time-Life-Fortune; Marshall Field III., the 'world's richest boy,' who got bored with being a woman-dominated dilettante and was rapidly developing complexes until a psychoanalyst showed him the way out; Walter Winchell, the hero of the night, who would rather preen than fight; George and Dorothy Backer, the smear artists of the New York Post; Ralph Ingersoll, the congenital show-off, and loudest of all—because he felt his whole career depended upon it—the baldish poet, Archibald MacLeish."

"They all sang, and are still singing, the same refrain: 'Joe Doakes is an isolationist! He's a traitor! Joe Doakes doesn't want America to win the war! He's an agent of the Axis!'"

Luce and Field had previously been polished off in the newspaper.

Displeased by New Setup.

In its story on MacLeish, the Times-Herald said America had another reason for celebrating the Declaration of Independence on the Fourth of July. That was the hoisting of the poet-propagandist out of business as "mouthpiece in chief for the nation's hate dispensers," and appointment of a new head of the newly created Office of War Information.

"MacLeish, his spiritual pants badly singed, if not on fire," reported the Times-Herald, "scurried around for some cooling salve, but none was to be found. The joyful whizzbang also demolished his Office of Facts and Figures, and no one—save the array of literary floosies engaged in turning out its hate at salaries equivalent to those of major generals—had a tear to shed at its disappearance.

"Today the Office of Facts and Figures is one with Nineveh and Tyre, as we say around the Poetry, Chowder and Marching club. Even President Roosevelt, who created the thing, couldn't stomach it any longer. Comes tomorrow and in its place will appear the new Office of War Information with real, working journalist and writer, Elmer Davis, at its head."

Still Librarian of Congress.

The poet-propagandist will return to his old $10,000 a year post as librarian of congress, but the Times-Herald suggested mildly that "the way he has been bouncing around lately, he should be picked up in the scrap rubber campaign."

"The avowed purpose of the OFF, which was financed out of President Roosevelt's blank check appropriations without accountability to congress, was to keep the nation informed," the story went on.

"At that time, if you can remember back so far, the United States was not at war, and there were many sincere, loyal Americans who felt it might be a good idea to get better prepared before we jumped into anything.

"The majority of these Americans were united in urging that this country prepare itself to the hilt, reënforce all its outlying bastions wherever reënforcible, and get as many well trained young warriors together as time permitted. To these Americans, it seemed sincerely, the only sensible thing to do.

Attacked by MacLeish.

"But MacLeish proceeded to put them straight. Giving a preview of the press agent of discord, disunity, and hate he was to become later, he issued blast after blast to the effect that these adherents of greater preparedness represented a fiendish plot to throw this country to Hitler."

And, incidentally, the Times-Herald remarked, MacLeish himself had been known in the past as an out and out pacifist.

"We don't suppose you ever read any of his poetry [unless you got an autographed copy from him for Christmas, heaven forbid], but if you can get an interpreter to translate some of the passages you will see he devoted himself at length to war is beastly and always in vain stuff," said the story.

Questioned About War.

It was pointed out that on Oct. 16, 1940, Margaret Frakes, in an article on MacLeish in the Christian Century, headed "From Philip Sober to Philip Drunk," recalled that back in 1935 when anybody could be popular by opposing United States entry into war, the editors of Modern Monthly had asked the poet three questions. The questions and answers ran as follows:

"Q.—What will you do when the United States goes to war? A.—[By MacLeish].—I should do everything in my power to prevent the United States going to war, under any circumstance.

"Q.—Will your decision be altered if soviet Russia is an ally of the United States in a war with Japan? A.—No.

"Q.—Would a prospective victory by Hitler over most of Europe move you to urge United States participation in opposition to Germany in order to prevent such a catastrophe? A.—No."

About this time, MacLeish was running around with the Communists and was their intellectual darling. The Times-Herald recalled that in June of 1937 MacLeish was elected vice president of the Communist controled League of American Writers. He appeared on the same platform with Earl Browder, jailbird national secretary of the party, and warmly introduced Browder to the gathering.

Quote His Poetry.

Probably the most devastating thing the Times-Herald did to MacLeish in its portrait of him, however, was to quote his poetry.

"A short time ago we happened to overhear a group of earnest intellectuals in discourse," said the Times-Herald. "One of them remarked he had been at a gathering the night before arranged to save the magazine Poetry from extinction, at which MacLeish had read some of his works.

"'You mean,' demanded another, incredulously, 'that you actually paid money to hear MacLeish read his tripe?'

"'Heaven help me,' admitted the first, 'I did.'

"'Would you,' asked the other, 'be interested in buying an opium layout?'

Decides to Print an Example.

"Because of consideration for the stomachs of our readers, if not for their reason, we had originally intended to omit any samples of MacLeish's poetry from this piece. But, on second thought, it seemed only fair to include a couple. Besides, it's probably the only time you'll ever read any. Here is one:

The gears turn: twitter: are Still now. The sound dies.
From the east with the sun's rising
Daily are fewer whistles:
Many mornings listening
One less or two.

"This is not a contest. We are giving positively no prize for supplying the meaning. How about this one:

America is West and the wind blowing
America is a great word and the snow
A way, a white bird, the rain falling
A shining thing in the mind

Has a Try at It.

"Try it yourself some time. We did and it's easy after a couple of attempts. We did this one, right out of our own head:

Across the veil of morning
Rent are the stars. Distraught
Am I. In the trees
The adder sings. Ah, woe
Please stop, desist, and ceash!
Nor give my love to Archibald MacLeish.

Finally, the Times-Herald reported, MacLeish decided that millions of readers had formed a plot never to read his stuff and so he had to descend to paying prose. He went to work for Henry Luce's Fortune magazine. From there he went to Harvard where he shepherded scholars around and eventually followed the trail of so many Harvard professors to Washington.

ASSERTS NAZIS EXECUTE 10,000 CZECHS IN PRAGUE

ANKARA, Turkey, July 6 [Delayed]—(AP).—Ten thousand Czechs have been killed since Reinhard Heydrich was assassinated in Prague early in June and 25,000 German soldiers, assisted by 100,000 secret police, are working to halt sabotage in Czecho-Slovakia, a German arrival told German residents here today.

Germany is sending thousands of workers and establishing many new war factories in Czecho-Slovakia since the heavy British raids on German industrial towns, he said. Sabotage in Czecho-Slovakia was reported constantly increasing and bands of marauders are operating from forests around Prague, it was stated.

Travelers reaching Turkey reported that hotels in Vienna and Prague have been taken over as hospitals for German wounded from Russia and convalescents have been ordered to remain inside, as too many soldiers with disfigured faces and amputated limbs have shocked the public.

ROOSEVELT AVOIDS JOINING CONTROVERSY ON CHANDLER'S POOL

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., July 7.—President Roosevelt today sidestepped involvement in the bitter Kentucky senatorial primary battle between Sen. Albert B. [Happy] Chandler and John Young Brown as a senate committee prepared to investigate the building of the senator's swimming pool, which has figured in the campaign.

Mr. Roosevelt declined to comment on the announcement of Sen. Harry S. Truman [D., Mo.] that he is sending an investigator to Louisville to investigate the building of the pool for his colleague by a war contractor.

Mr. Roosevelt was asked about a statement of Brown's that he had sent the President a file of charges against Chandler which would make the chief executive decide that Chandler was not the sort of man who should represent Kentucky in the senate.

Mr. Roosevelt dodged the issue by saying his questioner would have to ask "Mac," because he comes from there. The reference was to White House Secretary Marvin H. McIntyre, a native of Kentucky. McIntyre had nothing to say.

BATTLESHIPS NOT OBSOLETE, WARNS BRITISH OFFICER

[By wireless to the New York Times and The Chicago Tribune.]

LONDON, July 7.—A warning against premature consignment of the battleship to obsolescence was sounded today by Commander H. Pursey of the British navy, in Brassey's naval annual. Commander Pursey concluded that planes have "proven more of an asset to sea power than a counter to it." In his defense of the battleship, he said the British navy has "countered or defeated more air attacks than have been successful" and "scored more successes with aircraft than the three axis powers combined," adding:

"Nothing in this war has justified the argument that the battleship has been rendered obsolete by the advent of aircraft, or that aircraft can replace any type of warship or perform its task. Like the submarine, it can attack an enemy in conditions where ships cannot and for this and other reasons the aircraft is a valuable, essential, and integral part of any modern navy.

"But, like all other forms of war machines, it has its limitations, antidotes to which, if used correctly, will defeat this latest of machines in sea warfare. . . . The main lesson of the war on the sea in regard to aircraft attack against ships is that, given adequate protection, the bomber or torpedo bomber can be defeated.

"But even the most modern capital ships . . . if left 'naked,' will suffer the same fate as an unarmored ship from shellfire and an unscreened vessel from a submarine attack. The capital ship must be free to perform her true function of engaging capital ships—or smaller fry—but other forms of attack below or above the sea must be countered by the correct antidotes. The battleship will then remain what she always has been—mistress of the seas."

REP. FORD RIPS PURGE FIGURE AS 'MALICIOUS LIAR'

Assails Kingdon for Hint of Racial Prejudice.

BY JOHN FISHER.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., July 7.—Rep. Leland M. Ford [R., Cal.] today took the floor of the house to denounce in vigorous language sly accusations of racial prejudice made against him by Frank Kingdon, president of the so-called Union for Democratic Action, which has been attempting a "purge" of congressional opponents of communism.

Rep. L. M. Ford.

Ford related that on a radio program Sunday night Kingdon described the congressman as "undemocratic and anti-Semitic." Reviewing his long record of actions on behalf of the Jewish people, Ford declared:

"I defy him [Kingdon] or any member of this house to find one word that I have stated in my whole service in congress, or any place else, to justify that statement. Therefore, my answer to this Frank Kingdon is that he is one of the lowest, dirtiest, most vicious and malicious liars that any foreign country has produced in years.

Not American Method.

"Perhaps it should not be said that this country produced him, for it did not. The onus is not on this country. This country never produced any such philosophy as he would attempt to put over under cover. This is the Hitler and European method, not the American."

The Dies committee on un-American activities recently issued a special report naming the "union" as the spearhead of a Communist inspired movement "aimed at destroying our representative form of government." The report charged that 27 leaders in the "union" were associated with a treasonable organization called the American League Against War and Fascism, which advocated sabotage of national defense in peace and in war.

One of these leaders listed was Movie Actor Melvyn Douglas, who is on the board of directors of the Union for Democratic Action. Douglas is also an official of the Office of Civilian Defense, heading the "volunteer talents division." In his denunciation of Kingdon, Rep. Ford, who is on the "purge" list, also had some pointed comments about Douglas and others of his ilk in Communist front organizations.

Told of Douglas Changing Name.

"This issue is now clear and clean-cut," said Ford. "I accept it. It is Americanism versus subversive interests. I take the American side and let every one of my enemies get on the other side. They are particularly aroused against me for my fight on Melvyn Douglas. In this fight I mentioned the fact that he changed his name from Hesselberg to Douglas.

"These character assassins say, because I mentioned the truth that Douglas did change his name from Hesselberg to Douglas, that I am anti-Jewish. This is the usual 'party line' procedure, to dodge the real issue and throw a smoke screen around it, for their own purposes."

Ford then recalled the record of Douglas' affiliation with Communist organizations and activities—how 191 American Legion posts denounced Douglas—alias Hesselberg—as a Communist front member; his refusal to read the Declaration of Independence on an American Legion program on Dec. 16, 1938, "because their program criticized the Communists"; his presence to greet Tom Mooney, late radical, when he was released from prison.

"Made Record Himself."

"This man Douglas has a long record," continued Ford. "In Los Angeles county he has carried on the fight for the Workers' alliance and many of the Red, radical activities, and has done this over the radio for some six or seven years. I did not make his record. He made it himself.

"I am going to ask the people of the United States a question. Do they really think that this Kingdon, Douglas, [Harry] Bridges, Helen Gahagan [Douglas' wife and Democratic national committeewoman from California], and all of these others who deny they are Communists, but still carry on the Communist program, are American patriots?

"Helen Gahagan, I am told, was the one who insisted that the Communist group be taken into the OCD after the chambers of commerce objected," said Ford. "This group knew that they could not beat me on my record, so they followed the Communist party line program of 'smear whenever you can.'

"That is the only reason they put forth the lie that I was anti-Semitic, and hoped that many of the Jewish people would believe their lie. My record on the immigration and naturalization committee will show that I have entered special bills for Jewish people under special conditions on immigration and naturalization."

He also cited appointments of Jews to West Point and as chaplains in the army in which he was instrumental. Ford also named many close friends of his among the Jewish race.

Wins a Divorce

HELGA MORAY.

Los Angeles, Cal., July 7 (AP).—A divorce was granted today to former Actress Helga Moray on her testimony that her film director husband, Tay Garnett, "sometimes would have a swimming party at 3 or 4 o'clock in the morning. He would wake me, and I would have to get out of bed to prepare food for the guests."

FUNDS SLASHED, NYA WILL CLOSE STATE OFFICES

Washington, D. C., July 7 (AP).—In a severe retrenchment to bring its activities into line with reduced appropriations, the National Youth administration today announced it will close all its state offices. Their functions will be taken over by 11 regional offices.

The local administrative units for New York City and the District of Columbia also will be closed. Between 9,000 and 10,000 employés will be dropped, NYA said.

The regional offices will be at Boston, Mass.; Harrisburg, Pa.; Charleston, W. Va.; Columbus, O.; Chicago; Atlanta, Ga.; St. Paul, Minn.; Topeka, Kas.; Austin, Tex.; Denver, Colo., and Los Angeles, Cal.

Congress cut the NYA appropriation from 151 million dollars for 1941-'42 to approximately 60 millions for 1942-'43.

RESTRICT ACTIVITIES.

Under the new NYA setup the Chicago office will serve as a center for Illinois, Wisconsin, and Indiana, Robert S. Richey, regional administrator, said yesterday. Only projects for training boys and girls for war industry jobs will be permitted under the curtailed program. About 10,000 youths in this area are being trained each month for war jobs, Richey said.

NAZIS BOMB AREA OF EAST BRITAIN FOR SECOND DAY

LONDON, July 8 [Wednesday]—(AP).—German planes early today flew over an area of northeast England for the second consecutive day. Incendiary and heavy explosive bombs were dropped on two districts, starting fires. Similarly, on the preceding night hundreds of incendiaries were dropped, starting numerous fires.

[The Germans said Middlesbrough on the English northeast coast was raided Monday night.]

A few enemy aircraft flew near the English south coast early today causing slight damage by machine gun fire. British bombers on Monday night laid mines in German waters.

RAF Bombs Jap Troops in Town of North Burma

RANKIN ASKS LAW TO TAX ESTATES SUCH AS FIELD'S

Deplores Writing Off of Business Losses.

BY WILLIAM STRAND.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., July 7.—A federal inheritance tax law thru which the government would be able to share in large fortunes bequeathed to their heirs of wealthy Americans was suggested in the house today by Rep. John E. Rankin [D., Miss.]. Under existing law, he explained, holders of the fortunes are permitted to write off large sums as business losses or otherwise dispose of their money to prevent the government from deriving any revenue from their wealth.

Rankin cited as an example the estate which soon will be turned over to Marshall Field III. which he said has been estimated as high as $200,000,000.

No Law to Reach It.

"At present we have no inheritance tax law that will reach it," said the Mississippian. "I am urging the ways and means committee to insert a provision in the present tax bill that will reach it. If that is done, the government will not only realize probably $150,000,000 or more out of the Field estate, but it will be able to reach other large fortunes that are now being pyramided and passed on to people who never earn a cent of it."

Rankin said he has made a personal inquiry into the terms of the will of Marshall Field's grandfather, proprietor of a Chicago department store. The present income tax and estate tax laws cannot be applied when Field takes full control of the estate upon reaching his 50th birthday, he explained, because they went into effect after the elder Field's death.

He noted that Field is publisher of the New York tabloid PM which, according to the published statement of its editor, Ralph Ingersoll, operates at a loss of $20,000 per week.

Charged Off as Loss.

"This money would otherwise go to pay the income taxes of Marshall Field III., if PM were to go out of business," Rankin told his colleagues. "As it is, it is charged off as a loss."

Members of congress have been aroused by the activities of PM, known among capital wags as the uptown edition of the Communist organ, the Daily Worker. The Field publication has led in the smear campaign being waged to "purge" three senators and 26 representatives from congress because of their opposition to the administration's foreign policy before Jap bombs began falling at Pearl Harbor.

It was the only paper in the country to reprint slanderous charges against Sen. David I. Walsh [D. Mass.], originally carried in the New York Post and later repudiated in a department of justice report.

"Brought Forth a Mouse."

Many members have assailed PM from the floor in recent weeks, but Rankin's denunciation was regarded as the most outspoken of them all. He referred to a prediction that PM would publish a story today that would shock the nation. The chamber roared when he said:

"Mr. Speaker, the mountain has labored and brought forth a mouse."

The so-called shocking story had already been widely read here and most of his colleagues knew that it was merely a complaint by Ingersoll, who is unmarried and of draft age, over being drafted. He charged that his local board is discriminating against him.

Field has asked the board to defer his editor on the ground that Ingersoll is indispensable to PM. Before the war, it was recalled, Ingersoll was one of the most loudly interventionist editors in the country.

The forecast that the PM story would shock the nation was made by Walter Winchell, a radio gossip monger, who is fighting the war in New York night clubs as a lieutenant commander in the navy.

"It certainly is shocking to read," said Rankin of the Ingersoll statement in PM. "It sounds like the whining confession of a draft dodger who is venting his spleen on the draft board for having refused to exempt him on the flimsy pretext that it is necessary for him to stay at home and publish PM.

"Ingersoll refers to his proposed enlistment as taking 'refuge in a uniform.' That's the first time I have ever heard of the uniform of this country being referred to as a 'refuge.'"

Tumbles a Mile

[Associated Press Wirephoto.]

Jerry Carter after she had slipped, rolled, tumbled, and bounced nearly a mile down Pike's Peak.

Dallas, Tex., July 7 (AP).—Miss Jerry Carter told today of falling down a mountainside for almost a mile—and then walking half a mile to meet a rescuing party which expected to find her body. Back home from a Colorado vacation, she said the accident occurred when she slipped on the ice on Pike's Peak July 5 and rolled, tumbled and bounced over the snow and rocks down the side of the mountain. She was painfully bruised and scratched.

COMMUNIST AID GOING TO PRISON, HAY FEVER OR NO

New York, July 7 [Special].—Robert William Wiener, or Welwel Warszower, financial secretary of the Communist party, must go to prison next Tuesday, hayfever or no hayfever, Federal Judge John C. Knox ruled today. The defendant, who was convicted of passport fraud and sentenced two years ago, has been free on bail pending appeals, and pleas based on the fact that he has heart disease. He received a sentence of two years.

Judge Knox had allowed Wiener his freedom while United States Attorney Mathias F. Correa sought to obtain his help in other investigations, but Correa found Wiener uncooperative, and finally, a month ago, Judge Knox warned him to speak up or go to jail. The plea that Wiener's hayfever might be bad for him if he went to prison was answered today by Correa with an offer to find a prison for Wiener which would be "out of the hayfever zone." Judge Knox said that would be all right.

Tiger Loose in Alexandria But It's Least of Worries

CAIRO, Egypt, July 7 (AP).—As if nightly air raid alarms and an enemy army some 70 miles away were not enough, a tiger broke loose from the Alexandria zoo today and headed for the city. Keepers' shots finished that menace.

INGERSOLL AGAIN AT DRAFT BOARD ON 1-A STATUS

Attributes Call to Arms on Hatred of PM.

New York, July 7 (AP).—Ralph M. Ingersoll, publisher-editor of the paper PM, appeared before his draft board for a rehearing on his 1A classification tonight—a few hours after he declared in an open letter that the board wanted him drafted "because it doesn't like PM."

The board said Ingersoll, whom PM's owner, Marshall Field, has called indispensable to the paper's continuance, would be notified of its ruling within 24 hours.

If the board stands by its decision, either Field or Ingersoll may appeal within 10 days. The matter finally may be placed before President Roosevelt.

Publisher Appealed.

Ingersoll was to have been inducted as a private June 24, but the induction was postponed to permit the board to reconsider upon representations made by Field, who appealed directly to Brig. Gen. Lewis B. Hershey, national selective service director.

Most of PM's page one headlines today were devoted to Ingersoll's letter and the following three pages contained the text with an explanation by the editor, who asserted in an editorial preface that he was ready to join the army or continue in his job.

"What I am kicking about," he added, "is the decision being made by a draft board which has betrayed prejudice in my case—apparently because it doesn't like PM."

Asks "Impartial Board."

He demanded that "an impartial board" handle his case, and listed a number of accusations against his board.

He said that at his hearing June 16 one of the board members said to him:

"'Don't you think it would be a fitting climax to PM's career to have it end with your being drafted into the army as a private?'"

He wrote that he also was asked if his competitors wouldn't "laugh if PM went out of business on account of your being inducted?"

McDermott Declines Comment.

Col. Arthur V. McDermott, New York City selective service director, asserting that selective service "does not try its cases in the newspapers," declined further comment.

It was on the recommendation of McDermott, who has reviewed all documents and testimony concerning Ingersoll's status, that the board held tonight's rehearing.

Ingersoll, 41 years old, said in his letter that he had told the board he had two dependents—a former wife "awaiting a very serious operation," and an "aged paralytic"—and that he had no capital and was in debt.

Sketches PM Activities.

Ingersoll said he had given the board a "fairly complete inventory" of what he considered PM's accomplishments in the war effort and added: "Many men would like to see PM out of business, regardless of its effectiveness in the war effort."

"Some would like PM killed because it has fought so furiously against America's enemies," he wrote. "It seems to me that a selective service board such as yours should take into account in its handling of the induction of PM's editor and publisher—lest, by intemperance or oversight—the board give comfort to those who are America's enemies as well as PM's."

At another point Ingersoll wrote that while he did not consider himself any braver than the next man, "I do submit the record that my critics were in their paneled offices writing vindictive editorials denouncing our President and the commander in chief of our armed forces for his awareness of the coming crisis and the steps he was taking to meet them—while I was already at the front as a journalist."

ROOSEVELT'S SUPPORT HANGS ON BACKING PRE-DEC. 7 POLICY

Washington, D. C., July 7 (AP).—President Roosevelt offered today to support any Democratic candidate for the governorship of New York who was a liberal chosen by state leaders and had supported the administration's war policies 100 per cent before Pearl Harbor.

Likewise, he predicted that such a nominee would beat Thomas E. Dewey, the leading Republican candidate.

Washington friends of United States Sen. James M. Mead immediately seized upon the qualifications as tailored to fit their candidate. Mead has declared he would not be a candidate, but his friends insisted he would accept if assured support of all factions.

URGES NATIONAL LOTTERY, CLOSING OF RACE TRACKS

A plan for a national daily, weekly, and monthly lottery, with prizes to be paid in war bonds, was suggested yesterday by George S. Lavin, Chicago attorney, as a means of raising 14 billion dollars a year for the federal government.

In a letter to President Roosevelt, Secretary of the Treasury Henry Morgenthau Jr., and the chairmen of the senate and house appropriations committees, Lavin urged the closing of all race tracks and other forms of gambling and the substitution of his lottery plan.

"The adoption of this plan will not only bring into the treasury billions of dollars but it will have the added advantage of stopping organized gambling and crime," the letter said. "It also will save huge quantities of rubber and gasoline that is now being burned up by race track patrons."

DEMAND CITY FIRE 3 IN WHITEWASH OF 4 POLICEMEN

Crime Commissioners Hit Civil Service Board.

BY JAMES DOHERTY.

Removal from office of the three members of the city civil service board was asked yesterday by the Chicago Crime commission, which denounced the recent whitewashing of four policemen of the gambling detail. The commission said the whitewashing established a new low in the standard of police efficiency in Chicago.

The three whose removal is demanded are Joseph B. Geary, chairman of the civil service commission, who is Democratic committeeman of the 4th ward; Wendell Green, Negro lawyer, apostate Republican and now a Democratic nominee for municipal judge; and William P. Ronan, a Board of Trade man recently appointed to his first public office.

"Violation of Public Trust."

The four policemen the crime commission charges were whitewashed are Capt. Martin E. McCormick, Sergt. Tom Lee, and Patrolmen Fred L. Trauth and James E. Kehoe. The four had been charged with inefficiency, neglect of duty, and making false official reports, and then suspended. They had separate hearings and a decision exonerating all of them was handed down last Friday. They were reinstated by Police Commissioner James P. Allman Monday.

"The civil service commission, by its decision in these cases, has shown itself incompetent and has violated a public trust," the commission, a voluntary organization of business men, charged in a public statement.

"There is only one remedy for the present situation—removal by the mayor of the members of the present civil service commission and the appointment of a new civil service commission composed of representative citizens who will protect the interests of the public.

Peril to Decent Government.

"The decision of the commission regarding the four policemen means that unless law enforcement is taken out of the hands of a politically controled civil service commission and a politically controled police department, decent local government in Chicago is impossible of attainment.

"It should be stressed upon the mayor by an articulate public opinion that politics in law enforcement agencies paid by the public to protect lives and property of its citizens will not be tolerated."

The statement was issued by Virgil W. Peterson, operating director of the Crime commission, after a meeting of its executive committee in the Union League club. Bertram J. Cahn, president of the commission, who had been in consultation with State's Attorney Thomas J. Courtney, presided over the meeting.

Director Peterson attended early sessions of the police trials and had detailed an observer to report on every feature of the hearings.

Decision Foreseen.

"The partial attitude displayed by the members of the civil service body thruout the hearings made it a foregone conclusion that, regardless of evidence reflecting gross incompetence, a whitewash decision would be rendered," the statement declared.

Of Chicago's gambling problems the commission asserted:

"Syndicate gambling is in the hands of the hoodlum and gangster; it is sordid; it corrupts our local government. It is one of the most lucrative forms of organized crime. This is evidenced by alleged incomes of $612,227.26 of William R. Skidmore [now in federal prison on charges of income tax invasion] and an alleged income of $2,437,220.94 in four years of William R. Johnson, who owned many gambling establishments in Chicago. [Johnson was sentenced for income tax evasion and then won a reversal, which the government is appealing before the United States Supreme court.] Like any kind of organized crime, it [syndicate gambling] can thrive only thru the protection or incompetence of public officials.

Importance Is Obvious.

"The importance to the gambling syndicate of placing men in office who will deliver protection is obvious. Huge funds are at its disposal to assist in assuring the election of their candidates. Where necessary the syndicate imposes terrorism and wholesale vote frauds at the polls. Syndicate gambling makes it possible for the gangster and hoodlum to exert unwarranted political power and control; it breeds lawlessness as reflected by numerous unsolved gang killings, attributed to the gambling syndicate. It is a strong factor in making democracy unworkable."

The statement discussed the makeup of the civil service commission, all members of which were appointed by Mayor Kelly. Green, the statement said, had been appointed as a Republican, in fulfilment of the law which specifies that the minority political party shall have representation. Green is at present violating the spirit of the law by holding the office, the crime commission statement declared, because he has since become a Democrat.

The business men's group said Geary, the Democratic ward committeeman, was so uninterested in the case against the four policemen that he attended only one session. Ronan, the report said, had taken no part in the proceedings. Attention was called to the fact that Attorney Thomas D. Nash, a Democratic leader and ward committeeman, defended the four policemen.

Tell of Secret Report.

The gist of the case against the four policemen was said to have concerned a secret report made by Policeman Trauth to Capt. McCormick on June 12, 1940, saying that 10 big downtown gambling resorts were operating full blast in the "regular rooms." McCormick admitted he had done nothing to suppress the 10 gambling resorts, the crime commission charged, and admitted also that he had concealed information from Commissioner Allman. The statement continued:

"The evidence with reference to this special confidential report is clear. It is admitted by Capt. McCormick that he instructed a confidential inquiry to be made on June 12, 1940; it is admitted by Capt. McCormick that he received a confidential report reflecting 10 gambling establishments operating in violation of the law on June 12, 1940; it is admitted by Capt. McCormick that he withheld this confidential report from Commissioner of Police James P. Allman, and which sets forth violations of the law within his primary jurisdiction. Capt. McCormick, armed with this information, did practically nothing about it, and in almost half of the places he required no more visits to the place by members of the 'morals division' for the balance of the year. Capt. McCormick, testifying in his own behalf, said he could not explain why men of the 'morals division' did not recheck these addresses."

In conclusion, the commission said, "We may win all the major battles of the war, but if we are unsuccessful on the home front and fail to rid our local governments of incompetence and corrupting influences, we can still lose the war."

Inquest Delayed

Mrs. Vienna Guzy as she attended inquest hearing yesterday.

The inquest into the slaying of Policeman Walter Storm of the Austin station who shot to death Eugene Guzy, paroled tavern bandit, in a gun duel Monday morning was continued yesterday by a coroner's jury to July 21. Witnesses offered no new evidence other than the stories told to police earlier.

Mrs. Vienna Guzy, 29 years old, wife of the slain gunman, testified that she had not seen her husband since Sunday and that she did not know anything about his activities. Other witnesses testified that four men, including Guzy, held up the tavern at 5143 North avenue and fought a gun duel with Policeman Storm, who entered the place during the holdup. The three men accompanying Guzy escaped.

Capt. George Homer of the Austin station released Mrs. Guzy after the inquest.

NAVY SEEKS LAW TO ADD GRADE OF AVIATION CADET

Washington, D. C., July 7 (AP).—James V. Forrestal, under-secretary of the navy, said today the navy proposes to enlist aviation cadets. Administration of the present law under which the secretary must approve all appointments of aviation cadets "is wholly impractical" under the expanded program, he said in a letter to Speaker Rayburn.

Forrestal said the present program for training aviators for the navy was based on accepting student aviators at the rate of 30,000 annually.

Forrestal submitted a draft of proposed legislation to establish in the naval reserve and marine corps reserve the special enlisted grade of aviation cadet.

Under the bill, aviation cadets on active duty would receive $75 a month, including extra pay for flying, and government life insurance amounting to $10,000.

HEAR BONDSMAN FOR POLICY GANG NAMED BY JURY

A true bill was reportetd to have been voted yesterday by the grand jury charging perjury against Robert Marcus, a professional bondsman. He was held in $2,500 bonds for trial.

On June 17 Marcus was a state's witness against 26 policy defendants in the Criminal court of Judge John Sbarbaro. The 26 were set free. At the trial Marcus controverted almost every statement he had made previously to the January grand jury, which indicted the 26.

In January he had testified, among other things, that the owners of policy wheels, whose names he gave, had called him whenever their employés were arrested and needed bail. In court on June 17 Marcus denied this. Two court reporters were witnesses against him before the grand jury.

REMOVE SHELL CAP FROM BRAIN OF U. S. AIRMAN

SOMEWHERE IN AUSTRALIA, July 8 [Wednesday]—(AP).—Two United States army surgeons, Maj. Joseph R. Dolce of Buffalo, N. Y., and Lieut. Mark Timkin of Beaver Dam, Wis., today were credited with a delicate brain operation which saved the life of Sergt. Clarence Hoehn of Munster, Tex.

Working in a field hospital the doctors removed the nose cap of a shell fired by a Japanese Zero [naval] fighter and also took out a piece of bone which was pressing upon the brain center.

Hoehn, tail gunner, of a bomber which was attacked by 20 Zeros for 40 minutes during allied raids on Lae, New Guinea, also was wounded severely in the thigh.

OPA TO DEMAND CUT IN CAR FARE BACK TO 7 CENTS

Will File a Petition with Commission Today.

BY LAURENCE BURD.

The federal Office of Price administration stepped into Chicago's local transportation field yesterday with a demand that the city's 8 cent street car fare be reduced to the 7 cent level which was in force prior to April 20.

Leon Henderson, head of the OPA, announced thru Alex Elson, regional OPA attorney, that a petition will be submitted to the Illinois Commerce commission today seeking the 1 cent reduction on the ground that the facts do not justify an 8 cent fare.

This action came while members of the street car men's union made preparations for a strike vote Friday. The union's contract with the surface lines has expired, and it is seeking a raise in pay. The call for a strike vote was approved Monday night at a meeting of 2,500 members of the union in Car Men's hall, Van Buren street and Ashland avenue.

"Temporary" Increase Granted.

The commerce commission, after eight months of hearings, granted the Chicago Surface Lines a "temporary" fare increase from 7 to 8 cents effective April 20. The commission is now holding hearings to determine whether the higher rate should be made permanent.

The OPA plea for a rate reduction was based on two chief arguments—that the increase in fares above the March level is contrary to the government's program to keep price ceilings at the March level, and that the surface lines' revenues will increase greatly even at the 7 cent level because thousands of automobile owners are being forced by the rubber shortage to use public carriers.

Called Contrary to Policy.

The petition did not contend that the boost to an 8 cent car fare was illegal under government price regulations, but stressed that it was counter to the government's general policy of trying to prevent a runaway price inflation. Public utility rates, which include local transportation fares, were specifically exempted from the price ceilings on goods and services set by OPA.

John D. Biggs, chairman of the commerce commission, and officials of the surface lines declined to comment on the OPA action, explaining that they had not seen the petition.

The wage contracts between the AFL street car men's local union, local 241, and the surface lines expired May 31. Negotiations then were opened with Walter J. Cummings, one of the receivers, for a new agreement. The men wanted a raise of 10 to 12 cents an hour, a hospitalization plan, and five days more of vacation each year.

Situation at Impasse.

There were repeated meetings between the union and the receivers. Early in June the union suggested that arbitrators be given the task of arranging a new agreement. It named Ald. James B. McDermott [14th] as its representative on such a board. According to the union, the company did not name any one.

At Monday night's meeting Joseph J. Kehoe, president of the union, told the men there had been no attempt by the company toward an agreement; that no arbitrator had been appointed, and that the situation had reached an impasse.

A resolution was adopted, to appear on the bulletin boards of all barns today, setting July 10 for a referendum on whether the men shall stop all work on July 15.

The resolution sets forth that if a "reasonable" offer is provided by the company, or an arbitration board set up before the deadline, the men will stay on the job.

VISITOR DIES IN COUNTY JAIL.

12 ARMY AIRMEN DIE IN CRASHES OF FOUR PLANES

Seven Killed in Georgia, Four in Iowa.

Twelve army officers and men were killed yesterday in the crashes of four army planes in the southern and middle western parts of the country. Two planes fell in Georgia, one crashing into a mountainside and the other plunging onto an army field, killing seven airmen. An Iowa hillside was the scene of another flaming crash in which four died. The fourth plane fell in Louisiana, killing a cadet.

Bomber Hits Mountain.

Trenton, Ga., July 7 (AP).—A four-motored army bomber of the B-24 type crashed and burned on a mountainside two miles north of here late today and Sheriff Grover Tatum of Dade county said all members of the crew were killed.

There were five men aboard the plane. Their bodies were burned and mangled beyond recognition. Army officials and military police from Fort Oglethorpe, a few miles east of the scene, took charge at once.

Pilots from Lovell field, Chattanooga, who came here soon after the crash, told Sheriff Tatum that clearance papers, partly destroyed, indicated that the bomber had been based at Barksdale field, Louisiana.

Four Killed in Iowa.

Sioux City, Ia., July 7 (AP).—A two motored army plane crashed into a hillside here this afternoon, killing its four occupants.

Three of the bodies were found 25 to 50 feet from the wreckage. Witnesses said the rip cords of their parachutes had been pulled, the three apparently having jumped before the plane struck.

The dead were identified as Lieut. Parker C. Everitt, Corporals Robert W. Shores and Joseph H. Plew, and Sergt. Jack Barr Jones, all of Spokane, Wash.

Killed in Georgia.

Macon, Ga., July 7 (AP).—Two army air corps officers were killed today when their plane crashed at Harris field. They were identified as Lieutenants John J. Offut, 30 years old, of New Castle, Pa., and Robert E. Adams, 22, of Huron, S. D. Army officials said the two were on a routine flight.

Cadet Dies in Crash.

Lake Charles, La., July 7 (AP).—Officials of the Lake Charles Army Flying school announced today that Aviation Cadet Jacob H. Neff of Lancaster, Pa., had been killed last midnight in a crash near Rayne, La.

SIXTEEN JAP BOMBERS STRIKE AT ISLE OFF NORTHEAST AUSTRALIA

GEN. MacARTHUR'S HEADQUARTERS, Australia, July 8 [Wednesday]—(AP).—Sixteen Japanese bombers attacked Horn Island, off the coast of Queensland in northeastern Australia on Tuesday, causing slight damage, Gen. Douglas MacArthur's headquarters reported today in a communiqué.

The text:

"Horn Island—Sixteen heavy bombers at high altitude attacked the airdrome. Damage was slight. There was intermittent air reconnaissance in other areas."

Horn Island is in the Torres strait between Australia's Cape York peninsula and New Guinea.

EDUCATION AIDS OPEN THREE DAY PARLEY AT U. OF C.

President Robert M. Hutchins of the University of Chicago announced yesterday the opening of a three day meeting of the twentieth annual Institute for Administrative Officers of Higher Institutions on the Chicago campus. Emphasis of discussion will be placed upon shifts in high schools and junior college programs to meet the needs of students not planning to continue their education because of the war.

Among today's speakers will be B. Lamar Johnson, dean of instruction and librarian at Stephens college, Columbia, Mo.; Leonard V. Koos, professor of education at the University of Chicago; Dean T. R. McConnell of the University of Minnesota; Mark Ellingson, president of the Rochester Athenaeum and Mechanics institute, and Lester Schloerb, director of occupational research of the Chicago Board of Education.

Speakers at later sessions will include President Edward C. Elliott of Purdue university, Dean William H. Spencer of Chicago's School of Business, President William P. Tolley of Allegheny college, and Earl J. McGrath, dean of administration at the University of Buffalo.

GIRL, 13, FIGHTS OFF KNIFEMAN'S RAPE ATTEMPT

Town Hall police yesterday were searching for a young man with a hunting knife who tried to rape a 13 year old girl after forcing her into an alley near Belle Plaine avenue and Broadway.

The young man accosted the girl on Broadway near Buena avenue and asked her to "deliver some money to that house there," pointing to a nearby apartment building. She caught a glimpse of the knife and screamed. The tough dragged her into the alley.

"I've done this before," he snarled, brandishing the knife. The girl, still screaming, fought and kicked her attacker and he fled.

GROUP OF JAPS AT SANTA ANITA STIR UP TROUBLE

Majority Is Well Behaved; Others Squelched.

BY CAPT. M. M. CORPENING.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Los Angeles, Cal., July 7.—Among the 18,500 Japanese in the luxurious reception center at Santa Anita race track, a small minority has been creating trouble with passive resistance to regulations, sit-down strikes, and subversive activities.

Following an announcement to this effect from the headquarters of Lieut. Gen. J. L. DeWitt, commander of the western defense area, this correspondent made a tour of this Japanese settlement. He saw plenty of evidence that most of the Japanese here are fully coöperative and seem to be patriotic Americans sincerely attempting to make the best of the situation.

The subversive activities referred to by Gen. DeWitt's headquarters included the holding of secret meetings wherein only the Japanese language was spoken. Meetings of any kind without permission are forbidden at the center and the exclusive use of the Japanese language in meetings is forbidden.

FBI Removes Leaders.

In an effort to halt the troublemaking, 11 Japanese [six aliens and five citizens] who were regarded as leaders in arranging the meeting and in stirring up a spirit of recalcitrancy were taken into custody by the FBI at the request of Gen. DeWitt and were removed from the camp to await federal prosecution. The action is the first of its kind since Japanese were evacuated from coastal military areas.

This correspondent was told that one offending Japanese defended his actions in a conversation with the FBI men as follows:

"You see the people [he was referring to aliens] will always remain Japanese. Inasmuch as they are deprived of citizenship in the United States, they will always be citizens of Japan. In one sense of the word they are prisoners of war, and as such their loyalty will be with Japan."

Most Work Voluntarily.

In contrast to this attitude, thousands of Japanese are voluntarily working at available tasks. They are paid for their work, the scale being $16 a month for professional services, $12 for skilled labor, and $8 for rough labor. This is in addition to the food and housing which all receive, and up to a $7.50 monthly script card given each family, good for food or merchandise at the canteen.

The community functions much like an ordinary city of 18,500 population except that life is better organized. There is a modern 150 bed hospital where an average of one baby a day is born. Japanese doctors perform operations and tend the sick in the hospital, assisted by Japanese nurses.

Provide for Religious Welfare.

Religious welfare of the internees is supervised by Buddhist priests, Protestant ministers, and Catholic priests. The first wedding has already been celebrated and there have been several funerals, carried out with Japanese ceremony.

The food is good. At the commissary department it was said that a single meal for the camp may involve as much as 18,000 eggs, 5,200 pounds of hamburger, and 5,000 pounds of rice.

There is no end of amusement and recreation available for all. In a stroll thru the grounds hundreds of little tots were seen playing with toys and coaster wagons, and adults playing cards and checkers and engaging in various outdoor games. Naturally great baseball fans, the Japanese have 87 league teams in Santa Anita. Recently, a crowd of 12,000 turned out for a wrestling match.

Schools have been established and are well attended. Those in search of education can find everything from kindergarten to college courses. Pianos are available for those with musical inclinations. Mail is not censored.

The manager of the camp told me visitors have accused him of coddling the Japanese. This is not true, he said. The Japanese are simply being treated fairly.

Saves a Life

[TRIBUNE Photo.]

Rebecca Sue Bryant, student nurse at St. Luke's hospital, with Franz Florian, whose life she saved.

Rebecca Sue Bryant, 18 years old, student nurse at St. Luke's hospital, was walking along the lake front at Jackson boulevard yesterday when she saw a man floundering in the water.

Without even removing her shoes, Nurse Bryant, one of the smallest girls in her class, jumped in after him. She seized the man, a 6 footer weighing about 200 pounds, around the waist and held him up for 10 minutes until help came. Drs. Ted Bennell and Howard Shreves, both of County hospital, who were in a small boat, tossed Miss Bryant a line and pulled them to safety.

The man was taken to St. Luke's hospital where he identified himself as Franz Florian, 53 years old, 1749 North Karlov avenue. He is the father of six children, he told police, and he recently lost his job as a cooper in a brewery

"I had given up hope and I tried to commit suicide," he said.

JAPANESE RAISE U. S. NAVY LOSSES AT PEARL HARBOR

New York, July 7 (AP).—The Tokio radio today broadcast a Japanese navy ministry announcement which said "complete results" of the Pearl Harbor attack were five United States battleships, two cruisers and one tanker sunk, and four battleships, six cruisers and two destroyers damaged. This is a total of 20 ships.

The figures, the latest in progressively advancing claims since the attack, compared with the actual losses which Secretary of the Navy Frank Knox announced on Dec. 15 as one battleship, three destroyers, a target ship and a minelayer lost and one battleship and a number of other vessels damaged. One of the destroyers listed as lost—the Shaw—subsequently was repaired and is back in service.

The Japanese in their first claim on Dec. 9 said two battleships and a minesweeper were sunk and four battleships and four cruisers were damaged, and still later went so far as to say the American fleet had been "wiped out."

The following statement was broadcast by Tokio today: "Japanese forces sank five battleships, including California, Maryland, Arizona, Oklahoma, and Utah types; two A class or B class cruisers and one oil tanker; heavily damaged three battleships, including California, Maryland, and Nevada types; two light cruisers and two destroyers, and particularly damaged one battleship of the Nevada type and four B class cruisers."

PRIZES OFFERED FRENCH TO SPEED 'BATTLE OF GRAIN'

Crop Prospects Gloomy; Hard Winter Seen.

BY DAVID DARRAH.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

VICHY, France, July 7.—Thruout the French countryside the "battle of grain" is being watched. Appeals are made to every one to help the farmers. There are many obstacles to getting in the crops, not the least being the lack of hands.

Crop prospects are less favorable than had been expected. Prizes are offered farmers to get the grain in as soon as possible to bridge the gap from last year's crop. No effort is made to disguise the fact that next winter is going to be hard. Food must be carefully husbanded, the French are told.

French hopes for the relief on a considerable scale of farmer prisoners held by the Germans were raised today when it was announced that George Scapini, France's blind ambassador for the prisoners, had gone to Berlin to stay until the end of July.

Workers Flow to Germany.

Chief of Government Pierre Laval told the nation on June 21, before his return from Paris to Vichy, that 5,000 prisoners already had been designated for release in compensation for the enlistment of French industrial workers to go to Germany and that more releases would follow in accordance with the movement of workers toward Germany.

The flow of workers is described as being on the increase, both from the occupied and unoccupied regions. The department of Normandy and the region of Marseilles are said to have dispatched contingents exceeding 2,000 each.

On the other hand, statistics given out by the center of information place the number of worker enlistments up to June 30 at 170,800. This would seem to indicate that in the 10 days following Laval's appeal only 10,000 workers had been signed up.

Laval Talks with Germans.

The announcement that Laval had had talks with the German authorities in France was a topic of interest in Vichy circles today. The situation in Egypt and Russia also tends to advance the Franco-German understanding. Posters appeared all over Vichy today calling England France's perennial enemy from the times of Joan of Arc.

Of other interest here is the visit of Gen. Alfonse Juin, commander of the French troops in North Africa, for conferences.

The movement of government functions to Paris continues. The latest to go is the French council of state which for two years has been installed at Royat near here.

FLAMES ROUT BOWLERS.

Fire started when a workman dropped a cigaret on the roof yesterday drove 50 bowlers out of the alleys operated by Edward W. Goranson at 3243 North avenue. Damage was estimated at $25.

DEFENDERS OF MALTA DESTROY 24 ENEMY PLANES IN 24 HOURS

VALETTA, Malta, July 7 (AP).—Royal air force fighters destroyed 24 enemy warplanes during the last 24 hours, the RAF reported in a special announcement tonight. In the last six days of intensified axis air raids 41 enemy aircraft have been shot down. The axis lost 15 planes in three attacks yesterday and nine in two raids this morning.

Anti-aircraft gunners used what were described unofficially as American shells, each of which produced a series of minor explosions after the major burst.

Claim 16 Planes Downed.

ROME, July 7 [from Italian broadcasts]—(AP).—The Italian high command said today 16 British planes had been destroyed by axis fighters and bombers and airdrome installations were hit repeatedly in a new attack upon the British Mediterranean Island of Malta. The Italians said their loss was three planes.

Haifa Sights Enemy Planes.

HAIFA, Palestine, July 8—[Wednesday]—(AP).—Enemy aircraft were sighted in the vicinity of Haifa early today and were engaged by anti-aircraft defenses.

Legion to Collect Records to Give Soldiers Music

Sixty-two thousand members of the Cook County Council of the American Legion and its auxiliary will begin a house-to-house canvass for old or broken phonograph records July 17, Arthur E. Canty, commander, announced yesterday. The old and broken discs will be sold for cash and new records and new record players will be purchased for service men at home and abroad. The drive will continue 17 days.

AIRMEN TAKE ON MAJOR ROLE IN EGYPTIAN BATTLE

British Drive Back Axis' Southern Flank.

BY SAM BREWER.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

CAIRO, Egypt, July 7.—Air forces were foremost in the last 24 hours' fighting on the western desert of Egypt, and the initiative still was definitely in British hands both on the ground and in the air.

Ground activity involved numerous small actions and widespread shelling by both sides. The rumble of guns never ceased all day and during the night was interrupted only at brief intervals. The deeper voice of bombs drowned out the guns periodically as shoals of planes unloaded their explosives on axis transport and fighting vehicles and concentrations as far to the axis rear as El Daba.

British mobile groups stung the enemy hard enough on his southern flank that Marshal Erwin Rommel had to pull back some forces and extend that flank westward to parallel the coast some 15 miles inland.

Meet British "Battle Groups."

Several axis columns prowling on the edges of British positions met British "battle groups" and were scattered. Battle groups are powerful mobile forces combining all types of weapons and are able to move rapidly to points where needed and hit hard once they get there.

American air forces coöperated with the British in what the RAF described as an "attack in force" on Bengazi in daylight despite a storm of anti-aircraft fire. Direct hits by an American crew on a supply ship in the harbor of Bengazi and fires on land were reported. Bengazi and Tobruk, which also is bombed frequently, are the chief ports thru which reënforcements could reach Rommel.

British reënforcements are arriving in a constant stream. I drove back from the desert past convoy after convoy of guns, tanks, ammunition, and men. They're all needed. They're rolling forward to join units pounding the Germans without letup and to increase the weight that has pressed the enemy back on the southern flank after halting the rush that carried him within 60 miles of Alexandria.

Damaged Tanks Repaired.

Damaged tanks are hauled back on huge carriers, many of them American made, and rapidly overhauled and put in order and sent back to rejoin the fight.

Nobody can say what Rommel's next move will be but it is evident that he has lost the momentum that carried him so far and so fast and it will take a serious effort to resume the offensive. It probably means waiting for fresh supplies and reënforcements and the British show no signs of letting up pressure enough for him to regroup and reorganize for a new attack.

The Egyptians are doing their part to prevent any disorganization behind the lines. Stringent measures have been taken against suspected fifth columnists. More than 200 have been imprisoned in the last couple weeks. The Royal Automobile club, one of Cairo's leading clubs, was padlocked because of defeatist and fifth column talk on the premises.

British Tanks Attack.

BERLIN, July 7 [from German broadcasts]—(AP).—Repeated British tank attacks in the El Alamein battle zone have been repulsed and 27 of the British tanks destroyed, the high command reported today on the fight for Egypt. [The German account was one of purely defensive operations on the land front.]

The high command said British troop concentrations and supplies were dive bombed and nine British planes were shot down.

Berlin broadcasts quoted unofficial sources as saying German fighter-bombers dropped explosives on an airport south of Alexandria and on the harbor of Suez yesterday.

U. S. ARMY, NAVY PLEDGED TO HURL JAPS FROM CHINA

Washington, D. C., July 7 (AP).—China's five year struggle was hailed today by American armed forces with an expression of determination to drive the Japanese invaders from "every foot of Chinese soil." In a joint order of the day read to all army and navy forces, Secretary of War Henry Stimson and Secretary Frank Knox of the navy saluted the Chinese as comrades in arms and said their tenacious courage was an "inspiration for all defenders of democracy on every front."

The exceptional order was issued on the anniversary of the 1937 attack on the Marco Polo bridge near Peking which touched off the struggle. The order said:

"Five years ago today the imperial Japanese government launched a brutal and unprovoked attack on the people of China. Lacking adaquate arms and other equipment, the leaders of China have nevertheless continued their gallant resistance for five years. Today they are fighting with a tenacity and courage which are an inspiration for all defenders of democracy on every front. Today the members of the army and navy of the United States salute their comrades in arms in China and join with them in the firm determination to expel the aggressor from every foot of Chinese soil."

Viscount Garmoyle Killed Fighting in Battle of Egypt

BRITAIN TO QUIT TRYING TO SELL ITSELF TO YANKS

Drops Propaganda Speakers as Harmful.

LONDON, July 7 (AP).—The house of commons cheered today as Brendan Bracken, minister of information, declared that "a high powered publicity mission instructed to force Britain down the throats of the American people" would do more harm than good, and that no more British lecturers would be sent to the United States because their efforts already had failed.

Brenda Bracken.

Bracken spoke in reply to criticism of Britain's propaganda effort from both right and left. Responding to complaints that he had sent "socialites" to propagandize in the United States, Bracken said he had laid down an "absolute rule" that no more lecturers be sent, explaining:

"They did so much more harm than any possible good that I thought they should stay home."

Finds 8 Per Cent Anti-British.

He added that a prominent American had estimated that less than 8 per cent of the American population was irreconcilably anti-British and "could only be cured by the undertaker."

Bracken disclosed also that he had created a political warfare executive to coördinate the work of many diverse propaganda agencies.

Bracken also reported that the royal air force had dropped 145,000,000 propaganda leaflets on enemy and enemy occupied territory during the first six months of 1942.

Defending the British Broadcasting company, which has semi-independent status altho government supported, Bracken called it "the largest and most trusted broadcasting instrument in the world." He said it reaches 200,000,000 listeners a week, adding:

"The axis powers look upon it as a mighty enemy. I don't want to manage the BBC, but I would be prepared to do so if it were ordered by the house."

$34,400,000 for Propaganda.

With some critics charging inefficiency and others alleging leftist tendencies in British propaganda services, Parliamentary Secretary Ernest Thurtle disclosed that Britain would spend about $34,400,000 on propaganda at home and abroad during the current fiscal year, an increase of $9,740,000 over last year.

Of the information ministry's budget, $16,000,000 was spent on publicity services, Thurtle said, with more than half going for overseas propaganda.

Thurtle said that postal and telegraph censorship, for which $12,000,000 was being spent annually, was now closely coördinated with that of the United States. This censorship, he said, has played "a notable part in dealing with activities of enemy agents, both in the United States and Central America."

Churchill Rules Officer in Field Shall Direct RAF

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, July 7.—Altho under separate command, the royal air force is subordinated to the direction of the army commander in the field where military operations are going on Prime Minister Churchill told the house of commons today. In the operations in Egypt, he said, he has ruled that Gen. Auchinleck shall select the targets and suggest what coördination is essential to the particular operations desired, leaving the air chief to determine how the job can best be carried out.

Used Car Prices Fall Off 75 Pct. in Gasless Britain

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, July 7.—Used car prices slumped today as a consequence of the recent discontinuance of the gasoline allowance for private motorists. Prices dropped as much as 75 per cent with no buyers because the cars probably will be immobilized for the duration of the war with the added possibility that the government may have to requisition the tires.

TELLS HOW A BRITISH SHIP FOUGHT BOMBERS 2 DAYS BEFORE SINKING

ALEXANDRIA, Egypt, June 16 [Delayed]—(AP).—Sidney James Beadell, former Associated Press photographer, now attached to the royal navy, took an unwanted bath in the Mediterranean tonight when the British cruiser Hermione was torpedoed under him. [Britain on Saturday announced the sinking of the Hermione and four destroyers in the Mediterranean on June 16.]

The 5,450 ton Hermione went down off Crete after beating off attacks by between 50 and 100 axis bombers for 48 hours. During this attack, the cruiser Newcastle was torpedoed, but made port without casualties. A torpedo struck the Hermione's boiler room and she started heeling over. Beadell said he was in the water 45 minutes before he clambered aboard a float with two other survivors.

"One had a flashlight and he was responsible for our rescue," Beadell said. "He kept flashing it and finally attracted the attention of a destroyer."

He said about 100 men were lost out of the Hermione's complement of 600. Capt. G. N. Oliver, the commander, had no life belt, but managed to swim to a float.

ASSERTS GREECE NEEDS 1,300 TONS OF GRAIN DAILY

BERNE, Switzerland, July 7 (AP).—Greece must receive grain at the rate of 1,300 tons daily, or about 39,000 tons until harvest time, if the Greeks are to have daily rations of six ounces of bread, the Swiss newspaper Neue Zuercher Zeitung said today.

Shipments of Swedish, Turkish, and Swiss grain under International Red Cross supervision permit bread rations of slightly less than six ounces for five days a week and about seven ounces twice a week.

There is little other food and the outlook for the coming harvest is discouraging, the paper said, adding that even vegetables and fruits are scarce.

American Sentry Acquitted in Fatal Bermuda Shooting

BERMUDA, July 7.—The Bermuda base command of the United States army announced today that Pvt. Sibley V. Pence had been acquitted of all charges at his general court martial in the death of Andrew M. Marek, United States base worker who was shot by Pence while the latter was on sentry duty June 8. Marek, the evidence showed, failed to halt when challenged.

NEW HEAD OF U. S. AIR FORCE UNIT HONORS 3 RAIDERS

Gen. Spaatz Decorates Yanks in July 4 Attack.

LONDON, July 7 (AP).—Maj. Gen. Carl [Toughie] Spaatz, a flying general who was a hero of the fledgling American air force in the World war, has been appointed commander in chief of the United States army air forces in the European theater of war.

Maj. Gen. Carl Spaatz.

Gen. Spaatz, a Pennsylvania redhead who has been in the army for 32 of his 51 years, has been in charge here since June. His appointment was announced only today as he conferred distinguished flying crosses on three American airmen who participated in the July 4 bombing of German-held Holland.

Those he decorated for the war's first American raid on German-held western Europe were Second Lieut. Randall M. Dorton Jr. of Long Beach, Cal., and Sergeants Robert L. Golay of Fredonia, Kas., and Bennie C. Cunningham of Tupelo, Miss. They were the crew of the Douglas Boston bomber piloted by Capt. Charles C. Kegelman of El Reno, Okla., who already has been awarded the distinguished service cross for bringing his plane home despite damage from German anti-aircraft fire so heavy that the machine actually fell to the ground.

Spaatz Decorated in World War.

Gen. Spaatz himself won the distinguished service cross for downing three German planes in September, 1918, during the St. Mihiel offensive.

Spaatz, graduated from West Point as an infantry lieutenant in 1914, transferred to flying in 1916 after service in Hawaii. He served on the Mexican border, then went to France as officer in charge of training at the aviation school at Issoudon.

After the war he led an army "flying circus" that toured the United States in connection with the Victory loan drive. Then followed periods as a pursuit commandant at Selfridge field, Michigan; as commandant at Mather field, California; Kelly fiield, Texas, and as air commandant for the 8th corps area.

Flight Was a Sensation.

On Jan. 1, 1929, Spaatz and a crew of four took off in the airplane Question Mark at Los Angeles to set a record for sustained flight. The plane was a trimotored Fokker transport, its three engines totaling only 675 horse power, its cruising speed 70 miles an hour. The men stayed up 150 hours 40 minutes and 15 seconds.

Spaatz, then a major, won the distinguished flying cross and proved his right to the nickname "Toughie," hung on him in West Point as the outstanding redhead of his class.

Studied Blitz on London.

Since then he has risen thru the grades as a bombardment commander, chief of the air force training and operations division, chief of the plans division, chief of materiel, assistant to the chief of the air forces, and chief of air staff.

During the worst of the London blitz in 1940, Spaatz and Brig. Gen. Ralph Royce of Philippines fame studied German air tactics at close range, often risking their lives.

Spaatz still rates as an active command pilot and combat observer. His command here includes all wings of the United States army air forces.

ONE MILLION JAPS SLAIN IN 5 YEARS OF WAR: CHINESE

1½ Million Wounded, Chungking Says.

CHUNGKING, China, July 7 (AP).—The Japanese have suffered casualties of 1,000,000 dead and 1,500,000 wounded in five years of war in China, an army spokesman said today. He spoke as the embattled Chinese went into the sixth year of their war, cheered by the blows struck recently by United States air forces against the Japanese invader.

The Chinese in addition have taken 29,924 prisoners during this five year period in which 14 major engagements and 10,375 minor engagements were fought, the spokesman said. He estimated that 900,000 Japanese troops were on duty in China and that the Japanese could put 1,000 planes into the air.

Japs Lose 2,504 Planes.

The five years of war in China, the spokesman said, have cost the Japanese 2,504 planes.

[In Tokio, imperial headquarters said the Japanese had inflicted more than 5,000,000 casualties on the Chinese in dead, wounded and missing, including 2,338,000 dead. The announcement said 111,111 Japanese have been killed in China.]

Today's Chinese communique said fighting was confined to Kiangsi and Chekiang provinces with no decisive developments, altho several towns changed hands. The main clashes appeared to be in the bulge south of the railway in eastern Kiangsi.

Thruout China, the start of the sixth year of war was marked with mass meetings, parades, and sports events. Presents were distributed to Chinese soldiers wherever possible. In Chungking, free shows were given for soldiers and policemen, and restaurants and shops reduced their prices for the occasion.

Chinese speakers everywhere reaffirmed the nation's determination to drive the Japanese from Chinese soil.

Japs Float War Loan.

TOKIO, July 7 [from Japanese broadcasts]—(AP).—On the occasion of the fifth anniversary of the conflict with China the Japanese government floated a 500,000,000 yen [about $118,000,000] war loan today.

Nazi News Agency Editor Dies in Egyptian Battle

BERLIN, July 7 [from German broadcasts]—(AP).—The death of Capt. Friedrich von Homeyer, editor in chief of the German news service, Transocean, during fighting July 3 on the North African front was announced today. He died at the head of a reconnaissance detachment.

INJURED BY CHAIN ON CRANE.

John B. Olk, 48 years old, 4808 South Winchester avenue, suffered injuries of the spine yesterday when he was struck by a chain on a crane at the Duffin Iron company, where he is employed.

WIN BACK BURMA AS AID TO CHINA, DR. KOO PLEADS

LONDON, July 7 (AP).—Dr. V. K. Wellington Koo, Chinese ambassador to London, said today the recapture of Burma by Britain "is imperative not only for continued and effective resistance by China but also for the strategy of the whole conflict."

"With Burma recovered China can become a base of operations to force Japan to disgorge her ill-gotten gains in the Philippines and elsewhere and can be equipped to aid Russia if she is attacked by the common enemy," he said.

He spoke at a meeting observing the fifth anniversary of the Chinese-Japanese war.

How an IMPATIENT MAN FROM WISCONSIN helped make Bowman Milk your best food at its best

One reason why Bowman Milk is so rich and flavorful is the plentiful amount of butterfat it contains . . . an amount always greater than the official standards set for fine milk.

The certainty that you will always get this extra quality in every glassful comes from a scientific test for butterfat content discovered in 1890 by Dr. S. M. Babcock of Wisconsin.

Impatient with the delays and inaccuracies of former tests, Dr. Babcock discovered that a certain acid would digest all the elements of milk except butterfat. By treating a sample of milk with this acid and spinning it in a centrifuge, he found that the exact amount of butterfat could be determined quickly and easily.

In improved form, this butterfat analysis is one of the 10 tests for richness, purity, and flavor which are applied to all Bowman Milk. It is one of the many ways that Bowman works hand in hand with science to see that your Bowman Milk is always your best food at its best.

DREAMY ILLINOIS TOWN GETS WAR 'SHOT' AND BOOMS

Five Weeks Makes Seneca Hum with Industry.

BY CHARLES LEAVELLE.

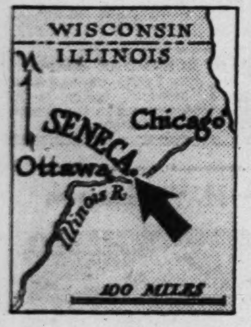
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Seneca, Ill., July 7.—This old river settlement probably is the last place in creation one would have picked for a prospective boom town. Yet, boomtown it is.



Arrow locates Seneca.

Up to five weeks ago these streets were undisturbed except by the mellow tones of steamboat whistles out on the Illinois river and the curt blast by which the daily streamliner acknowledges Seneca's existence.

Now, from dawn to dark the metallic rattle of riveting machines echoes thru the town. The thunder of heavy trucks shakes the dreaming old houses that line the tree shaded streets.

1,200 to 5,000 in Month.

Five weeks ago Seneca's population was 1,200. The black and white marker at the edge of town still carries this figure. Actually, Seneca's population is something over 5,000 and still is going up.

Down by the river a vast war production plant is rising and adjacent to it is rising the boomtown that will house its thousands of workers. Cement streets are being laid over night. There is a smell of yellow pine in the air.

There are long barracks of single rooms for bachelors and row upon row of pine buildings that contain two and three room efficiency apartments for married folk. Among these buildings rise what is left of a field of corn that was planted before contracts were let for the war plant and the boomtown.

Fastest U. S. Project.

This particular war project has grown faster, say officials in charge, than any other yet attempted. It represents a coördination of seven branches of the United States government. Only a few of these may be named.

The Federal Housing administration is building the barracks and apartments. Between the housing project and the war plant is a camp of 125 Farm Security administration trailers. More of them are on the way and will be set up as fast as the FSA can deliver them.

As they arriver their wheels are removed and sent to various parts of the country, so that these same tires may roll more trailers to Seneca. And this gives rise to one of the droll jokes one hears in Trailertown:

"It's a boom town on wheels, except that we haven't got no wheels."

Showers and Laundry.

There are master trailers which house administration offices, a laundry—where washing goes on 24 hours a day—showers, and sanitary facilities.

Power lines hang from yellow pine poles to supply trailer families with light and heat for cooking. Down the neatly spaced street one hears the soft accent of Georgians and Alabamans, the twang of Texans and Oklahomans.

"Most all our folks are from the south," the administrator says. "I don't know why it is, but they are."

A pretty school teacher emerges from a trailer with her class of kindergarten youngsters. She wonders what will be done about school facilities in the fall. Seneca's grade and high school have room for about 350 pupils and students. There will be almost 700 this fall.

Hotels Nearly Crowded.

By December there will be something like 1,000—almost as many people as there were in Seneca before the boom.

Hotels in all the country near by are crowded. Workers and officers of the armed forces are occupying hotels as far away as Ottawa and La Salle. One officer, on duty at the war plant, said he has to wait an hour for breakfast, an hour and a half for lunch, and gets dinner whenever he can [tho they call it supper in Seneca].

Work is beng speeded, however, on a cafeteria inside the war plant. It will seat several hundred at a time.

Seneca hardly knows what to make of the many deputy sheriffs who have been turned loose upon it. Seneca always has been a peaceful town and its police force is a nice fellow. The deputies, however, are concerned chiefly with Boomtown and Trailertown. The war plant is well taken care of by the Federal Bureau of Investigation and the intelligence branch of the armed force whose plant it is.

Some Sections Closed.

Many of Seneca's citizens think it passing strange that they now are barred from certain sections of the town they used to roam at will. But they take it in good spirits.

One citizen, looking down Union street in the direction of the war plant and the housing project, summed up the feeling of the town. He said:

"If Hitler knew what he had started he would crawl into his hole and stay there."

8 Die as Winter Tempest Sinks Ship in South Brazil

She is 22 years old. The Maid of Cotton will model fall clothes of cotton.

THREE STEAMERS SUNK BY SUBS OFF MOZAMBIQUE

LOURENCO MARQUES, Portuguese East Africa, July 7 (AP).—Three merchant ships were sunk in less than 24 hours in Mozambique channel today as submarine attacks were renewed just two weeks before diplomatic exchange ships repatriating United States citizens from Japan are due in these waters.

To previously announced torpedoings of one Norwegian and one Swedish ship, authorities tonight added a Greek vessel. One was abandoned by its crew and is now adrift in the channel. One lifeboat carrying part of the crew of the Greek ship reached the coast.

In the exchange of Japanese and American diplomats and citizens, the Swedish liner Gripsholm is scheduled to arrive here July 15 with Japanese nationals from the United States and South America. The Americans are due July 20 on the Italian liner Conte Verde and the Japanese Asama Maru. These vessels have been given free conduct and precautions have been taken to assure their safe passage.

NAVY AGREES TO TEST LIGHT BOAT IN WAR ON SUBS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., July 7.—The possibility of a "picket fence" of small boats to guard ships in American coastal waters from axis submarines was discussed tonight following disclosure that the navy has agreed to test one of the proposed sub fighters. Construction of 30,000 boats, to be armed with machine guns and depth charges, has been urged as a step in smashing the threat to merchant shipping.

The test boat will be built at the expense of the National Boat Builders' association, which found in a recent survey that 75 per cent of the construction facilities for small craft are lying idle and could be utilized for anti-submarine warfare.

W. G. Williams, secretary of the boat builders, said the vessel will be made from materials not needed for the arms program. Men not employed in war production and not of military age would be given the work of constructing them on a mass scale, he said. Approximately 3,000 could be produced in a month at a cost of $4,000 each. The cost of 2,000 would be about the same as for one modern destroyer.

U-BOAT SKIPPER KILLS 12, OFFERS TO SHAKE HANDS

destroyed when the vessel was torpedoed. The crew abandoned ship in the one remaining lifeboat and on two liferafts.

The submarine came to the surface and its commander told the survivors their position and the distance to the nearest land.

After talking with the survivors the U-boat skipper ordered his craft in among the floating debris and picked up some of the cases of cargo from the torpedoed ship.

The lifeboat towed the two rafts, on which there were 16 men, for two days and on the last two days all 29 crowded into the lifeboat. The survivors reached a Caribbean port seven days after their ship had been sunk.

U-Boat Survivors Reach Port.

CIUDAD TRUJILLO, Dominican Republic, July 7 (AP).—The newspaper La Nacion said today that the survivors of a United States vessel, torpedoed in the Atlantic 26 miles north of the Dominican Republic, had arrived at Samana in two seperate groups. It said there were 30 men in the crew of the vessel.

Nazis Tell Harbor Attack.

BERLIN, July 7 [from German broadcasts] — (AP). — DNB said today that the German submarine which torpedoed the American freighter San Pablo at Puerto Limon, Costa Rica, last Thursday night entered the port despite "harbor and air barrages and was able to leave unmolested."

Twenty-three men were reported to have been killed in the attack. The ship, which was chartered by the United Fruit company, sank two hours later.

CAPRICIOUS WIND PROVIDES A PAIR OF LAKE RESCUES

George A. Quinlan, Cook county superintendent of highways, was rescued by Wilmette coast guardsmen when his sailboat Mallard was knocked over by a gust of wind yesterday. Quinlan was tossed into the water half a mile off Wilmette harbor. His home is at 211 Greenleaf avenue in the suburb.

Earlier in the day, at 5 a. m., the same coast guard station received a call from a frantic father, Peter J. McGurk, 1634 Highland avenue, Wilmette. He reported that his son, Richard, president of the recent freshman class at Illinois college in Jacksonville, had been out since Monday night.

At daybreak a rescue launch found the missing sailboat five miles offshore. With young McGurk was Miss Mary Bruns, 19, of 1054 Seneca road, Wilmette, a freshman at Marymount college, N. Y. They had been becalmed, they said, and had only one oar.

FREIGHTER CREW HEROES TO GET SPECIAL MEDALS

Washington, D. C., July 7 (AP).—America's unsung heroes of the sea—the merchant marine sailors—are to be recognized with a special medal.

The maritime commission announced it has requested Paul Manship, New York sculptor and medal designer, to create a design for a distinguished service medal to be awarded merchant seamen for outstanding conduct or service in the line of duty.

Manship created the Woodrow Wilson memorial at the league of nations in Geneva.

Robber Continues Forays Against Clerks in Hotels

A robber who Monday morning held up seven clerks in six hotels on the north and west sides, yesterday morning made a return visit to one of them, the Wyndon, 828 Windsor avenue. He took $20 from the night clerk, Albert Dorsen. A few minutes later he held up Emil Thompson, clerk at 3750 Broadway, and got $40 more.

HEAR ARGENTINA TELLS SHIPS TO AVOID U. S. COAST

Action to Dodge Sub Danger Reported.

BUENOS AIRES, Argentina, July 7 (AP).—The Argentine naval ministry has ordered all its merchant ships to avoid eastern United States ports because of the axis submarine campaign, and the ships will dock at Gulf of Mexico points instead, a reliable authority said tonight.

In taking this action after two of her ships were torpedoed Argentina, which still maintains diplomatic relations with the axis, actually was conforming to a German announced blockade of the eastern United States coastline.

But this high Argentine source explained it this way instead:

That Germany had given Argentina the right to penetrate the so-called blockade zone, but Argentina did not want to accept this "special status" because she would appear to be acting in collusion with a non-American power.

"Measure of Precaution."

He said Argentina still insisted on her right of freedom of the seas, adding:

"This action does not signify acceptance of the blockade announced by Germany but is taken merely as a measure of precaution."

Germany announced a Nazi blockade zone of the eastern United States seaboard on June 15 effective June 26. Gulf of Mexico ports were not included.

Foreign Minister Enrique Ruiz Guinazu earlier had announced that the government's controversy with Germany over the axis sinking of the freighter Rio Tercero was a closed incident.

The Rio Tercero was torpedoed off the United States coast following the torpedoing of another Argentine ship, the Victoria. The Victoria did not sink.

Nazis Admit Responsibility.

Germany admitted responsibility for the Rio Tercero sinking only yesterday, saying the ship was not marked adequately. Germany refused an Argentine request that Germany make a ceremonial gesture of respect toward the Argentine flag, and Ruiz Guinazu said he would not press the matter.

After Germany admitted the sinking Argentina sent a new note to the Nazis promising to take further precautions. These "further precautions" now bar Argentine ships from the eastern United States coast.

Ruiz Guinazu made his statement on the Rio Tercero incident soon after Undersecretary of State Roberto Gache had conferred with Otto Meynen, German chargé d'affairs and present head of the embassy. United States Ambassador Norman Armour also conferred with Ruiz Guinazu.

Argentina Orders Census of Foreigners on Coasts

BUENOS AIRES, Argentina, July 7 (AP).—The Argentine government has ordered the governors of 10 territories to take a census of all foreigners living in coastal zones in a move related to national defense.

MEXICAN PLANES BOMB U-BOAT IN NATION'S FIRST BLOW AT AXIS

MEXICO CITY, July 7 (AP).—The army general staff reported tonight that a large oilslick on the Gulf of Mexico indicated that Mexican warplanes had at least damaged an enemy submarine outside the port of Tampico. It was Mexico's first blow against the axis since the declaration of war last month.

A squadron of naval patrol planes sighted what was believed to have been a submarine late Sunday about 25 miles north of Tampico. The planes made bombing dives, scoring what the pilots said they believed were numerous hits.

Speedboats of the marine division of the government oil administration were ordered to search for an oil slick or wreckage and patroled the area for two days.

U.S. ASKS 600,000 TYPEWRITERS OF PRIVATE OWNERS

Plan Seizures if Buying Drive Falls Down.

BY HAL FOUST.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., July 7.—The War Production board opened a drive today to buy 600,000 used typewriters from private owners for the use of governmental agencies, mainly the army and navy. Plans were laid for requisitioning, should the voluntary program fail to fill war requirements.

Donald M. Nelson, WPB chairman, addressed a letter to 25,000 of the country's largest users of typewriters, appealing to them in the name of patriotism to relinquish part of their office equipment. Accompanying the letter was a request from William M. Harris, chairman of the WPB office machinery and equipment procurement committee, asking for an inventory of all typewriters in the hands of these 25,000 concerns.

"Cheerful Coöperation" Asked.

"Your careful consideration and cheerful coöperation with this program is urgently solicited," Nelson's letter closed significantly, "so that the necessary procurement may be accomplished by purely voluntary means."

Used typewriters will be bought by typewriter dealers and manufacturers' representatives, who will act as buying agents for the procurement division of the United States treasury. Standard typewriters [not portables] made on and after Jan. 1, 1935, are wanted. Prices paid will be the factory trade-in allowance for such machines as of Feb. 1, 1941.

Harris said more typewriters are in the hands of private owners today than ever before, so that the war agencies should not want for this office equipment, notwithstanding a curtailment of production that soon will be a complete shutdown, with factories being converted to war jobs.

Suggest Night Shifts.

"Doesn't private industry need more typewriters to answer government questionnaires?" a reporter asked Harris, a former banker.

"Regardless," the WPB official replied, "the armed services have first call on this equipment. Corporations can spare typewriters by having typists share machines. Some typing now done in daytime could be done at night."

Minimum typewriter requirements, as submitted to WPB, are:

Army	446,502
Navy	199,096
Maritime Commission	12,600
Board of Economics Warfare [for Latin America]	47,390
Lend Lease	40,125
Other government departments	105,000
Total	850,713

About 250,000 new typewriters will be available out of present stocks and current production. That leaves approximately 600,000 used typewriters that must be acquired.

Bureaus Slash Demands.

Government agencies are cutting typewriter requirements as private industry is asked to do. The bureau of the budget is making a survey of machines in all departments so that army and navy combat services can get the best. The army has cut its requirements to 60 per cent of former standards and the navy recently cut its use of typewriters in half.

"The typewriters to be purchased from private owners," said Nelson's letter, "will be used not to increase the volume of paper work but to carry on the essential services of our vastly expanding fighting forces."

LUTHERANS PLAN TO OPEN 6 MORE SERVICE CENTERS

The opening of six additional Lutheran service men's centers was scheduled yesterday at a meeting of the army and navy commission of the Evangelical Lutheran Missouri synod in the Morrison hotel. After examinations, 15 Lutheran clergymen were endorsed for commissions as chaplains.

The new centers will be opened at Chanute Field, Rantoul, Abilene, Tex.; Fort Smith, Ark.; Austin, Tex.; Milwaukee, Wis., and Chicago.

Among the Lutheran clergymen approved as future chaplains before a board of five clergymen and two attorneys were two from Illinois: Herber Albrecht, 6424 Kimbark avenue, navy, and Herbert Paul Fogel of Kankakee, army.

FAVOR PROPOSAL FOR REMOVAL OF UNUSED TRACKS

The city council transportation committee yesterday recommended an ordinance directing the Chicago Surface Lines to take up abandoned street car tracks in 15 locations and sell the steel scrap to help the war program. Another proposed ordinance approved by the committee would authorize the scrapping of an unused railroad viaduct west of Wells street between Taylor and Polk streets.

Ald. James R. Quinn [50th], committee chairman, said 1,800 tons of steel are involved in these projects and that the surface lines have agreed to the track removals. Other track removals are being studied, he added.

The committee, on the recommendation of Philip Harrington, Chicagoland administrator of the Office of Defense Transportation, voted against the proposed tearing down of the Market street "L" stub to release 1,500 tons of steel for the war. Harrington said the stub may be needed to meet increasing "L" traffic.

Harrington also said a "public information" drive will be started July 19 to stress the need for changing modes of travel from "rubber to steel."

WARNS DRIVERS AGAINST BUYING STOLEN TIRES

Motorists who buy stolen tires are to be prosecuted as vigorously as the thieves, Capt. George Teeling, head of the police stolen auto detail, said yesterday. He announced that police had received reports of 707 tire thefts in June, nearly double the previous maximum in March.

In an effort to halt the rapidly developing "black market" in tires, Capt. Teeling warned motorists not to purchase any tires from any one without getting a bill of sale. He said 164 policement have been assigned to a special stolen tire detail. They daily will check tires on cars in garages, filling stations and parking lots and look for finger prints on cars from which tires have been stolen.

Some thieves have burned cars from which they have removed tires, thus destroying all finger prints.

OCD DISPUTES LA GUARDIA ON BLACK-OUT IDEAS

Washington, D. C., July 7 (AP).—The Office of Civilian Defense answered with an informal but emphatic "no" today the question raised in New York City as to whether it is permissible to smoke outdoors during black-outs.

The question arose when a large proportion of the 20,000 baseball fans at the Polo Grounds forced to sit thru a black-out drill after the All-Star game struck matches and lighted up.

Mayor Fiorello La Guardia, former director of the OCD, who was in the stadium, commented in reply to questions, "You can't see that from the air. I know from experience."

However, officials here said that in August, 1941, the OCD issued circulars saying, "No smoking in the open should be the invariable rule."

Army Takes Old Auto Plant for Warehouse

The federal government yesterday took over 10 acres and five buildings at 62d place and Archer avenue to be used for storage purposes by the quartermaster department of the army. The site formerly was that of the old Elgin Automobile company, now owned by the Argo Terminals company. Four tenants will be moved. The action was a leasehold condemnation before Judge William H. Holly.

FINAL CANVASS FOR RUBBER TO END ON FRIDAY

Expect 2,000 Tons More in Chicago Drive.

A final burst of effort in the last three days of the scrap rubber drive, which ends at midnight Friday, was planned yesterday by the state's salvage campaign leaders.

Mayor Kelly designated Friday as "rubber day," petroleum companies promised a final canvass of the metropolitan area's 1,200 filling stations for last minute pickups, and Gov. Green put all the facilities of the state at the disposal of the communities in their final cleanup drive.

The mayor's proclamation came after a meeting with William L. McFetridge, local salvage director; Nathaniel Leverone, state salvage director, and Charles M. Hayes, chairman of the coördinating committee of the drive.

Expect 2,000 Tons More.

C. B. Evans, a Standard Oil company executive, predicted the concluding roundup of rubber piles at filling stations would yield an additional 2,000 tons to the city's total, which amounted to 17,500 tons on the evening of July 3.

Some oil company officials complained that heaps of rubber were taxing storage facilities. McFetridge said 10 to 12 cars, each carrying upward of 20 tons of rubber, are moved out of Chicago daily. These are carrying the rubber collected by junk dealers.

The Office of Defense Transportation said the shortage of freight cars is the result of priorities to steel, aircraft, canning, and other industries whose products are needed immediately for the war effort. The ODT said scrap rubber is not considered a pressing need at reclamation mills.

Boys Canvass Loop.

A score of high school boys yesterday started a canvass of loop office buildings in search of rubber. They sought typewriter pads, seat pads, and other rubber office supplies. Building managers were asked to place deposit boxes in lobbies.

Leverone said some downstate communities are planning a half holiday for Friday to be devoted to a final search for rubber.

W. Homer Hartz, salvage chairman for the Illinois Manufacturers' association, said Illinois industries had turned in 311 million pounds of iron and steel scrap, three times the May figure.

ARMY OF JEWS IMPRACTICABLE, BRITAIN IS TOLD

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, July 7.—War Minister Sir James Grigg told the house of commons today that it has been found impracticable to form a Jewish army.

"The Jews of British nationality," he said, "are liable for service in the British forces or are free to volunteer. Alien Jews also have the opportunity of serving in the British army as volunteers. More than 10,000 Palestinian Jews are serving with the British army in the middle east and more than 23,000 are in various police formations which perform functions analogous to the home guard in this country."

Already a committee composed of prominent members of parliament and peers has been organized to urge formation of a special Jewish army. This also has been demanded by influential Jewish leaders.

FINDS WAR TURNS FRANCE INTO A LAND OF THIN MEN

BERNE, Switzerland, July 7 (AP).—France has become a nation of thin men. A Lyons dispatch today said doctors estimated the French people since the armistice of June, 1940, have lost at least 440,000,000 pounds, or an average of 11 pounds per person.

This is due, they said, to lack of meat, cheese, eggs, and fats. Before the war began the average Frenchman ate 66 pounds of bread or flour products monthly as against half of that amount now.

The meat, sugar, and cheese intake now is 25 per cent of the prewar régime, butter and oil is 30 per cent, and coffee 12 per cent.

9 Nurses Exchange Overalls for New Frocks and Medals

Washington, D. C., July 7 (AP).—Nine army nurses wearing hurriedly purchased summer frocks were decorated today for bravery under fire in the Philippines.

Army tradition is inflexible, so the heroines—who left their war torn uniforms in the battle area—had to take their royal blue ribbons set in a wreath of gold laurel leaves in high school diploma fashion. The army decrees—no uniforms, no pinning ceremony.

The nurses only recently exchanged overalls, which they wore back to the United States, for the new frocks.

Guests of Press Club.

The girls reached New York from Australia Friday and came here to be guests of the Women's National Press club along with six fellow nurses at Bataan and Corregidor, cited last week in a service at Red Cross headquarters.

These 15 are the first American women decorated in this war by the United States, and the first to receive the new decoration ordered by President Roosevelt for outstanding service in defense of the Philippines.

The decoration climaxed a program during which it was announced that several of the girls had been promoted from second to first lieutenants.

Appeals for Recruits.

Miss Mary Beard, director of the Red Cross Nursing service, appealed for recruits. "There is a terrible need for 3,000 nurses—2,500 for the army and 500 for the navy—a month," she said.

Col. Carlos P. Romula, an aide to Gen. Douglas MacArthur, praised the work of the nurses whom he had seen in action.

Col. Julia Flicke, commander of the army nurses corps, called the roll of the nine heroines:

Helen Loretta Summers of Brooklyn, N. Y.; Leona Gastinger, born in Marion, Mich.; Lucy Iris Wilson, Big Sandy, Tex.; Beth A. Veley, San Jose, Cal.; Mabel V. Stevens, Verdigre, Neb.; Ruth M. Straub, Milwaukee; Mary Lucy Moultrie, Columbus, Ga.; Mollie A. Peterson, Cogswell, N. D., and Grace D. Hallman, Ashburn, Ga.

3 Win Navy Crosses

Washington, D. C., July 7 (AP).—Secretary of the Navy Frank Knox today pinned medals on three navy officers for heroism in the fight against the Japanese in the Pacific. Rear Adm. Frederick Carl Sherman, 54, native of Port Huron, Mich., commanding officer of the U. S. S. Lexington, received a gold star in lieu of a second navy cross. Lieut. Comm. Thurlow Weed Davison, 36, native of New Hope, Pa., received a navy cross for distinguished service in the Philippines. Lieut. Noel A. M. Gayler, 29, native of Birmingham, Ala., received the navy cross and the gold star in lieu of a second navy cross.

ELEVATOR UNION REJECTS 60 DAY CONTRACT OFFER

By a voice vote 1,500 members of local 66 of the Elevator Operators and Starters' union last night rejected a proposed 60 day contract at present wages offered by the Building Managers' Association of Chicago as a stop-gap until a long term agreement can be reached. The last contract expired June 30.

The union countered with a proposal last night for a 10 day grace period in which to complete negotiations. If there should be no agreement in that time, a strike vote would be taken. Besides a 40 hour week, compared with the present 48 hour week, the union seeks increases from $155 to $195 a month in class A buildings [office structures higher than nine stories] and from $148.75 to $188.75 in class B buildings [lower office structures].

Speakers expressed fear that if a 60 day truce were permitted, the federal government might step in and block increases by freezing wages during that period. James L. O'Grady, president, and Raymond F. Hayes, attorney, said that the union also objected to the failure of the business managers to provide for retroactive payments if an increase were granted.

JUDGE ENJOINS OPA VIOLATIONS BY INLAND STEEL

An injunction restraining the Inland Steel company from violating the OPA iron and steel scrap price schedule was issued yesterday by Federal District Judge William H. Holly. The company agreed to entry of the injunction.

Alex Elson, regional OPA attorney, charged Inland had paid more than ceiling prices to draw scrap metal away from other companies. Terming Inland the largest purchaser of scrap in the Chicago area, Elson said the injunction "would go a long way toward elimination of price ceiling violations in this area."

U. S. GOAL IN '43: 20 MILLIONS IN WAR ACTIVITIES

Manpower Head Expects Many New Workers.

Charlottesville, Va., July 7 (AP). — Brig. Gen. Frank J. McSherry said today nearly 20,000,000 persons must be inducted into United States war activities during 1942 and 1943.

In an address before the University of Virginia Institute of Public Affairs, the director of operations of the War Manpower commission reported that it was reliably estimated that "at least 10,500,000 additional workers" must be added to the war industries this year if the President's war production program was to be accomplished.

In addition, he said, 3,400,000 men would be withdrawn from the labor market during 1942 for the military services, making a total of more than 13,900,000 persons to be placed in war activities during the present calendar year.

Needs Continue to Soar.

"While we do not know precisely what the war production program will be at that time," Gen. McSherry added, "it is estimated that we will need over 2,500,000 additional workers in war industries during the coming year. The exact increase in the military forces being unknown, it may be assumed that the increase will be at least 3,500,000.

"We face, therefore, a combined total increase in war production work and in armed forces of approximately 6,000,000 people in 1943. This makes a grand total of 19,900,000 persons to be inducted into war activities during 1942 and 1943.

"It is estimated that the total increase of 13,900,000 persons to be inducted into war activities during 1942 will come from the following sources: Conversion from nondefense production and services to war employment, 8,600,000; reduction in unemployment, 1,400,000; reduction in agricultural employment, 400,000—and an over-all increase in our active labor forces of 3,300,000.

Women to Fill Gaps.

"This source of persons coming into the labor forces for the first time will be from women who have never worked except in their own homes and young people just reaching working ages."

To attain the necessary workers for war activities, Gen. McSherry said "we must change many of our employment concepts." Employers, he said, can no longer afford to set arbitrary age limits; they must appreciate "the value of women in skilled, semi-skilled and unskilled occupations"; they "can no longer afford to discriminate against Negroes and workers of other minority groups," and aliens, where it is possible under government restrictions, must be considered for war production jobs and as replacements in civilian occupations.

R. H. HINCKLEY RESIGNS POST AS COMMERCE AID

Washington, D. C., July 7 (AP).—The resignation of Robert H. Hinckley as assistant secretary of commerce, effective as of July 1, was announced today by the White House.

Hinckley has been in charge of the government's civil aviation program and it was understood he is to become associated with the Sperry Gyroscope corporation.

William A. M. Burden of New York, who has been with the Defense Supplies corporation of the RFC, will take over Hinckley's duties temporarily.

ST. PETER'S IN ROME TO ADMIT WOMEN WITHOUT STOCKINGS

ROME, July 7 [from Italian broadcasts]—(AP).—Women churchgoers, too poor to afford stockings, may attend mass barelegged in St. Peter's cathedral, the Rome radio said today quoting the Vatican organ L'Osservatore Romano. The newspaper said there were no general regulations as to what churchgoers, either men or women, should wear and "the least that could be expected from persons entering the house of God is that they be modestly dressed," the radio declared.

"In the case of stockings, women who can afford to wear them should," the radio said the newspaper continued. "Those who cannot afford stockings may go to church without, provided they are otherwise modestly dressed."

BILL FOR FEMALE NAVY IS BRANDED RIDICULOUS MESS

Use of War Veterans Urged in Non-Combat Posts.

Washington, D. C., July 7 (AP).—Storm clouds loomed in the offing for Uncle Sam's prospective sailorettes today even before their organization was officially launched.

As Rep. Carl Vinson [D., Ga.], chairman of the house naval affairs committee, disclosed he would seek congressional approval of legislation creating a women's naval reserve, a fellow committeeman, Rep. Beverly M. Vincent [D., Ky], announced he would object to unanimous house consent for consideration of the measure.

"The whole mess is ridiculous," said Vincent, who hails from a western Kentucky district where, he asserted, the men folks do the fighting and the women take care of the homes.

Bill Revised by Senate.

A bill creating the reserve has passed the house and was amended substantially by the senate and, unless Vincent withdraws his opposition, will be forced into conference to iron out the differences.

Vincent contended at a committee meeting yesterday that there was no need for the proposed force of 10,000 enlisted women and 1,000 women naval officers to take over noncombat shore duty.

He said the jobs could be filled by World war veterans who want to do something for their country and who are better qualified. He said these men know more about matters of war than the girls, many of whom are experienced primarily in "putting on lipstick and looking in a mirror."

Vinson to Push Plan.

Despite Vincent's opposition, Vinson said he was hopeful of getting the legislation approved and sent to the White House soon.

Navy spokesmen told the committee it was planned to use as officers girls with college training and to put them to work at such tasks as handling communications, translating maps, and doing other jobs requiring special knowledge. High school training probably would suffice for enlisted ratings.

In charge of the women would be a woman lieutenant commander, the highest rating allowed by the legislation. The officers would rank with regular naval officers, but their authority would be limited to the women reserves.

JAP LABELS STIR MOVE FOR PROBE OF ARMY SHOW

Pittsburgh, Pa., July 7 (AP).—Rep. Samuel A. Weiss [D., Pa.] said today he plans to sponsor a congressional resolution for an investigation of Army War Show, Inc., and its contracts. Weiss criticized the sale of Japanese-made canes at the Army War show here Sunday night.

"We buy bonds and stamps in order to buy planes, tanks, and shells to lick the enemy," Weiss said. "At the same time, we buy canes and souvenirs made in Japan to help the enemy.

"I also read of the contracts awarded by the army leaders in control of Army War Show, Inc., and I was amazed to learn the concessionaires kept 70 per cent of the proceeds of souvenir sales and received a 20 per cent rakeoff on programs. This is outrageous, especially when advertisments state that 'every cent is turned over to army relief.'"

Eisenhower Is Nominated to Lieutenant General Rank

Washington, D. C., July 7 (AP).—Maj. Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower, newly designated commander of American forces in the European theater of war, was nominated today by President Roosevelt for promotion to the rank of lieutenant general. The President also nominated Brig. Gen. Thomas T. Handy of Waugh, Ala., who succeeded Eisenhower as assistant chief of staff for operations, to be a major general.

Kelly, Civilian Defense Director, to Enter Army

Maj. Raymond J. Kelly, federal director of the 6th civilian defense region, will enter the army for active duty as a lieutenant colonel today. A former national commander of the American Legion, Kelly left a law practice in Detroit, Mich., to enlist in the first World war, in which he served a year in France. Now 47 years old, Col. Kelly has a son, Raymond Jr., who is an ensign in the navy.

4 FBI Agents in Hospital After Eating Sandwiches

Des Moines, Ia., July 7 (AP).—Four Iowa agents of the Federal Bureau of Investigation were in a hospital here today suffering from what their physician believed to be ptomaine poisoning. They became ill yesterday after eating sandwiches obtained in a restaurant. The four are James L. Dalton, 33 years old, special agent in charge of the FBI in Iowa; Edward J. Coady, 31; George Brouillard, 31, and John Mulhall, 32.

Neighborhood Emergency Trailer

Something new in mobile units, a homemade emergency trailer, was proudly displayed last night by the defense conscious citizens of Block 7 zone 27. Residents of the block, bounded by 78th and 79th streets and Ellis and Ingleside avenues, constructed the trailer in three weeks out of old second hand auto parts. It is equipped with fire extinguishers and first aid equipment, including a canvas stretcher and an old fire hose newly vulcanized. All other parts were purchased by funds raised from the block's salvage sales. Block Capt. George Murphy and Wilfred Joy and C. C. Pelley, directors of the neighborhood salvage drive, supervised the construction of the trailer.

RECRUIT SPECIAL WOMEN'S UNIT FOR WAAC CAMP

330 to Remain at Post as Permanent Staff.

Fort Des Moines, Ia., July 7 (AP).—Col. Don C. Faith, commander of the women's army auxiliary corps training school here, announced today that a special detachment of 330 basic auxiliary women will report here July 20 with the 440 officer candidates.

The special detachment is being recruited in the 9th corps area—Utah, Washington, Oregon, Idaho, Montana, Nevada, California, and Arizona.

Its members will become the permanent training center detachment and, under present plans, will remain here for the duration, Col. Faith said.

Clerical Workers in Group.

The group will include cooks, clerical help, chauffeurs, mimeograph operators, and eventually will replace approximately 175 enlisted men at the training school. The largest unit in the group will be a band which, when trained, will replace the army reception center band on duty here.

Col. Faith said the women will receive basic pay of $21 a month while training, with increased allowances later according to individual rating.

Mary S. Bell, dean of women at Coe college, Cedar Rapids, Ia., announced today she has been accepted for officer training in the WAAC. She formerly was dean of women at Huron [S. D.] college, from which she was graduated in 1914. She is the first WAAC officer candidate whose acceptance has been made known.

Menu for First Day.

The menu for the evening meal of July 20, the day the first members report for training, consists of baked ham and pineapple, scalloped potatoes, stewed tomatoes, mustard pickles, bread and butter, orange sherbet, wafers, and coffee. The other July 20 meals:

Breakfast—Oranges, branflakes, half a pint of milk, sweet rolls, buttered toast, jelly, poached eggs, and tea or coffee.

Lunch—Tomato essence, crackers, cold cut sandwiches, combination salad, caramel ice-cream, and iced tea or coffee.

Meals will be served cafeteria style.

CANADA EXTENDS DRAFT AGES TO 20 AND 40 YEARS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

OTTAWA, Ont., July 7.—Canada extended by six years today the age limits within which single men may be called for military service. The limits are now 20 and 40 years instead of 21 and 35 as formerly. Men married after July 15, 1940, are considerad single for purposes of the call-up regulations. Extension of the age limits was regarded generally as having been agreed upon at the Washington, D. C., conference of President Roosevelt, Prime Minister Churchill, and Prime Minister Mackenzie King of Canada.

HE HAS THE NAVY
GOGGLE-EYED!

A TELEPHONE BELL rings in New Orleans. Washington on the phone: "Can you invent and build a boat to carry tanks? A boat that can drive up on a beach, Commando-fashion? And how long will it take?"

Answer on the phone: "Come down in three days."

That's the boiled-down version of a miracle that still has Washington talking, the miracle of the man who graduated from building boats for the Commandos to building tank-barges for the Navy with such blinding speed they call him "a maritime Paul Bunyan."

In this week's Post is the story of Andrew Jackson Higgins and his four sons, who are now busy turning a swamp into the world's largest shipyard.

"Stories like Shipyard Bunyan in this week's Post give me a thrill. It could only come out of America, where unhampered free enterprise has developed a brand of ingenuity and persistence that simply obliterates all obstacles. From time to time we will bring you stories of other Americans actively working to help Uncle Sam win through to Victory. It seems to me, that is one of the Post's most important privileges right now."

SABOTEUR TRIAL MAY OPEN TODAY IN SECRET COURT

Military Commission Fixes Rules of Procedure.

Washington, D. C., July 7 (AP).—Final arrangements for the military trial of eight Nazi saboteurs were made today in secrecy behind boarded up corridors in the justice department's big stone building.

By Presidential proclamation the proceedings, which may lead to the gallows or a firing squad, must begin tomorrow "or as soon thereafter as is practicable." So deep was the secrecy in which both justice and war department officials shrouded the affair that spokesmen declined to say definitely at what hour the trial would start.

Meanwhile a military commission headed by Maj. Gen. Frank R. McCoy, which will determine guilt or innocence and fix the sentence, was understood to have met to work out rules of procedure. Such a commission makes its own rules, but in this case President Roosevelt specified that the verdict should require at least a two-thirds vote. This would mean at least a five to two vote of the seven man commission.

Defendants German Born.

The eight German born defendants, facing the death penalty on any one of four charges of violating the law of war, are Ernest Peter Burger, George John Dasch, Herbert Hans Haupt, Henry Harm Heinck, Edward John Kerling, Hermann Otto Neubauer, Richard Quirin, and Werner Thiel.

Typifying the mystery surrounding every move since the Federal Bureau of Investigation began rounding up the saboteurs in mid-June, following their landings from U-boats on Long Island and Florida beaches, the entire justice department building was closed except to accredited persons.

A long section of the fifth floor corridor, including elevators which would permit the prisoners to be herded in and out with complete secrecy, was walled off by carpenters. The section connects with offices used by Attorney General Francis Biddle, who, with Maj. Gen. Myron C. Cramer, judge advocate general of the army, will prosecute the prisoners. Guards, some in plain clothes, were placed in strategic spots around the building.

Hoover Aids Case.

Biddle and Cramer called in several times three key aids—Director John Edgar Hoover of the FBI, D. M. Ladd, assistant director in charge of national defense investigations, and Oscar Cox, assistant solicitor general.

Col. Cassius M. Dowell and Col. Kenneth Royall, chief of defense counsel, also had frequent visitors.

The fate of the eight Nazis, two of whom acquired American citizenship before returning to Berlin to study sabotage, lies entirely in the hands of the military commission and President Roosevelt who will review its decision. There is no recourse to the civil courts, for Mr. Roosevelt by proclamation denied to certain enemies in time of war any access to the civil courts.

Men 18, 19, and 20 Soon to Receive Draft Queries

Col. Louis A. Boening, assistant state director of selective service, announced yesterday that 18, 19, and 20 year olds who have registered in the last draft may expect to receive their questionnaires any time now. The regular draft questionnaires will be sent out by each board immediately the board has finished sending out questionnaires to registrants of the previous draft.

FINED FOR PROSTITUTION.

Judge Matthew Hartigan in Women's court yesterday found two women guilty of being keeper and inmate of a disorderly house at 2236 Jackson boulevard. Leona Manley, 45 years old, the keeper, was fined $100 and costs and Margaret Merson, 40, 1133 Washington boulevard, was fined $25 and costs.

The Inquiring Camera Girl

BY FREIDA ZYLSTRA.

[THE TRIBUNE will pay $5 for each interesting question submitted by a reader and used by THE TRIBUNE. Today's question was submitted by Barbara Berry, 948 Ainslie avenue.]

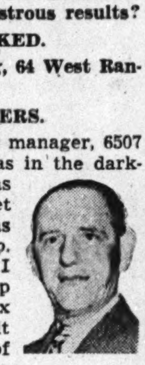
THE QUESTION.

Did you ever reach for an article in the dark, with disastrous results?

WHERE ASKED.

The Garrick building, 64 West Randolph street.

THE ANSWERS.

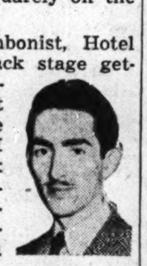


J. F. Smith, building manager, 6507 Stewart avenue—It was in the darkened theater and I was reaching for the pocket of my overcoat that was folded over my lap. Somehow or other I found myself tangled up with a lady's silver fox fur. Before I realized it she was accusing me of trying to swipe her furs.

Albert Meersman, clerk, 4032 Division street—It was a habit for me to walk into the pantry and help myself to fresh fruit from the huge fruit bowl. It was always in the same place so I didn't bother with the light that night. My hand dove into a sticky mass of strawberry preserves.

Frank Czeslawski, salesman, 2927 Allen avenue — My suitcase was packed except for the one pair of trousers I was taking along. As I left, wearing overalls, I took the extra pants from the dark hall closet and folded them in. As soon as I arrived at my destination I discovered I had taken my sister's blue gabardine slacks.

Bud Kimker, drummer, 5917 North 11th street, Philadelphia, Pa.—My roommate had given instructions about getting the alarm shut off in a hurry the next morning, so he could keep on sleeping. As I reached for it, I knocked over a pitcher of water. It landed squarely on the sleeping man's face.



Herbie Collins, trombonist, Hotel Sherman—We were back stage getting our instruments together for our next number. The movie was almost over when I reached for the back stage light switch. Instead, I switched brilliant lights on the audience. It caused quite a commotion.

Margaret Soffer, housewife, 2140 Harvey avenue, Berwyn—There was one sheet missing from my bed and without turning on the light in the linen closet I helped myself to my best white linen tablecloth. The next day I almost accused the laundry of not returning it before I discovered it on my bed.

SEDITION JURORS HEAR EX-LEADER OF CHICAGO BUND

Witnesses before the special federal grand jury investigating sedition in the Chicago area yesterday included Homer H. Maertz, former leader of the German-American bund in Chicago. He left the organization to form a similar one among a group of his own personal followers. Others who appeared yesterday were Ernst Ten Eicken, former president of the German-American National alliance, and John Winter, head of the Market Publishing company, 129 North Halsted street, publishers of numerous articles for the bund and affiliated groups.

FBI OPENS DRIVE TO SMASH BUND; 54 FACE ACTION

29 Accused of Draft and Registry Plot.

Ferdinand Callsen.

New York, July 7 (AP).—Federal agents launched a coast to coast drive today to put the German-American bund out of business.

A legal attack was aimed at 54 of the bund's highest officers, including Fritz Kuhn, former national bund leader now in prison, and his successor, Wilhelm Kunze, who was arrested in Mexico and returned to the United States yesterday. It reached into the states of New York, New Jersey, Pennsylvania, Illinois, Minnesota, Indiana, Washington, and California.

Twenty-six men were named in indictments charging conspiracy to counsel bund members to resist service in the armed forces of the United States, and conspiracy to conceal bund affiliations in filling out alien registration forms.

All 29 Are in Custody.

Three more were accused of only the selective service violation. P. E. Foxworth, assistant FBI chief, said all 29 are in custody.

The remaining 25—among them national and sectional officials and principal leaders of the bund—were the object of denaturalization proceedings.

United States Attorney Mathias F. Correa said that altho the bund was nominally defunct since the outbreak of the war, numerous singing societies in the Yorkville section of New York and elsewhere had taken over bund activities and continued to foster Nazi beliefs. He said such organizations would be investigated further.

Kunze, who was arraigned yesterday on a charge of violating the selective service act for failure to report his address, pleaded innocent today and was held in bail of $50,000 by Federal Judge George C. Sweeney. He also is wanted in Hartford, Conn., on a federal charge of violating the 1917 espionage act. Eight others were arraigned on the indictments and held on bail totaling $95,000. Three furnished bail.

Among those named in both indictments were Dr. Otto Willumeit, head of the Chicago division of the bund and now awaiting sentence in Hartford on his plea of guilty to espionage conspiracy; Ferdinand Callsen of South Bend, Ind., and Carl Frederick Berg of Minneapolis, Minn.

Held in South Bend Jail.

South Bend, Ind., July 7 [Special].—Ferdinand Callsen, 66 years old, a South Bend grocer, was arrested in his home by federal agents today and held in the county jail awaiting his transfer to New York, where he is under indictment in connection with activities of the German-American bund.

PAIR CHARGED WITH ROBBING STORE 4 TIMES

Lester Harris and Edward Damiani will be arraigned in the Felony court today on nine charges of robbery—four of the charges being made by a store owner who was robbed that often in three months. This victim was Isadore Kroon, owner of a liquor store at 2725 Crystal street, who lost more than $1,000 in four instalments.

Acting Capt. John Scherping of the Albany Park police said the two men were seized July 5 at Argyle and Avers avenues.

Harris is 24 years old and gave his address as 1421 Farwell avenue. Damiani is 27 and said he lives at 1426 Milwaukee avenue.

Friend of the Yanks

[The Friend of the Yanks department will answer questions about the draft and military service, both in the daily columns and by mail, if stamped, self-addressed envelopes are sent with the queries.]

J. M. R. writes: "I have had nine years' experience as an optician, grinding lenses, assembly work on glasses and gold soldering. Is there a spot for me in either the army or navy?"

ANSWER: There is no branch of the armed service offering commissions, but if you enlist in the navy you might receive a first or second class rating depending upon your skill, experience, and the need. You probably would be assigned to some branch of the medical corps. You would have to be enlisted or inducted into the army and take the general classification test, state your preference, and, if there were any openings, you probably would be assigned to the field units repairing broken glasses for the men. The highest rank in the army would be that of technical sergeant at $114 a month.

B.G. writes: "I am in a location where it is difficult to get any information of the merchant marine service. Will you please publish the requirements, length of service, and my status under the draft?"

ANSWER: The United States maritime service trains and provides officers and men to serve aboard American merchant ships. Recruits are enrolled as apprentice seamen at $50 a month technically for the duration. The enrollee must have proper color perception, minimum vision of 20/30 uncorrected for each eye, normal hearing, a minimum of 20 teeth properly distributed, 14 of which must be serviceable, and minimum height of 5 feet 6 inches unless under 20 years of age, where the minimum is 5 feet 4 inches. The age limits are 17 to 40.

Applicants under the M-1 naval reserve must have been employed a minimum of three months within the preceeding three years on ocean or coastwise vessels, and have the recommendation of the master or chief engineer of the last vessel on which the applicant was employed. Members of the maritime service are enlisted in the naval reserve and hence are not subject to draft induction. The recruiting office is at Room 3-6, 53 West Jackson boulevard, Chicago, or write Chief, Maritime Service, Washington, D. C.

Mrs. F. P. asks: "Isn't there a law or some rule that the draft boards can't take two sons from the same family within a year?"

ANSWER: There is no law or regulation which would make it mandatory for the draft board to defer men from service merely because they happened to be in the same family. If there was a widowed dependent mother, it would be up to the individual draft board to decide upon the advisability of inducting either or both. If the board decided that the induction of the remaining son would work an extreme hardship upon the mother, and she was known to be entirely dependent, the board might grant a dependency deferment.

Mrs. B. B. S. asks: "Where could I secure my son's cable address?"

ANSWER: The cable address would be available from the Adjutant General's Office, Washington, D. C. Give the son's name, serial number, rank, organization, and any other pertinent information.

To Mrs. P. H. C.: If your daughter enlisted locally as a nurse, you can learn her serial number from the local army surgeon's office; otherwise write, Surgeon General's Office, Washington, D. C., giving name, enlistment date, and place of enlistment.

Sabotage Warning Issued on Nebraska Wheat Lands

Omaha, Neb., July 7 (AP).—Joseph D. Scholtz, regional civilian defense director, today warned local defense councils to guard against possible sabotage during the wheat harvest in this area. He asked rural fire patrols to keep on the alert for farm incendiarism.

ALIEN PROPERTY CONTROL SPLIT INTO 2 CLASSES

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., July 7.—President Roosevelt today issued an executive order dividing and defining the authority and duties relative to the property of enemy, neutral, and occupied countries between Leo T. Crowley, alien property custodian, and Secretary of the Treasury Henry Morgenthau.

The order provided that the alien property custodian will handle enemy owned and controled businesses operating in the United States, all foreign owned patents, copyrights, trade marks and foreign ships. The treasury will continue to handle dollar balances of alien governments and nationals except those belonging to enemy business, and will continue to supervise all transactions and business dealings with countries under treasury freezing orders, including all trade and commercial communications with the enemy and enemy controled countries.

Earlier, the treasury department and the board of economic warfare announced completion of arrangements whereby investigators of the treasury foreign funds control will also handle all phases of cases involving violation of both the foreign funds and export control acts.

TOBIN DECLARES AFL-CIO BREACH GROWING WIDER

Difference in Attitude Toward Russia Cited.

Washington, D. C., July 7 (AP).—The American Federation of Labor has "refused to recognize the Russian labor movement as a free labor movement" whereas the CIO has considered it "on equal terms," a member of the AFL executive council said today.

A British effort to obtain British-American-soviet labor collaboration to promote the war effort has been fruitless thus far, with the AFL failing to accept the proposal.

Sir Walter Citrine, secretary of the British Trades Union congress, presented the proposal to the AFL executive council in May.

Tobin Discloses Stand.

Daniel J. Tobin, general president of the International Brotherhood of Teamsters and a member of the AFL council, disclosed the AFL answer—in part, at least—in an article in the July issue of his union's organ, the International Teamster.

Tobin's article contended that the gulf between the CIO and the AFL is widening and that the attitude toward the British proposal demonstrates the difference in viewpoint between the two organizations.

"The CIO leaders," said the article, "say there is considerable progress being made toward unity. This is nonsense. Both sides have agreed to talk to each other, and that is about all.

Government Control Cited.

"The AFL has refused to recognize the Russian labor movement as a free labor movement, claiming that the government of Russia controled and appointed the trade union leaders and laid down the rules for them to work under.

"On the other hand, the CIO went out 100 per cent to meet the Russian labor movement and the British trade union movement and practically recognized them both on equal terms. . . ."

William Green, president of AFL, after the conference with Sir Walter in May, said that the AFL had not rejected the proposal, but the nature of the AFL counterproposal was not disclosed.

Aid to Traffic Engineer Named City Paymaster

Mayor Kelly announced yesterday that James W. Jardine, 33 years old, 1133 Albion avenue, has been appointed city paymaster at an annual salary of $4,806. Jardine will fill the vacancy made by the retirement last February of Charles A. McGrane. Jardine has been working in the office of City Traffic Engineer Leslie J. Sorenson.

Barbara Lucy Taylor as she appeared in the custody of the police a year ago.

New York, July 7 [Special].—Barbara Lucy Taylor, 27 years old, member of a wealthy Roslyn Heights, L. I., family, was held in $500 bail today after arraignment in District court on a charge of damaging a Nassau county police booth at Great Neck early this morning. Trial was set for September. She was convicted a year ago on a charge of wrecking a police booth at nearby Glenwood Landing and was sentenced to 30 days in jail and fined $250. The present charge was made by Sergt. Mickey De Meo, who said Miss Taylor ripped the phone wire from the Great Neck booth and broke 10 window panes. He said he was patroling the area in a police car when he saw Miss Taylor, whom he knows, running from the direction of the booth. He said she got into her auto and that later he found her in her home.

Coast Guard Recruit, 21, Saves Girl at Kenosha

Kenosha, Wis., July 7 [Special].—James Gilrein, 21 years old, coast guard from Worcester, Mass., rescued an 18 year old girl, Esther Frederick, who fell into Lake Michigan from the pier this afternoon. He seized her as she went down for the second time and brought her ashore. Gilrein arrived here two weeks ago. He enlisted two months ago.

Three Escape Penitentiary in Ontario; One Captured

KINGSTON, Ont., July 7 (AP).—Three prisoners escaped from Kingston penitentiary today, and one of them, Ralph Cheney, 25 years old, was captured soon afterward. Still free were Harold Demude, 20, and Kenneth Churchman, 23.

3 IRISH QUEENS WILL APPEAR IN COMEDY ON W-G-N

Three Irish queens of Chicago will appear on the "Chateau Hogan," comedy serial program, to be broadcast from W-G-N's main studio at 9:30 p. m., tonight. The girls, selected from many who competed for the titles at the Irish American day celebration at Harms Woods last Sunday, are Helen Fergus, 18 years old, 4431 North Sawyer avenue, north side winner; Lucille McKillop, 17, 5251 Lexington street, west side, and Collette Stanton, 19, 7218 Carpenter street, south side winner.

Chateau Hogan chronicles the adventures of Happy and Mitzi Hogan, played by Murray Forbes and Florence Brower, in operating a hotel frequented by theatrical guests.

Kay Kyser will broadcast his Kollege of Musical Knowledge show over WMAQ-NBC at 9 p. m. tonight from the Chicago Civic theater. Between broadcasts Kay is making special 15 minute recorded programs for the war bond and stamp drive, playing one nighters, and serving as national chairman for "Records for Fighting Men," an organization to collect 3 million old and broken records, selling them for scrap and devoting the funds to record players for men in the armed forces.

Cancel West Side Rally; Fear Too Large Crowd

The rally to honor service men, which was scheduled for tonight in Garfield park, has been canceled. D. Wallace MacClay, head of the west side division of the civilian defense organization, said accommodations were lacking a crowd of 30,000 to 35,000 which had been expected. The North Lawndale district will hold its own rally in Douglas park at 2 p. m. Sunday.

BOMB COTTAGE AT LAKE GENEVA; WOMAN INJURED

Two Friends Escape; Car from Illinois Sought.

Elkhorn, Wis., July 7 [Special].—An Illinois automobile was being sought by Walworth county authorities tonight in their investigation of the early morning bombing of a cottage on Lake Geneva occupied by two women and a man from Rockford, Ill.

Mrs. Midge Clayton, 45 years old, who is separated from her husband, is in the Elkhorn hospital suffering from shock and possible internal injuries incurred in the explosion which wrecked the four room cottage. Mrs. Emily McMain, 46, a divorcee, and Roy Trenery, 45, a Rockford war plant worker, were uninjured.

The explosive, believed to have been a dynamite bomb, apparently had been placed under the north wall of the cottage, directly under the partition between the two bedrooms. Authorities said the occupants' escape from death was little short of miraculous.

Blown from Bed.

Mrs. Clayton was blown from her bed and fell on top of a dresser. Mrs. McMain, who shared the bed, escaped injury. Part of their bedroom flooring was blown thru the ceiling and the north wall of the cottage was torn out. Investigators said the mattress on the women's bed probably saved their lives. Trenery was in the other bedroom.

The explosion came at 3 a. m. Shortly after midnight Trenery reported that his automobile had been entered and a traveling bag stolen. Any connection between the two events was not immediately apparent.

Deputy Sheriff Chester Barnes later found a two foot length of dynamite and a book of matches bearing the advertisment of a Rockford store.

Gives Police a Clew.

Barnes said Mrs. McMain told him the bombing might have been an attack on her and Deputy Sheriff George O'Brien said she had given authorities "some inklings" on which they were working, but he would not disclose details.

Mrs. McMain and Mrs. Clayton are employed as saleswomen in the Hess Brothers department store in Rockford.

Mrs. Clayton obtained a decree of separate maintenance from Ralph Clayton at Rockford on June 28, 1941, on grounds of adultery after 15 years of married life. Mrs. McMain divorced Amos McMain, a Rockford painter, last May 8 on the ground of desertion. They had been married 27 years.

FIND CAR USED BY SLAYERS OF OAK PARK MAN

Oak Park police yesterday announced they had found the green sedan driven by two gunmen who shot and killed Jefferson T. Omara, 53 years old, real estate dealer, near his home at 231 South Clinton street, in the suburb early last Friday. It was turned over to them, they said, by Cicero police, who found it abandoned at 1318 South 51st avenue, Cicero, Sunday morning.

The car had been stolen several hours before the slaying from Arthur J. Endean, 4825 Monroe street. Endean said it was taken Thursday night. In it was a dark blue handkerchief worn by one of the slayers, and a white cloth believed to have been used as a mask by the other was missing from the glove compartment where Endean said it had been wrapped around a flashlight.

Endean told police the car had been driven 10,300 miles when stolen. The speedometer showed it had been driven 200 miles by the gunmen. Chief Benjamin Barsema of the Oak Park force said witnesses who saw the slayers drive away identified it, and fingerprints have been obtained.

SHOOTS 2 POLICE, IS KILLED WHILE BALKING ARREST

Buffalo, N. Y., July 7 (AP).—A man who barricaded himself in a house and resisted arrest on a minor offense was killed today after he shot two detectives in a heavy cross-fire which lasted an hour.

"You will never serve that warrant on me," Joseph Francis, about 40 years old, shouted to policemen who appeared at his home with a warrant charging disorderly conduct. He slammed the door, bolted it from the inside and soon started to fire a shotgun from a second story window.

Ninety policemen surrounded the home at 471 Carlton street, near the downtown district. Assistant Detective Chief Thomas F. Coyne fell, wounded in the head. Within a moment, Detective Sergeant Kenneth Kelleher, leading a tear gas attack, was shot in the arm. Hospital officials said both had a good chance of recovering.

Francis returned the fire until he was struck several times. Police found him unconscious on the floor. He died in a hospital.

Woman Braves Bandits, Saves $2,000 in Register

In the face of a machine gun and a revolver, waved menacingly by two bandits, Mrs. Sophie Joukubnis, wife of a tavern owner, yesterday saved $2,000 kept in a cash register to cash checks for patrons. She dropped to the floor of the tavern at 3465 South Morgan street when the two men entered by separate doors, and set off a burglar alarm. The robbers fled.

MRS. MARJORIE O'NEIL.

Judge Rudolph Desort in Superior court yesterday issued an injunction restraining Charles P. O'Neil, 54 years old, president of E. M. O'Neil & Co., manufacturers of dice and playing cards, from proceeding with a divorce action he has started against his wife, Marjorie, 33, of 2445 Logan boulevard, in Reno, Nev., where O'Neil now is.

The court issued it at the request of Mrs. O'Neil, who filed a separate maintenance suit charging O'Neil with cruelty, adultery, and drunkeness. The O'Neils were married Sept. 12, 1936, and separated June 28, 1941, according to her petition. O'Neil was divorced by a former wife, Eva, in August, 1936.

GREEN SELECTS 8 TO HEAD FIGHT ON JUVENILE CRIME

Springfield, Ill., July 7 (AP).—Gov. Green's office today announced appointment of eight persons to a state defense council committee on youth and welfare to supervise juvenile delinquency prevention programs during wartime.

B. Harry Reck of Mendota, former La Salle county judge, was named chairman and Samuel R. Ryerson, superintendent of the state division for delinquency prevention, was appointed vice chairman and executive director.

Other members are Dr. Julius Hess of Chicago, head of the University of Illinois medical school pediatrics department; County Judge Harlington Wood of Springfield, Mrs. Jessie Scofield of Peoria, member of the advisory board of the state delinquency prevention division; William A. Lewis, executive secretary of the Chicago Allied Printing Trades council; Dr. R. W. Fairchild, president of the Illinois State Normal university, and Rodney H. Brandon, director of the state public welfare department.

Held for Jury Action on Rape Attempt Charge

Frank Mester Jr., 20 years old, 2815 North Mozart street, yesterday was held for grand jury action in $1,500 bonds by Judge Charles S. Dougherty in Boys' court on a charge of attempted rape. Mester was arrested Sunday when police heard screams for help from a young woman in the 3000 block of Logan boulevard.

PURSUED IN HOME BY PROXY WIFE, ASSERTS FATHER

Care of Baby Described at Custody Hearing.

Mount Clemens, Mich., July 7 [Special].—Before he seduced his childless wife's 16 year old sister in 1938 he ran from room to room of his Detroit home in an effort to escape the pursuing girl, Carmel Hoge, 35 year old machinist, testified today.

"She chased me from one room to another," Hoge asserted.

Hoge and his wife, Catherine, 30, are seeking to retain custody of a 3 year old child brought up as Patricia Hoge but born to the younger sister, Alice, who went to a Detroit hospital under Catherine's name to give birth to the infant as proxy for her married sister.

Seeks to Regain Baby.

Now 20 and married to Louis Horvath, 29, of Cleveland, O., the mother has instituted habeas corpus proceedings here to obtain Patricia's custody.

"As far as I know, I am the father," Hoge told Circuit Judge James E. Spier after admitting he has signed a paternity statement.

"I took care of the baby," Hoge continued. "I did its clothes, fed it."

He burst into tears after making this assertion and testimony was interrupted briefly while he sobbed.

Hoge said his wife, Catherine, had no knowledge of the seduction until "Alice told her she was pregnant." When Mrs. Horvath was on the stand last week she testified Catherine asked her two years before the seduction, when she was 14, to have a baby by Hoge. She said Catherine was convinced she herself never could become a mother and wanted the sister to substitute for her and give her the child.

Mrs. Horvath said she refused Catherine's proposal, even tho it was accompanied by a promise of $100.

Ally Hitch-hikes to Court.

The Hoges got a new family ally today when Virgil Rogers, 15, a nephew, hitch-hiked from his home in Columbus, O., to refute testimony given yesterday by his mother, Mrs. Mary Rogers, who has sided with the Horvaths in the controversy. Mrs. Rogers is a sister of Mrs. Hoge and Mrs. Horvath.

"Let us stop this travesty on justice," an attorney for the Horvaths proposed. "Honor thy father and thy mother."

The attorney said Mrs. Rogers had supported Virgil "by the sweat of her brow in a factory" since her common law marriage ended in divorce in 1935. Judge Spier agreed that the boy ought not to testify further against his mother and blocked questioning.

The hearing will be resumed tomorrow.

NO DECISION IN PLUNGE DEATH.

A coroner's inquest yesterday failed to determine the cause of the death of Miss Mary A. King, who leaped or fell to her death from the seventh floor of the Fair store at 24 West Adams street Tuesday. Miss King, 38 years old, lived at 333 South Albany avenue.

QUIET, PLEASE! NOISE OF CITY DROWNS OUT SIRENS FOR AIR RAIDS

If Chicago is going to hear the sirens in an air raid alarm, the city will have to stop banging screen doors, turn down its radios, and keep its street car and elevated tracks well greased.

So said the Greater Chicago Noise Reduction council, which has made a business of studying how much noise there is to a policeman's traffic whistle and comparing it, for example, with a riveter working at full speed.

Dr. H. A. Leedy of the Armour Research Foundation, vice president of the council, yesterday announced the results of a series of noise measuring tests. Putting his finger to his lips, he whispered that Chicago is "the world's noisiest city."

Dr. Leedy has measured the noises at 18 different spots in the Chicago area. The quietest place, he says, is in La Grange, where the noise averaged 45 decibels. The noisiest spot is at Roosevelt road and Western avenue.

The most consistently noisy things in city life, Dr. Leedy's survey showed, are auto horns, elevated trains, street cars, truck and bus motors. The loudest sound he measured was a policeman's whistle.

Soldier Caught by Police Is Reported AWOL Again

After arresting Pvt. George A. Gasser for being AWOL from Camp Custer, Mich., since May 31, and turning him over to army officers at Fort Sheridan, Chicago police were asked yesterday to look for him again. Gasser, army officers reported, walked away from the court martial office at Fort Sheridan after he had been questioned about his first disappearance.

SENATE BOOSTS BASIC FARM CROP LOANS TO PARITY

Viewed as Step to Settle Row with House.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., July 7.—The senate today passed and sent to the house legislation boosting to parity the government loan rate on basic agricultural commodities. [Parity is the formula designed to give farmers the same relative purshasing power from their income as they enjoyed in the 1909 to 1914 base period.]

Passage, following two days of debate over administration agricultural policies, was by a 28 to 24 vote, after a motion to recommit failed by one vote, 27 to 26.

Opponents of the measure charged it will place the farmer at the mercy of the government, giving the Commodity Credit corporation unprecedented power over the agricultural market. The corporation, they said, will become the greatest owner of grain the world ever has seen, able at any time to wreck the market by release of its huge stores.

Gillette Assails Move.

"There is no justification for this step," said Sen. Guy M. Gillette [D., Ia.], himself a corn farmer. "It is economically unsound; it is politically unsound—and God help me for even mentioning that—and it is democratically unsound because it is not based on any democratic concept of government."

The present rate on nonrecourse loans is 85 per cent of parity. Increasing the rate to the full parity price, it was argued by other farm leaders, including Sen. Charles L. McNary [R., Ore.], will have the effect of diverting huge supplies from the market to government storehouses. They warned that this may retard production of beef and pork vitally needed on the home front and for supplying our allies.

Called Farmers' Protection.

Sen. Richard B. Russell [D., Ga.] declared, however, that enactment of the bill will protect farmers by placing a floor under the prices of farm products, insuring them an adequate return amid rising wartime living costs. The government's loss in disposing of grain at less than parity prices would be no more than the cost of present farm subsidies, Russell said.

Attempts of the farm bloc to maintain the prices of agricultural commodities has been assailed as endangering the anti-inflation program. The price control bill enacted in February provided that farm prices would be permitted to reach 110 per cent of parity—regarded in itself as an inflationary provision.

Viewed as Compromise Step.

The administration has insisted that it can prevent prices from rising if it is empowered to sell its surplus stocks at less than parity. The measure adopted by the senate today is expected to be a step in giving the administration that power. Presumably it will meet house objections to the pending 680 million dollar farm appropriation bill now tied up in conference.

The senate version of the bill would permit the Commodity Credit corporation to sell 125 million bushels of surplus wheat for feeding purposes at 85 per cent of the parity price for corn, and any amount at any price for use in manufacturing alcohol needed in the production of synthetic rubber and explosives.

Both houses finally passed stop-gap legislation to give the department about 56 million dollars to carry on its activities thru July. The measure now goes to the White House.

NATIVE OF GERMANY FACES FEDERAL QUIZ FOR SLUR OF SAILOR

Disparaging remarks about a sailor's uniform yesterday kept Clement Braun, 39 years old, 2119 Addison street, in a Bridewell cell awaiting investigation by federal authorities. He was found guilty of disorderly conduct by Judge N. J. Bonelli and held under $5,000 bond until July 14, when Judge Bonelli will decide what sentence to impose unless the federal authorities have taken jurisdiction.

Braun came to the United States from Germany in 1923. He told Judge Bonelli yesterday he could not remember anything that occurred in a tavern at 2525 North Clark street Sunday night, when he was alleged to have launched a tirade at President Roosevelt and insulted the sailor.

But Karl H. Bennett of Decatur, Tex., the sailor, stationed at Navy Pier, remembered. He told the court that Braun said to him:

"Sailor, why don't you get smart? You're a sucker for wearing that uniform. Some day you'll be sorry."

Another German, Adolf Wolf, 63, of 609 Madison street, was turned over to the Federal Bureau of Investigation yesterday by Sheffield police, who arrested him after police had received an anonymous phone call. Wolf said he was not registered either as an alien or for the draft. He told police, "I'd rather be back in Germany, where I came from in 1910. But to hell with Hitler; I have no use for him."

U. S. JOB BUREAU PLACES 181,500 ON FARMS IN MAY

Washington, D. C., July 7 (AP).—The war man power commission reported today that the United States Employment service filled a total of 181,500 farm jobs in May, about 3½ times as many as were filled in April and the highest monthly total except for peak harvest months.

In addition, approximately 600,000 jobs in factories, shipyards, and offices were filled by the service in May, a record for a single month's placements in industry.

Since January, 1942, the employment service has filled 2,400,000 nonagricultural jobs, showing an increase of almost 18 per cent over the same period last year.

Do Home Canning Now!

Have a Pantry Full of Summer Health Next Winter!

■ If you're one of the many Chicago women who have never before attempted home canning, now is the time to learn how. Home Canning is easy and interesting . . . saves money for you . . . saves food for America.

Right now, there are ripe raspberries—at their juiciest best for home canning. And in addition there are cherries, apricots and huckleberries . . . delicacies you can easily "put up" to provide delicious wintertime desserts.

Later on, there'll be blackberries, peaches and plums that you will want to preserve. And while you're preserving, don't forget that you're conserving! Home canning offers wartime housewives one of the surest ways of making food dollars go further. And vitally important, too, home canning reduces food waste...helps you cooperate with the national food conservation program...thus aids in winning the war.

Help for Home Canners

To provide all the information you need for successful home canning, Peoples Gas Nutrition Centers offer a new fact-filled booklet "CANNING—What You Should Know About It." Covered in this booklet are such important subjects as Sterilizing Jars, Sealing, Methods of Canning, Sugar-less Recipes, as well as a host of standard canning recipes. Here, in condensed, easily understood form, are 36 pages of detailed instructions that will aid both the beginner and the experienced in home canning.

No charge is made for this valuable new booklet. Get your FREE copy today—and get started on your home canning program now!

CANNING CAN BE FUN!

Save the summery flavor of delicious raspberries for enjoyment next winter, and save sugar, too! Here's how: Wash and drain raspberries; measure 4 cups. Add ½ cup corn syrup; let stand at room temperature 4 hours.

Place mixture in sauce pan over gas flame. Bring slowly to full rolling boil, stirring occasionally. Then, boil vigorously for just 2 minutes. Your Modern Gas Range makes home canning easy as A. B. C.

After carefully skimming the preserve, turn into hot sterilized jars and seal at once. This recipe makes 1 pint jar or 2 half-pint jars. Undoubtedly, you'll want many of them in your pantry to satisfy raspberry-hungry appetites!

WE'RE GOING BACK TO BATAAN!

THE TREND OF PRICES.

At the end of April President Roosevelt presented to congress in a message and to the people in a radio address the outlines of an anti-inflation program. In the three months since then congress has not approved any of the features of the President's program. But, notwithstanding that fact, there has been no increase in the general price level. In fact, there has been a slight recession, so that prices are where they were three months ago. It is the first three month period in two years in which prices failed to go up.

From this it should not be concluded that the danger of rapidly rising prices has vanished, but that some strong anti-inflationary forces have been at work. The amount of consumer goods being produced has been sharply reduced, while the national government alone spent 4½ billion dollars in June, at the rate of 56 billions per year. This is greater than all the expenditures of all the people in any year from 1930 to 1936. There is a widening gap between the size of the income and volume of goods being produced.

One reason there has been no bidding up of the price of goods is that everybody was forewarned of a shortage and loaded up. Manufacturers anticipating a continuation of a demand for goods have huge inventories. Retailers have more goods on hand than ever before. And consumers beat the gun on shortages and high prices by sustained buying which started last summer and continued down to early spring just before the ceiling was announced. For the last month, however, people have been spending less than they were spending a year ago. Department store sales are sharply lower than at this time in 1941.

If people have much bigger incomes than they had last year and are not spending it, what are they doing with it? They are not putting it in their savings accounts, for the bank call for June 30 showed that savings deposits have declined 8 per cent since the end of last year. Nor are they placing it in postal savings accounts, which are also smaller than at the end of last year.

They are hoarding some. That is shown by the increase in circulation of $10 and $20 bills, the bedtick denominations. They are paying their debts. That is shown by the reports of the stores and of personal loan agencies. Of even greater importance, people are paying more income taxes than ever before. And last and of great importance, they are buying war bonds at a rate approaching a billion dollars a month. They are buying the bonds not only because they realize they are helping to finance the war, but also because they understand that is one way to prevent inflation. The people as a whole are doing their part to prevent inflation from developing.

If there is any danger from inflation it is because of the government itself. In the first place, no serious effort has been made to do away with unnecessary or postponable expenditures. The government is spending at least 2 billion dollars on activities having no relation to the war, which could well be cut out. Eliminating such expenditures would have the same effect in preventing inflation as a sales tax which produced 2 billion dollars in revenue, or an increase of 2 billions in bond sales.

Last week the War Labor board issued a statement stating that a panel of the board had recommended that the wages of steel workers should be increased a dollar a day, because the companies "are able to pay the requested increase." The board has invariably accepted the recommendations of its panels. Thus this branch of the government has placed its stamp of approval upon pay increases, which would certainly make control of prices more difficult.

Moreover, thru a bill passed by both houses and signed by the President, the government has placed its stamp of approval upon a further sharp increase in farm prices up to 110 per cent of parity. The government itself is holding out of consumption large quantities of wheat and cotton, on nonrecourse loans of 85 per cent of parity prices. The senate yesterday passed a bill, sponsored by Democratic leaders, providing for the increase of the loans on this year's crops up to 100 per cent of parity. Thus congress, and to some extent the President, are responsible for measures whose purpose and effect are to raise prices further.

One sector of the government is crying out for measures to keep prices down. Other elements of the government are engaged in boosting prices. Unless there is unity of policy about inflation thruout the government, the course of prices will be uncertain.

MR. GANDHI WELCOMES OUR SOLDIERS.

Mr. Gandhi seems to have changed his mind about the presence of American soldiers in India. At first he was displeased and intimated it would be nice if they'd go home. Now he says in his newspaper that he is willing to have them defend India if they will pay their own expenses and clear out promptly when the war is over.

It doesn't appear that Mr. Gandhi has much to worry about on either score. The record of American military activity overseas suggests that we do not drive hard bargains and it isn't likely that, once the Japanese have been licked, we shall keep a garrison in India. If all that stands between India and independence is the United States, Mr. Gandhi can regard his life's work as approaching a successful completion.

Of course there are some Americans whose loyalty to the British empire is so intense that they would wish our country to police India for Britain, but such Americans are a small minority. Most of the citizens of this country have read the Declaration of Independence and approve the sentiments there expressed. To Americans, the ambition of the Indian people for independence seems a natural one, like the ambition of the Filipino people and of the American colonists before them. We are the last nation in the world to insist that the Indians must accept an alien government.

It is just possible that Mr. Gandhi knows or suspects all this. If he were an occidental, his motives would be easily guessed. He wants to have his country defended as effectively as may be and at as little cost as possible to India and the Indians. He is quite willing to allow Americans to participate because he suspects that when the war is over they might encourage the British to take a more friendly attitude toward Indian aspirations than the British have shown in the past.

But Mr. Gandhi is not an occidental. He doesn't even wear pants. In the circumstances it is hardly worth while asking him why it is right for Americans to fight to defend India and wrong for Indians to use force to defend their own country. If he offered an explanation, we probably couldn't understand it.

CHIANG'S APPEAL.

Chiang Kai-shek has appealed to the American people to heed both our duty as an ally and our own self-interest by directing our main blows against our "first and most threatening enemy, Japan."

His appeal puts a finger on Japan's weakness—her lack of naval and merchant tonnage. The Japanese can muster only about 5,000,000 tons in both categories of ships. The shipping shortage goes far to explain the present land campaign in China, designed to free a north and south railroad from Chinese hands so that it may be used to carry the loot of the conquered British and Dutch colonies to Japan.

Chiang Kai-shek maintains that the Japanese lack the ships to maintain the armies on the far-flung fronts they have occupied since Dec. 7. He is right, with one proviso—that some one offers active opposition to the Japanese. If the occupying armies are allowed to settle down in the conquered provinces, they can live off the country. It is only if they are attacked that the task of supplying them with munitions and reënforcements will put a breaking strain on their transport system. The Japanese structure may be shaky, but it will not fall unless some one pushes it.

Chiang Kai-shek's appeal comes on a day when the news from other fronts is all dark. The Russians have admitted the first major Nazi breakthru in the drive for Caucasian oil. Gen. Rommel is halted, but not repulsed, at the gates of Alexandria. Even our July 4 submarine successes in the Aleutians serve only to emphasize the fact that the Japanese have apparently used the month since they first appeared in that quarter to establish substantial bases there.

This news makes it certain that Chiang Kai-shek's appeal will not be the only one from an ally seeking increased support. It is dubious, however, whether substantial American support can be given on any of the threatened fronts in time to count.

But anything that we do in the Pacific is, indirectly, of the utmost aid to the Russians. The harder we press Japan the more difficult the Japanese are going to find it to attack Russia from behind. That such an attack is being prepared is common knowledge. The seizure of the Aleutians is regarded as a possible preparation for such an attack, since they are the natural line of communication between our own Alaskan forces and the Russians' far eastern army in Siberia. If we save the Russians the necessity of fighting on a second front we shall have rendered them as great a service as if we had embarked on the dubious venture of opening a second front against Hitler.

THE HORRIBLE EXAMPLE.

The people of seven Franklin county coal towns fail to recognize themselves in a brochure published by the research division of the WPA which depicts their community as rèpresentative of what the British call a "depressed area." The WPA says the towns have been "stranded," and selects photographic evidence to convey the impression that Franklin county is peopled by poor whites, hopeless and shiftless, whom the world and all modern improvements have passed by.

The people of the seven towns are justly indignant, for the picture of squalor and misery so carefully built up by the social crusaders is not typical at all. Only a few homes in West Frankfort lack electricity, but one of them was selected to be photographed. The town's thriving business district is not mentioned, but the booklet pictures a fire-gutted storeroom over the caption: "We used to have one of the livest little towns you ever saw." The modern mine equipment is passed over without notice, and so are the courage, hope, culture, and education of the people. Nor is anything said about the relative prosperity of the county, which led all the 34 counties in southern Illinois in pay roll allotment for war bond purchases.

The scenario of the "stranded towns" is typical of the New Deal. The script is fiction, the stock shots are phony, and the characters might just as well have been hired from the casting office. What the social planners want to convey is that the towns are "stranded"—helpless to do anything for themselves—and the evidence has been made to conform. In the last reel the burocratic hero will come galloping to the rescue on a white charger to pass out a government handout. Fadeout, with everybody happy.

What the Washington pay rollers are trying to do is embark on some more made work, whether anybody needs their help or wants it. Thus they justify their jobs and extend the province of the burocracy. The fact that the whole picture of Franklin county is a fake is irrelevant.

PARABLE.

Every day the papers report new regulations or proposed regulations governing the use of such commodities as sugar and oil. These items are scarce or it is feared they will become scarce thruout the country or in sections of the country because of the effectiveness of the German submarine campaign. It is a singular fact that almost everybody in Washington talks loud and long about the necessity for rationing, but almost nobody has anything to say about the persistent failure of our navy to defeat the U-boats.

There is an incident from Gen. Grant's career that shows how a first rate military mind operates in such circumstances. At one moment during the Wilderness campaign the Confederates were pressing closer and closer to Union headquarters. Some of Gen. Grant's more nervous aides suggested to him that the time had come for the staff to withdraw to a less threatened position. The general remarked quietly that it seemed more sensible to him to move up some artillery and drive the enemy back. That was done and the situation saved.

If we defeat the submarine menace off our shores, most of the economic problems which now beset us will fade into insignificance. If we don't overcome the U-boats all the rationing in the world will still leave us with severe shortages in some commodities.

Best thing that could happen if Hitler goes to Egypt as a conqueror would be for him to come out as a mummy.—Philadelphia Inquirer.

ALONG THE CIVILIAN FRONT.

A national organization of experts in everything on the carte du jour between canapé Lorenzo and coupe St. Jacques voted a year ago to hold its convention in Chicago this summer. Came Pearl Harbor plus the shortages, so the steering committee decided to abandon the meeting, Washington had said that travel must be curtailed and belts tightened.

When their patriotic decision was announced, an ominous roar began to run thru the hotel managers' associations. It reached the committee by letter and telephone, generally in the form of: "Hey, you dopes, are you trying to ruin the hotel business?"

Then a federal bureau, ignorant of the spartan decision, wrote that it had speakers who would address the convention on matters of national importance. When told that the convention had been canceled for patriotic reasons, the bureau flashed back with "Nonsense."

The bewildered committee then hurled itself upon the bosom of Big Chief Shortages himself, who gave the matter careful consideration and wired: "Think convention public benefit. No reason to cancel. Go ahead."

So the experts on canapé Lorenzo and coupe St. Jacques will assemble according to the original plan. Their slogan for the Duration will henceforth be: "Business as usual unless prevented."

Lawton S. Parker, mentioned in dispatches as vexed with the secret service investigation of the Drottningholm's latest passenger list, is well-known among old-timers along the Boul Mich. He was on the faculties of the Art Institute and the Chicago Academy of Fine Arts about 40 years ago, and the town was proud of him when, in 1913, he became the first American to win the gold medal of the Paris salon. His prize-winning painting, "La Paresse," a lazy and lovely nude, ran away with the art show at the San Francisco fair of 1915.

The studio building at 19 East Pearson street is Parker's contribution to Chicago's housing for artists. He also designed, promoted and built a large studio apartment building in New York, and retired with his profits to a château in France, which was ransacked by German troops.

He has painted portraits of eminent Chicagoans such as Martin A. Ryerson, J. Ogden Armour, Harry Pratt Judson, N. W. Harris, and Peter S. Grosscup.

A PLACE IN THE CORAL SEA.

A thousand miles toward the Southern Cross,
In the broadest sweep of the sea,
Where trade winds blow, and the albatross
Keeps a deathless watch, soaring free
Above the tides and the ships that lie
In the calm vault of eternity;
There's a hallowed place, one of Freedom's shrines,
To heroic hearts, and courageous minds,
Where the Lexington went down.

Where men of faith keep their weapons bright;
Where enslaved men kneel to pray;
All hearts are thrilled by her gallant fight,
When she held the line, barred the way
To swarming ships and fighter planes
Hurrying south to extend their gains.
The armadas split, and the Rising Suns
Made a panicky flight from the carrier's guns,
Ere the Lexington went down.

Escorted by her destroyer screen,
And the sister ships of her fleet,
She steamed away from the battle scene,
Where her victory was complete.
With death wounds in her battered frame,
Where Jap bombs and torpedoes came,
She refused to quit; tried to carry on,
Till the men of her crew were all safely gone;
Then the Lexington went down.

No monument marks her resting place,
Save one star, unusually bright,
That watches over the lonely waste,
And across the world sends a light,
Wherever men are not blind to see
A symbol of immortality,
When the mighty fleets hood their guns in peace,
Until Kingdom Come, they'll bedeck the seas
Where the Lexington went down.

How to Start the Day Wrong.

He stayed over night at a downtown hotel and left a call for 6:30 a. m. He awoke, contrary to his habit, a few minutes before the appointed time, exulting in the fact that for once he wouldn't be roused from a deep sleep to grope blindly in a semiconscious state for the spot where the noise came from. He felt quite happy at being ready this time to anticipate the time-to-get-up voice which was always too annoyingly bright and cheerful for his mood.

He waited expectantly with arm outstretched to throttle the phone at the first burst. But nothing happened. The minutes slipped by and he gradually worked himself up into a state of nervousness and then fierce anger. By 7 o'clock his patience was completely gone. He picked up the receiver. "Look here," he shouted down, "you needn't bother now about calling me at 6:30. I'm up!" Shandy Gaff.

No trenches gaping wide (with ridges)
For us to span o'er flimsy bridges,
No piles of brick were on display,
No traffic jam to cause dismay,
No pungent odors (not so sweet),
No winding routes to cross the street.

CONTROLING VARICOSE VEINS.

THE return of blood from the extremities to the heart takes place thru a system of conduits called veins. Some of these structures lie beneath the skin while others [the deeper set] meander between muscles and equally strong tissues—fascia. The two networks communicate. This explains why a firm bandage compressing the leg, for example, will oblige the used up fluid to travel homeward via the interior vessels.

A relatively common disorder, which is more frequent in women, is varicose veins. This means that the "pipes" have become dilated and tortuous. As time goes on the walls have a tendency to thicken and become less flexible.

If we walked on our hands and feet we would have far less occasion to consider this ailment. But most of us stand erect during our waking hours and we may wonder how the circulation finds its way from the feet to the heart. Muscle action [movements] squeeze these channels, forcing the fluid to flow uphill. But it would soon go into reverse were it not for a series of valves which are capable of supporting a column of blood several inches in length. They operate much like a signal system on a railroad. As the train leaves a given point, another can enter the block.

What factors favor the development of these twisted ducts? Coughing, straining at stool, or lifting heavy objects will increase the tension within the abdomen. In turn, this pressure is communicated to the internal vessels which pass it on to those in the legs. Momentarily this part of the circulation is arrested. Should these episodes occur often, valves may be rendered useless.

Ordinarily no one need give much thought to slightly puffy veins which may be observed toward the end of the day. If, however, they increase in size and become more winding, some support may be indicated. In fact, at the very outset the wearing of an elastic bandage or a webbed stocking may be all that is required.

But if no attention is paid to the condition, and other areas become involved, it may be necessary to take more drastic measures to avoid the formation of ulcers. This complication is anything but pleasant. Inasmuch as the nutrition of the epidermis is interfered with, sloughing may ensue, with the establishment of a craterlike sore. Then it is that either surgical ligation, removal, or the injection plan will need to be considered.

What can be done for prevention? Far fewer cases would be encountered if we avoided obesity and everything that places a strain upon these delicate passages. With the first appearance of the tendency the victim may be instructed to lie flat on the back and exercise the legs as tho pedaling a bicycle. Reclining quietly with the feet 9 or 10 inches higher than the level of the trunk will also be helpful. In the event that inflammation [phlebitis] is present, the utmost care must be taken to avoid permanent blockage.

Standing on the feet for long periods may be shunned as one would a pestilence. The very weight of the column of blood may be sufficient to balloon outward one of these thin-walled pathways.

STANDARD OF AMERICANISM.

Chicago, July 3.—Axel Burklund misinterprets my letter of June 8 regarding hyphenates. He apparently feels that my suggestion is for him to forget that he ever had any love for "the land his father came from" and not to associate with anybody who came from there.

If every citizen [especially the naturalized one] could segregate from his consciousness the feeling he has for the land of his forebears and envisage himself as originating in the United States like his own descendants, he will find himself closer to the ideal of an American citizen than by thinking of the sufferings of his European relatives. This does not mean he is to lose his affection for his native land and people, but, if he insists upon allowing his thoughts to dwell upon his place of origin and permits that consciousness to grow, he is developing that feeling of internationalism which is the germ of infidelity to his adopted country and his Americanism is corrupted.

At the time of the last World war, Theodore Roosevelt raised a standard of true American citizenship when he said in a published statement: "An American who is loyal to this great American nation has two duties, and only two, in international matters. In the first place, he is bound to serve the honor and the interest of the United States. In the second place, he is bound to treat all other nations in accordance with their conduct at any given time, and in accordance with the ultimate needs of mankind at large; and not in accordance with the interests of the European nation from which some or all of his ancestors have come. If he does not act along these lines, he is derelict in his duty to his fellow citizens, and he is guilty of betraying the interests of his country."

SAFETY AIDS THE WAR EFFORT.

River Forest, Ill., July 1.—Congratulations on your move to reward notable war efforts.

It has been my privilege to inspect several concerns in and about Chicago that are engaged in war work. It seems important at this time to promote accident prevention in conjunction with the "Notable War Effort" idea to save men, man hours, materials, and machines. I believe that this would be a profitable idea in which your committee would be highly interested. A lost time accident costs more than any effort to prevent that accident. GORDON P. LAWRANCE.

GRATITUDE.

Chicago, July 1.—In one of our city's well-known shoe stores Wednesday I was deciding how I could manage my budget so as to purchase a pair of shoes which were beyond my means. A kind lady overheard my conversation with the salesman and slipped the necessary cash in my hands as she quickly walked out of the store. I was so completely taken by surprise that I did not have the opportunity to thank her personally. I understand she lives in Winnetka. So I am taking this means of expressing my sincere thanks to an unknown friend.

CAROLINE.

ON BLACK GEORGE AND KING PETER.

Chicago, July 2.—As an American citizen of Serbian ancestry, and a reader of THE TRIBUNE for over 50 years, I cannot refrain from taking an exception to the editorial June 29, "Black George's Heir," which seems unfair to the Serbian people who are fighting so valiantly in this war, and a reflection on the Karadjordje family.

George Petrovich, the grandfather of King Peter I., was of pure Serbian [Slav] blood. He was nicknamed "Black George" by the Turks, due perhaps to his heroic exploits against them in the black mountains of Serbia. The name stuck to him and he and his people gloried in it. He was no more a brigand than Gen. Draza Mihailovich, under whose command the Serbian Chetniks are making Jugo-Slavia an unhealthy place for Hitler's and Mussolini's hordes, or some of the heroes of our own Revolutionary days, who fought for American freedom.

His grandson, King Peter I., later renewed the revolution for greater Serbia against the same oppressors. Peter's son, Alexander I., father of the present king, was brutally assassinated at Marseilles by Croatian "Ustachi," instigated by Hitler's and Mussolini's hireling, Pavelich, now their stooge in "Free Croatia."

Young King Peter is only 19 years old and could not be expected to be with the Chetniks in the mountains of Jugo-Slavia any more than you could expect King George of England or President Roosevelt to be at the front lines of our armed forces. Peter came to the throne as his just and right heritage and his people expressed their choice when they rose up in arms against the axis powers last year and fought the axis and all the traitors from without and within Jugo-Slavia. They are still fighting in Jugo-Slavia and their kin are fighting in our great American forces on every front.

The American government and the people have shown him the honor due a representative of a great people, who are carrying on a valiant fight on the allies' side against far superior forces and have pledged themselves rather to die to the last man than to submit to Nazi and Fascist rule.

PATIENCE IS REWARDED.

Chicago, June 30.—The girls who have been annoyed by men in the theaters remind me of a conversation I overhead:

"I had to change my seat several times at the movies."

"Gracious, did a man get fresh?"

"Well, finally." SMILE AWHILE.

LET'S TALK ABOUT THE WEATHER.

Riverside, Ill., July 2.—The rain chart and story in your July 1 TRIBUNE was a dandy contribution. How many folks I have heard saying of late, "We have had so much rain." How come they get that idea? They wouldn't get it if they were gardening, for we gardeners have felt the need of rain. Chicago has had 1.86 inches of rain for all of June. That is less than one good rain would bring, and it's a season when the soil needs plenty of rain. We think of South Dakota, perhaps, as being a dry state. In one town in South Dakota I know about there was a rain of 2.5 inches, and that was only one of many during June. In another town of South Dakota there were 7 inches of rain in one day, or about four times what Chicago had in the whole month. Iowa, Minnesota, and other states have had several times as much rain as Chicagoland during June. H. B.

ILLINOIS MARRIAGE LAWS.

Chicago, July 2.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—On Aug. 17, 1932, I married a woman who had very recently been divorced for the second time. After a few years I heard that the divorce laws in Illinois in 1931-'32 required at least a year's wait before marrying again. When I left her two years ago I settled upon her everything we had accumulated during our years of living together.

1. Was my marriage to this woman legal if there was such a law stating a year's waiting period? We married two months after she got her divorce.

2. Is it necessary for me to divorce her now? I wish to marry again.

3. I think if this marriage of mine to this woman is not legal it should automatically be annulled. G. R.

1. The Illinois law repealing the delay requirement expressly validated marriages celebrated in violation of the old delay requirement. We see no reason why your marriage should not be regarded as valid.

2. Yes.

3. We would disagree with you.

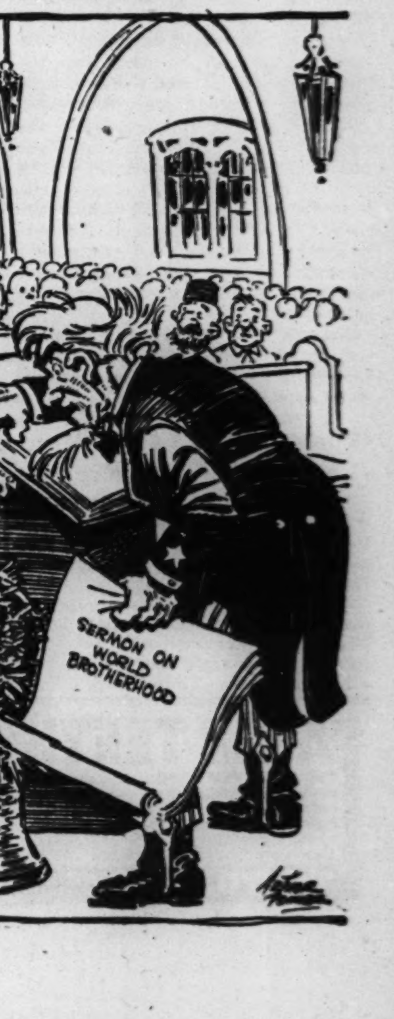
THE PREACHER'S KIDS

[Detroit Free Press.]



The American Public has a right to know

THE TRUTH ABOUT SYNTHETIC RUBBER

With 97% of the world's sources of natural rubber in enemy hands, America and her allies must have synthetic rubber quickly and in quantity—or risk losing the war for want of it. In a spirit of public service, rather than of criticism, we offer in this advertisement facts about synthetic rubber.

What is synthetic rubber made of?

The best synthetic rubber has butadiene as its most important ingredient.

Is butadiene difficult to produce?

No. There is nothing difficult about making small quantities of butadiene from petroleum. The problem is to produce vast quantities quickly and with least use of critical war materials. For this purpose a catalytic process must be used.

What is the best process of making butadiene from petroleum?

The Houdry Catalytic Process. This is not a new or experimental process. It is a new and simplified application of a well-established method of refining petroleum, by which well over a billion gallons of high-quality gasoline are now being produced per year.

Why is the Houdry Process better?

Because by means of the Houdry Process, butadiene can be produced in greater quantity, within a much shorter time and at millions of dollars less cost than by any other petroleum process.

How much butadiene can the Houdry Process produce?

15 standard-size Houdry-Process plants will produce enough butadiene to provide a million tons of synthetic rubber a year (as much rubber as, it is estimated, was consumed in the United States during 1941).

How much critical materials would be required?

15 plants would require not more than 180,000 tons of steel, from one-third to one-half less than required for the next best petroleum process.

What would this steel-saving mean to America?

The steel that would be saved in the construction of Houdry plants for an annual rubber production of a million tons, would be sufficient to supply steel plates for more than 150 destroyers, or 3,000 medium tanks, or 100,000 Jeeps.

How long to build Houdry plants?

Given suitable priorities on materials, Houdry plants can be built in nine months—at least 4 months sooner than for any other petroleum process.

What does 4 months mean in this war?

Within four months, Japan seized almost all of the Far East; in less time, Germany swept through the Low Countries and conquered France. Four months' saving of time can be priceless to America a year from now, as her meagre rubber supply nears exhaustion.

How much would these Houdry plants cost?

Approximately $12,000,000 each—saving millions of dollars as against the cost of butadiene plants using other petroleum processes.

Who should be especially interested in this method of making butadiene?

Various executive departments of the federal government which must deal with the rubber problem; the Congress, with its powers of appropriation and investigation; and, of course, the employers of all of these —the people of the United States.

What about tires for motorists?

If the quantity of steel saved by adoption of the Houdry Process is put into additional Houdry plants, butadiene production will be increased sufficiently to provide tires or recaps for American motorists, as well as taking care of all present estimates of commercial and military requirements.

What will the Houdry Method mean to YOU?

It will overcome the present shortage of rubber sooner, save huge amounts of critical materials and, by both these effects, greatly advance America's victory effort. It will save millions of dollars of expense which will otherwise needlessly burden taxpayers. And it will hasten the day when, essential military and civilian rubber needs having been met, American motorists can again have rubber for tires. Finally, it will release America forever from dependence on natural rubber from foreign sources.

We are proud to offer the Houdry Catalytic Process to any and all American manufacturers, without restriction and at nominal royalty rates approved by the United States Government.

The Houdry Process has already contributed importantly to America's war effort. Without its principle, America's requirements for 100-octane aviation fuel could not have been met. Among the companies now licensed to produce 100-octane aviation gasoline by the Houdry Process are:

LABOR ASSEMBLY SCORES WPA FOR COAL-TOWN BOOK

West Frankforters Term Charges Blasphemy.

West Frankfort, Ill., July 7 [Special].—Labor today added its voice to the furore of protest which has been aroused thruout this coal mining community by the publication by the research division of the Works Projects administration of a booklet, "Seven Stranded Coal Towns."

Under authority of a resolution adopted last night by the West Frankfort Trades and Labor assembly, a message was dispatched to Rep. C. W. [Runt] Bishop [R., Ill.] urging the congressman to "use the full power of your influence to bring about the suppression of this booklet that, in addition to blaspheming a proud and worthy people, is without any constructive purpose." Similar messages were sent to Senators Wayland Brooks [R., Ill.] and Scott W. Lucas [D., Ill.] and to Gov. Dwight Green.

Joins Chamber Protest.

By taking this action, the labor body aligned itself with the West Frankfort Chamber of Commerce which last week thru its public relations committee appealed to Rep. Bishop to condemn the booklet in congress. Local unions were asked to take similar action.

The Chamber of Commerce, it was announced today, is assembling photographs for a "West Frankfort Thru the Years" picturization which will be designed to refute the WPA booklet's implication of a general retrogression.

The seven "stranded towns" mentioned in the booklet are West Frankfort and Zeigler in Franklin county; Carrier Mills and Eldorado in Saline county, and Bush, Herrin, and Johnston City in Williamson county.

Calls Cases Subnormal.

The labor assembly's resolution asserts the booklet has sought out and amplified, with camera and pen, extreme subnormal cases in support of the "stranded coal town" theory.

An "unfair inference of a total lack of progress" is given by the photographs and titles in the booklet, according to the resolution. This is termed a "shameful reflection on the high standard of cultural attainment among the coal miner population of the area."

APPOINT COUNCIL GROUP TO BEGIN WORK ON BUDGET

First steps toward preparation of next year's city budget were taken yesterday at the meeting of the council finance committee. Ald. James B. Bowler [25th], chairman, named a subcommittee of six aldermen to start budget consideration and urged them to "get busy at once—you have an important job to do."

Budget making, which is not usually started until October or November, was called to attention of the council early this year by Bowler, who said: "Indications are that the city revenue, especially from vehicle tax, other licenses, and motor fuel tax collections, are falling off already and will be much lower in 1943."

Ald. William A. Rowan [10th] is chairman of the budget subcommittee. Members of the committee are Aldermen Arthur G. Lindell [9th], Bryan Hartnett [12th], Walter J. Orlikoski [35th], P. J. Cullerton [38th], John J. Grealis [44th], and Joseph C. Ross [40th].

BERMUDA CURBS USE OF HORSES; RETURNS TO AUTO

HAMILTON, Bermuda, July 7 (AP).—Bermuda authorities, who until last year had a ban on the use of automobiles, have now restricted the use of horses.

A government notice published today declared that after July 10 horses shall not be used for working purposes without a permit issued by a certified veterinary surgeon. The assembly had announced last week that a shortage of oats made it advisable to use motor vehicles for transportation and turn horses to pasture.

The order will throw Bermuda's small army of carriage drivers out of a job, but it was believed they would be given work temporarily at the British dockyard and United States bases.

U. S. Admiral in Trinidad to Command Sea Base

PORT OF SPAIN, Trinidad, July 7 (AP).—The increasing importance of naval operations in the Caribbean area was reflected in the announcement by United States naval authorities tonight that Rear Admiral Jesse B. Oldendorf has arrived in Trinidad to become commandant at the Chaguaramas naval operations base.

OBITUARIES

Frederic L. Ryder.

Frederic L. Ryder, 76 years old, widely known in the musical world and for the last 38 years associated with the Cable Piano company at 228 South Wabash avenue, died unexpectedly yesterday near his home at 4835 Dorchester avenue. He was noted for the assistance he gave innumerable concert singers, operatic aspirants, and musical artists in gaining their training and auditions. His widow, Mrs. Claire L. Ryder, survives. Services will be held at 2 p. m. tomorrow in St. Paul's Episcopal church, 50th street and Dorchester avenue.

Daniel Willard.

Baltimore, Md., July 7 (AP).—Private funeral services will be held tomorrow at the family home at Goodwood Gardens for Daniel Willard, former president of the Baltimore and Ohio railroad, who died yesterday after a brief illness. Burial will be in the family plot at Hartland, Vt., Friday at 11 a. m. Willard was president of the B. & O. from 1910 until last year, when he became chairman of the board.

Capt. Alex McPherson.

Buffalo, N. Y., July 7 (AP).—Capt. Alex J. McPherson, 60 years old, of the steamer Duluth, a Great Lakes sailor for more than 30 years, died today. He was employed by the Great Lakes Transit corporation and commanded passenger vacation liners and carried grain and other cargo between Duluth, Minn., and Buffalo.

Dr. George S. Burgess.

Claremont, Cal., July 7 (AP).—Dr. George S. Burgess, 60 years old, secretary of the faculty and formerly professor of law and economics at Pomona college, died today. A graduate of the University of Michigan, Dr. Burgess, before coming here in 1918, practiced law at Minneapolis and Long Beach, Cal.

Sir William Phene Neal.

LONDON, July 7 (AP).—Sir William Phené Neal, 81 years old, who was lord mayor of London in 1930 and 1931, died today. Widely known for an aversion to oratory, he is said to have made the shortest lord mayor's speech in history in 15 words.

Thomas Gasbarra.

Rockford, Ill., July 7 [Special].—Thomas Gasbarra, 46 years old, linguist and editor of an Italian weekly newspaper here, died last night at his home, 1021 South Main street.

LEAKY CHLORINE GAS TANK FELLS 15 IN N. Y. STREET

New York, July 7 (AP).—Chlorine escaping from a tank being removed from the Columbia college of pharmacy today felled 17 men and women as firemen donned gas masks to rescue them.

None appeared seriously injured by the green choking fumes which were dissipated quickly by a brisk breeze, but for a few minutes numbers of pedestrians fell to the sidewalks while others clung to bus stop stanchions to keep from falling.

The tank was one of four old containers being contributed to the war scrap metal campaign. All were thought to be empty, but one began to leak. Rescue squads administered oxygen to the victims. Eight were taken to hospitals for treatment.

Death of Policeman's Wife from Burns Held Accident

A coroner's jury yesterday returned a verdict of accidental death in the case of Mrs. Evelyn Mayer, wife of Policeman Peter Mayer, who died of burns in the Little Company of Mary hospital. Mrs. Mayer was 42 years old. Her clothing caught fire when she was lighting a coal burning laundry stove in the basement of her home at 8316 South Hermitage avenue Monday. Her son, Edward, 10, told the coroner's jury she was able to crawl to the first floor but lay there for five hours, unable to summon help, until he found her when he came in after playing.

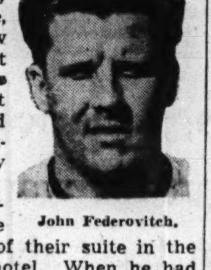
BIG BEAR TACKLE HOLDS A STREET CAR TO NO GAIN

Sanitarium Hopes It Can Hold Him.

It was at 4 a. m. yesterday that John L. [Ace] Federovitch, 6 foot 5 inch, 265 pound tackle for the Chicago Bears, showed his pretty 23 year old wife, Gertrude, how he'd held a street car to no gain for 25 minutes at Clark street and Diversey parkway Sunday night.



John Federovitch.

The Federovitchs were alone in the bedroom of their suite in the Sheridan Plaza hotel. When he had finished his demonstration of how he stopped the street car, several big pieces of furniture were wrecked, Mrs. Federovitch had fled to safety, and the Town Hall police had been summoned.

Police Have a Bit of Trouble.

"The boys had a little trouble getting him to the station," said Desk Sergt. John Walsh, "but they brought him in." Sergt. Walsh explained Federovitch's earlier adventures.

After delaying the street car for 25 minutes by refusing to move his car when the traffic light changed, Federovitch was arrested on a charge of disorderly conduct and posted a $50 bond. He failed to show up in court Monday morning so Judge N. J. Bonelli assessed him a $40 fine and $10 court costs.

He's Still There.

When Federovitch was brought into Judge Bonelli's court yesterday after the hotel room episode, the judge determined to send him to the behavior clinic. Dr. John Davis, physician for the Chicago Cubs and Chicago Bears, interposed, however, and said that Federovitch had been injured recently and that he [Dr. Davis] would take care of him. Dr. Davis took Federovitch to the Pinel sanitarium, 741 Diversey parkway.

"Is he still there?" a man in charge at the sanitarium was asked last night.

"Yes."

"Is he going to stay?"

"We hope so. Because if he decides to leave, there's nobody here and not enough of them to hold him."

JESSE S. REEVES, U. OF MICHIGAN PROFESSOR, DIES

Ann Arbor, Mich., July 7 (AP).—Jesse Siddal Reeves, 70 years old, University of Michigan professor of international law and an authority in his field, died here today.

Prof. Reeves was born in Richmond, Ind. He was admitted to the bar in 1897 and practiced law in Richmond for 10 years. He was a lecturer in political science at Johns Hopkins university from 1905-'06, was assistant professor at Dartmouth from 1907-'10, and joined the University of Michigan faculty as a professor in 1940.

68 Per Cent of Chicago USO Quota Subscribed

More than $1,180,000 has been raised by the United Service Organizations' campaign in the Chicago district, reports from fund workers showed yesterday. This brings the drive up to 68 per cent of the $1,749,432 goal set for the area by July 31, when the campaign will end.

PRIMATE OF ENGLAND PROPOSES SYNDICATE RULE RUHR VALLEY

LONDON, July 7 (AP).—The archbishop of Canterbury today proposed that the industrial resources of Germany's Ruhr valley should be worked by an international syndicate after the war in order to find another use for its potential war output.

"The problem of Germany consists of two things," he said at a Foreign Press association luncheon. "One is what we call Prussian tradition; the other is the immense war potential which exists in the gifts of nature to the whole Ruhr district.

"Steps must be taken to render the Prussian tradition ineffective and there must also be some other use found for all the war potential which the Ruhr industry constitutes.

"I am very much attracted by the suggestion that the industrial resources of that part of the world, together with some of the neighbor countries beyond the frontier of the reich, should be worked by an international syndicate."

HOLDERS OF TWO COUNTY OFFICES ASK ADDED FUNDS

County Treasurer John Toman and County Assessor John S. Clark yesterday asked the county board for supplemental 1942 appropriations totaling $135,000. Both officials argued that their original budget allotments were too small for efficient operation of their offices.

County Commissioner Maurice F. Kavanagh, chairman of the board's finance committee, called a special committee meeting for next Monday to consider the requests.

Newton C. Farr, president of the Civic federation, said the federation is opposed to the requests for additional funds. Farr recalled that the county ignored pleas for economy and adopted a 1942 budget 4½ million dollars in excess of revenue estimates by the county controler, and as a result is already facing the threat of payless pay days. Farr also asserted that supplemental allotments are illegal except to meet emergencies such as fires or other disasters.

SON, DAUGHTER WILLED $900,000 OF BLOCK ESTATE

The will of Philip D. Block, one of the founders of the Inland Steel company and chairman of its executive committee, filed for probate yesterday, divided an estate estimated at $900,000 between his son and daughter, Philip D. Jr. and Mrs. Madeline Block Straus. It also divided 1,000 shares of Inland stock among seven charities, as follows:

Jewish Charities of Chicago, 300 shares; Michael Reese hospital, 200, and 100 each to the Jewish Children's Bureau, the Home for Aged Jews, the Catholic Charities, United Charities and the Infant Welfare society.

Aside from a division of personal and household effects between her and the children, no provision was made for the widow, Celia. Attorney Carl Meyer, who filed the will and petition, however, said that Mr. Block had previously provided for his wife.

Tired Kidneys Often Bring Sleepless Nights

Doctors say your kidneys contain 15 miles of tiny tubes or filters which help to purify the blood and keep you healthy. When they get tired and don't work right in the daytime, many people have to get up nights. Frequent or scanty passages with smarting and burning sometimes shows there is something wrong with your kidneys or bladder. Don't neglect this condition and lose valuable, restful sleep.

When disorder of kidney function permits poisonous matter to remain in your blood, it may also cause nagging backache, rheumatic pains, leg pains, loss of pep and energy, swelling, puffiness under the eyes, headaches and dizziness.

Don't wait! Ask your druggist for Doan's Pills, used successfully by millions for over 40 years. They give happy relief and will help the 15 miles of kidney tubes flush out poisonous waste from your blood. Get Doan's Pills.

GIRL, 7, ON WAY TO BUY CANDY, IS KILLED BY TRUCK

On her way to a store to buy candy with a nickel her mother had given her, Dolores Worna, 7 years old, 8352 Buffalo avenue, was killed yesterday by a milk truck as she crossed Burley avenue near 83d street. The truck, owned by the Lincoln Dairy company, was driven by Sidney Risskind, 24, of 1827 South Millard avenue.

Robert Trapp, 3 years old, who was struck by an auto Monday when he ran into the street in front of his home at 3456 Elston avenue, died in Belmont hospital. The driver of the car was Miss Miriam Geller, 26, of 4215 North Francisco avenue.

Charles Rothfeld, 69, of 1527 South Avers avenue, died soon after being struck by an automobile at 31st street near Kedzie avenue. Louis Kostaba Jr., 18, of 2452 South Christiana avenue, was the driver.

Stephen Guhin, 65, of 658 West 81st street, was killed at Halsted and 83d streets by a car driven by John Callahan, 1710 West 111th street.

Motorcycle Policeman Louis G. Hennig of Skokie was seriously injured last night when he crashed into a truck which he was chasing at Kedvale avenue and Oakton street, Skokie. The driver of the truck, Jack L. Shires, 24, of 1569 North Hoyne avenue, was charged with speeding.

Up to 4 p. m. yesterday 372 persons had died in automobile accidents in Cook county since the first of the year. Of these, 290 lost their lives in Chicago, where 10,616 others had been injured.

W. N. AINSWORTH DIES; METHODIST CHURCH BISHOP

Asheville, N. C., July 7 (AP).—Bishop William N. Ainsworth, retired, of the Methodist church, died of a heart attack today in his hotel room here. He was 70 years old.

Bishop Ainsworth arrived here yesterday from his home in Macon, Ga. With him when he was stricken were his wife and his son, Malcolm, secretary of the Asheville Chamber of Commerce.

A native of Camilla, Ga., the bishop served several churches in his home state and was president of Wesleyan college at Macon before 1918, when he became a bishop of the Methodist Episcopal Church, South, later merged into the Methodist church. He was president of the Anti-Saloon League of America in 1935-'36.

BALTIMORE SUN BUILDING ROCKED BY GAS EXPLOSION

Baltimore, Md., July 7 (AP).—A gas explosion in the Sun composing room shook the block long newspaper building this morning, blowing out windows overlooking Baltimore street and injuring seven employés. The injured, six Linotype operators and a machinist, were sent to University hospital, treated and discharged.

The force of the blast stripped concrete from a steel and concrete pillar. Debris struck the Baltimore and Ohio building across the street.

Repairs had just been completed to a gas line feeding a bank of Linotypes from which gas had been escaping.

HOWARD FORMS 'FLYING SQUAD' TO HEAR RENT CASES

The rent control office will be aided by a "flying squadron" of investigators today. Six staff members have been chosen to compose an analysis section, which will sort out important complaints from landlords and tenants to make sure they receive quick action.

Every case coming into the office by phone, letter, or person will be considered within 48 hours, Earl Dean Howard, rent control director for the Office of Price Administration, said.

Federal Judge William H. Holly withheld his decision on the first case against a landlord under the wartime rent control act yesterday until he hears both sides of the story this morning.

The suit brought by Attorney John Hastings of the OPA sought to restrain Miss Stephanie and Miss Genevieve Solowski, operating an eight-flat apartment building at 5156 Newport avenue, from "further violation" of the OPA rent orders and to force them to return a range and electric refrigerator to quarters rented by Floyd Davison.

ROAD OFFICIALS OF 4 STATES MAP ASPHALT CURBS

State highway department representatives from Illinois, Indiana, Michigan, and Kentucky met yesterday in Chicago with Joseph T. Voshell, district engineer for the Public Roads administration. They worked out plans for handling proposed asphalt and tar products surfacing projects under restrictions imposed July 2 by Petroleum Coördinator Harold L. Ickes.

Voshell explained that such surfacing for public roads and streets must have the approval of the PRA, which can be obtained only by showing that the project is essential to the war. Local bodies first must apply to state highway department, which will investigate and make a recommendation to the district PRA office. The district engineer will then make his recommendation and forward his own and the state's to Washington, D. C., for final action.

Pending projects already designated as essential will be approved without further process, Voshell said.

FORMER HUSBAND GIVEN PROPERTY OF MRS. CUDAHY

The will of Mrs. Margaret Carry Cudahy, divorced wife of Edward A. Cudahy, the packer, who died in her home at 377 Woodlawn avenue, Lake Forest, on June 14, was filed for probate in Waukegan yesterday. It bequeathed all her personal belongings and household effects to her former husband and divided the income from $150,000 among her three children, Sheila, 21 years old; Edward A. III, 19, and Anthony B., 17. The children live with their father at 904 North Green Bay road, Lake Forest.

Graphic Inside Story Given of Berlin in 1941

"Assignment to Berlin," by Harry W. Flannery. [Knopf, $3.] Published a week ago Monday.

BY FANNY BUTCHER.

Harry W. Flannery was assigned to Berlin to succeed William L. Shirer as correspondent of the Columbia Broadcasting system in the late fall of 1940. His book brings the record of Germany up to October, 1941. It is extremely interesting for that reason. But it is not another "Berlin Diary."

By the time Mr. Flannery got to Berlin Nazi Germany had few surprises in ideology for the world at large. During Mr. Shirer's incumbency there were constant dramatic shocks which intelligent readers shared with him as they watched in his pages the incredible workings of incredible minds thru the machinations of Nazi party intrigue. Germany in his pages was in a state of churning change, and his method of chronicling each day's events at the same time clinically analyzed and dramatized that change.

Mr. Flannery's book is not a diary, altho it obviously follows in exact chronological form the events which took place during the year between the Octobers of 1940 and 1941. Mr. Flannery's is a more informal, more personal record than Mr. Shirer's, more concerned with the methods than with the origin of Nazi burocracy. Before he went to Germany Mr. Flannery was inclined to feel that Nazi Germany was something far off and that we were too strong to be attacked. However, he declares that after he "saw that country at first hand" he came "to realize more with every week and month that no such godless, cruel, merciless government could be suffered to continue, that it must be stamped to death as one would crush a snake . . . coiled to strike its fangs into us."

For despite the early coddling and petting which the Nazis gave him when he started his work in Berlin, using their favorite tricks to try to divert a new correspondent from the truth, he immediately discovered how "godless and cruel" were both the men and the ideas with which he had to deal.

One of the most shocking of those cruelties was their "realistic" treatment of the aged and insane. They would bomb hospitals which housed the insane, the crippled, and the hopelessly ill and blame the British for it, Mr. Flannery says, and then, when suspicion arose, "the Nazis changed their tactics and arranged more subtle murders by injecting slow poisons into the veins of the poor helpless people." And, he declares, "There was no doubt of the facts."

Readers will find little encouragement in Mr. Flannery's book for the idea that Germany will collapse. He does quote "one of the foremost authorities [economic] in the reich" as saying that "Europe will be prostrate economically if the war lasts another two years" and "it's not impossible that a serious lack of potatoes and coal would cause a revolution." But the general opinion he found was that "this war will last five years or more," that Germany was prepared for a long war, and that "vast quantities of grains and canned foods had been stored and that the resources of the continent were sufficient to supply all needs in armaments and munitions."

Mr. Flannery's book gives us a graphic report on our European enemy as of 1941.

Colorful Story of Great Lakes Told with Zest

"The Long Ships Passing," by Walter Havighurst. [Macmillan, $3.] Published yesterday.

The story of the great "seas of sweet water, the Great Lakes," is told by Walter Havighurst with zest in the telling and with that historical horizon-scanning that gives readers a panoramic picture without listing every date and every hero's name.

Since the time when Nicolet paddled thru the straits of Mackinac in a birch canoe, in which he "carried a robe of Chinese damask, embroidered with poppies and birds of paradise, so that he could dress in fitness to arrive among the merchants and the princes of Cathay" [he thought he was approaching China], the Great Lakes have become one of the great trade routes of the world.

Half the fresh water in the world is in them and over their not always placid surfaces have been carried unimaginable wealth in grain, lumber, copper, "baled peltry," and motor cars, but, says the author, none of its trades was so prophetic as the stream of immigrants it brought to create the great middle west.

Mr. Havighurst tells the story of the growth and decline of the great industries of the Great Lakes regions in dramatic moments of their history. He tells of the early lumber industry in the story of Muskegon, Mich., known as "Lumber Queen of the World." He says, "The river drivers and the mill men and the sailors of the lumber fleet collaborated to make it also the Red Light Queen, the Saloon Queen, and the Gambling Queen. This queen city produced 40 millionaires, and in the roaring 80s its fleets carried nearly a billion feet of lumber annually out of the Muskegon river."

Fires swept the shores of the Great Lakes, and the great Chicago fire in 1871 is underscored by the author's picture of a devastating fire in Menominee and the little town of Peshtigo, with 700 dead, on the same tragic day, and with the testimony of the captain of the lighthouse station at far off Sturgeon bay, who remembered how "southwest winds blew the smoke of Chicago and of Wisconsin forest fires over all the upper lakes."

There are dramatic pictures of hurricanes and boats frozen solid in the ice and of great boats wheeled across dry land for portage. There are tales of a, fantastic Mormon kingdom on Beaver Island in Lake Michigan, of the great schooners before the days of steamboats, of classic shipwrecks, and of fantastic fortunes dug out of the iron mountains of the upper peninsula of Michigan.

The Great Lakes will have a new thrill for every one who reads "Long Ships Passing." Illustrations by John O'Hara Cosgrave II. enhance the thrills. F. B.

Writers' Conference to Open on July 20 at U. of Colorado

The 13th annual Writers' conference at the University of Colorado at Boulder will be held this year from July 20 to Aug. 7, with a distinguished staff of writer-teachers. Edward Davison is director of the conference, with Richard Aldington, author of "Death of a Hero," as general adviser.

Carl Carmer, author of "Genesee Fever" and "Stars Fell on Alabama," will be the leader of the group of potential novelists; Katherine Anne Porter, the group of short story writers, and Witter Bynner will lead the poets' group. Harry Shaw will conduct the classes in nonfiction prose.

Other authors and publishers' representatives will visit the conference for short periods. The conference is a "practical experiment in the stimulation of creative writing" and is one of the country's most successful experiments in the academic stimulating of American literature.

For four days, July 22 to 25, a writers' conference of the Chicago area will be held at the Orrington hotel in Evanston.

Epic Story Told of Conquest of Tropic Diseases

"Ambassadors in White," by Charles Morrow Wilson. [Holt, $3.50.]

Mr. Wilson tells the epic story of American doctors and research scientists in their conquest of disease in the tropics in "Ambassadors in White." And he tells it because he feels that all of the countries to the south of us should receive every possible coöperation of American medical science.

"In a hundred instances," he says, "the feat of helping our southern neighbors in their crusade against disease is more than good business, more than good neighborliness. It is now indispensable to American survival."

We are dependent for many of our vital resources on South America, he points out, and of the 120 million people in Latin America from the Rio Grande to Cape Horn "at this very moment it is a good bet that at least 50 million of them are sick." Give those 50 million, or a larger share of them, health and not only they but we can wage a more successful war and preserve a better peace, he asserts.

But there is another reason why tropical diseases concern every one of us these days, the author says. Our soldiers and sailors, many of them, are going from the healthy temperate to the tropical zone where microbes flourish and where their very healthiness makes them twice as susceptible to disease.

He tells of the dramatic work done against yellow fever by men like Walter Reed and William Gorgas, and a Cuban, Carlos Finlay, whose name is known to few Americans altho he was the first to have the idea that yellow fever was transmitted by mosquitoes.

"The winning or losing of the mosquito war may yet decide the destiny of mankind and the fate of the democratic way of life," Mr. Wilson declares.

But yellow fever is only one of the diseases which take major rôles in this book. Many tropic epidemics are still as mysteriously powerful as yellow fever was in the Spanish-American war, and their conquest may indeed supply some future writer as dramatic material as the lives and works of the great ambassadors in white which Mr. Wilson writes about so interestingly.

Some of the chapters in this book are short biographies of great medical and scientific men, some are fascinating essays on such things as "Microbe Tourists" which he says are "lethal organisms which are too small to pay fare and too elusive to be forced to carry passports" but are still "capable of keeping the western hemisphere from man's complete and peaceable possession." F. B.

Edmonds, author of "Drums Along the Mohawk" and other popular historical tales of the Erie canal, has been awarded the John Newbery medal for the best children's book published in 1941 for his "The Matchlock Gun." The Caldecott medal for the year's best picture book for children went to Robert McCloskey for his "Make Way for Ducklings."

Isabel McLennan McMeekin of Louisville, Ky., has been awarded the $2,000 Julia Ellsworth Ford prize for her juvenile story, "Journey Cake," a pioneering tale of the late '70s. Mrs. McMeekin collaborated with Dorothy Park Clark under the name of Clark McMeekin in writing the popular "Show Me a Land."

Adventure Tale

John Myers Myers, whose adventure tale of Elizabethan England, "Out on Any Limb," is reviewed below.

"Out on Any Limb," by John Myers Myers. [Dutton, $2.50.] Published last Friday.

The author of "The Harp and the Blade," a historical thriller of the 10th century, has moved his background up to the days of Queen Elizabeth for his latest cloak and sword romance. His hero is a lad with a nervous sword and a quick hand as the book opens. In a duel which turns out to be a burlesque, with a prize bull at the receiving end of his opponent's sword, the young hero's fate is sealed. He dares not stay in his native Westmoreland to face the owner of the bull, and fate casts his lot with a man who uses him to his own ends.

There is murder to be ferreted out and justice to be done to murderers, and the ferreting out and the justice doing take the young hero and his buddy [his erstwhile duelling opponent] thru some of the heights and more of the depths of Elizabethan society. They are cheated of their money and their horses at cards, become involuntary vagabonds on an assignment for the man who won them, join up with a thief, and "waste no drinking money on food and lodging." They are jailbirds thru a jokester's trick, the dupes of one fair woman, and the murderers for another. It's all very swashbuckling and full of blood letting and adventure, but after such realism as "Assignment to Berlin" and "Ambassadors in White," it seems a little like something that you might see in a soap bubble, if you're the bubble blowing sort. F. B.

Among Current Mysteries

Blind Sleuth Succeeds.

"The Case of the Shivering Chorus Girls," by James Atlee Phillips. [Coward-McCann, $2.]

Henry Morton Wardlaw, blind former ambassador whose hobby is solving crimes of violence, uncovers the killer who struck down a juggler in the middle of his act at the Jewel Box club, then killed twice more. Wardlaw, who never leaves his apartment, uses for eyes the hulking "Bopeep" Patterson and the clever redhead, Emery Landers. It's a good, tough yarn.

Suspense to Last.

"Haunted Lady," by Mary Roberts Rinehart. [Farrar & Rinehart, $2.]

With nearly every ingredient a top notch mystery should have, "Haunted Lady" couldn't fail to click. An extremely tricky, but fair, plot keeps a parade of suspects marching thru the pages, with the reader constantly changing his bet on the guilty person. It's a sinister story of a level headed, wealthy old lady bothered by bats, rats, and snakes in her room.

'The Sangamon' Joins Rivers of America Series

"The Sangamon," by Edgar Lee Masters. [Farrar & Rinehart, $2.50.]
"The Allegheny," by Frederick Way, Jr. [Farrar & Rinehart, $2.50.]
"Weep No More, My Lady," by Alvin F. Harlow. [Whittlesey House, $3.50.]
"Georgia: Unfinished State," by Hal Steed. [Knopf, $3.50.]

BY CHARLES LEAVELLE.

In one of the most charming of the "Rivers of America" series yet to appear, Edgar Lee Masters sees here, in his stirring, poetic prose, the shaping of the American ideal. He sees in terms of a few Illinois counties a homely segment of the great country that is America. As would be expected—and hoped—there is much here of Spoon river and Bernadotte and much of Mr. Masters himself.

Abraham Lincoln and Ann Rutledge, the Rutledge tavern and New Salem become a little more real, a little less legendary under Mr. Masters' brush. And lighting these pages like modern lamps upon a forgotten street are Mr. Masters' unforgettable stanzas. Some of these are new; some are from his earlier works. Lynd Ward's illustrations are striking.

Among those readers who love rivers for themselves and for the people of the river—rather than the people of the surrounding country—Capt. Way's "Allegheny" will be probably the best liked of all the "Rivers of America" books. Capt. Way is a youngish fellow, but he is a river man to the bone. Even now he is standing watch in pilot houses on the Ohio river. And like a certain other young fellow named Mark Twain he can give you his river, not as background, but as a character.

And with all this, "The Allegheny" fulfills the purpose of the rivers series; it tells colorfully in character study and anecdote the story of the region — gathered firsthand by the author during a canoe trip from Olean, N. Y., down the treacherous river to Pittsburgh, Pa. And there is a happy touch of the humor that flavored Capt. Way's earlier book, "The Log of the Betsy Ann."

The captain's association with the Betsy was the cause of several body blows to the bankroll of Frederick Way Sr. But readers of Capt. Way's books will avow them worth every cent they may have cost his sire.

"Weep No More" and "Georgia" are not river books, but they do present colorfully, historically, and by anecdote two American regions. Mr. Harlow's chapters on Kentucky are at once earthy and racy. The whole is a fine distillate, rich in the flavor of its component parts; rich in the flavor of a state.

Mr. Steed leads the way on a ramble thru Georgia that begins in the days of Oglethorpe. The reader doesn't actually meet Oglethorpe and Sherman and Henry Grady, of course. But he learns enough from them to interpret the Georgians he does meet: Talmadge, Bobby Jones, Margaret Mitchell, and Hiram Wesley Evans.

MISS CLAIRE GLUECKSTEIN.

Miss Claire Glueckstein didn't know it until yesterday, but for weeks she's been helping the immortal Dan Cupid. Early in April an attractive young woman came into the Chimes Book Shop, which Miss Glueckstein manages, and asked to see the special cards for men in the Service. Miss Glueckstein helped her pick out just the right card for her favorite soldier, and every few days after that the same girl came in to get another card. Then, yesterday, Miss Glueckstein noticed that certain look on the girl's face and sure enough, a bright new diamond on her left hand. "We're going to be married on his next leave," she shyly confided, "and I think your cute cards had a lot to do with it." So if Miss Glueckstein is particularly interested when someone asks for a greeting card nowadays, that's the reason! The Chimes Book Shop at 29 N. Clark St. has an especially attractive collection of greeting cards, and so do the other Handy Shops: Daily News Bldg.; Merchandise Mart; Palmer House; Hyde Park [1457 E. Hyde Park]; Post Office News [37 W. Monroe]; Field Bldg. and Board of Trade.

MISSING CIGARET CASE.

Juliet and Philip accepted Sharon's cue and walked on down the highway until they were well out of sight of the guard's eyes. Then, led by Sharon, they turned, single file, down a road which was no more than an exaggerated cow track. They doubled back on a path thru the brambles to the rear of Lord Festone's place.

Vines, black in the moonlight, hung thick over the back wall.

"Here!" whispered Sharon.

She touched the wall lightly where the vines were heaviest. It opened—the vines forming an arch above the opening. She disappeared.

"You next," Philip said softly to Juliet.

She realized that it was not the wall but a little wooden door that had opened. She had to stoop to enter. She was in a bare stone courtyard. The house walled in three sides. The vine covered wall closed in the fourth.

She could see the sparkle of a center fountain playing in the moonlight. Tall, dark splotches around the courtyard looked like mysterious figures but were, she realized, actually potted shrubs.

Now Philip was beside her and Sharon.

"There," said Sharon softly. "Wasn't that easy?"

"I feel like a burglar," Juliet whispered.

"We're the burglars, Sharon and I," Philip said under his breath with a chuckle.

They tiptoed across the patio, Sharon leading the way to a heavy door which opened to her touch. They entered what seemed to Juliet to be a big, black cavern.

"This won't do us any good. How are we going to see? We can't turn on any lights. We'll attract attention!" Philip exclaimed.

"I'm nothing if not efficient. I brought a flashlight in my bag," said Sharon.

She switched it on and played it over the room—a big room, Juliet could see—a typically Mexican room, bare floor, massive furniture, heavy pieces of pottery, serapes for wall hangings, paintings of Mexican faces and scenes everywhere. Juliet caught these objects during the flashes of light.

"Shh! I thought I heard something," Sharon whispered.

"Ho, ho! Who's afraid?" Philip answered. "Shine the light over here, will you, Sharon?"

The beam of light revealed a desk. What was Philip doing?

"Ouch!" Juliet, attempting to go to him, stumbled against a footstool.

She saved herself from sprawling by clutching a small table. Her hand felt something cold and hard, wrapped in thin cloth, which fell away at her touch. The object was, she could feel, a large metal case of some sort. Her finger went over the top of it.

Sharon flashed the light in her direction. In that second Juliet saw the feathered serpent inlay—and recognized the object for what it was. Sir James' cigaret case! The one from which he had offered her a cigaret last night, the one which had disappeared from the mantelpiece. It had been wrapped in a fine handkerchief. Who could have wrapped it! Who brought it here? Why? Were the guns here, too? Excitedly, she stuffed the handkerchief in her pocket.

"What happened?" Philip asked.

"Oh, I stumbled," Juliet answered.

Now Sharon was flashing the light around the room. It caught the green elephants.

"I was right. He did take them. The most valuable things I possess."

Following the beam ahead of her she went to them and stuffed them in her large bag.

Juliet dared not move again lest she trip over something else. She was not familiar with the room as the other two seemed to be.

She imagined she heard footsteps—soft, frantic, little footsteps.

"All set, Philip?" Sharon called. "Find anything?"

"Shh! Not so loud."

"Nobody can hear us thru the thick walls. There're no windows on that side. Only the ones to the patio," she explained.

"Just the same, we don't need to go marching around committing burglary to the tune of a fife and drum corps," Philip answered testily. Juliet could tell that the situation had got on his nerves as much as it had on hers. What did Sharon mean? Was Philip looking for something, too?

"I'm ready," he said.

"So'm I. Ready, Juliet?" Sharon asked.

"All ready."

"All right. This way out," Sharon directed.

Juliet breathed deeply of the night air when they reached the courtyard.

"Here, Julie, you take the flash," Sharon handed it to her. "I've got to carry this bag carefully so the elephants won't crack together."

They retraced their steps to the door, in the wall.

Nervously Juliet fingered the flashlight. It snapped on and off.

"Watch out there," Philip cautioned her.

She didn't answer. She couldn't. She couldn't have spoken in that instant to save her life. For the flash had caught the outline of a woman's figure standing flat against the wall near the door. Juliet had a glimpse of a small face—a face that she was almost certain was Maria's.

Sharon and Philip had already passed thru the gate. Philip's head popped back in.

"Hey, Julie, are you stuck?"

"No, I'm coming."

Juliet stopped to get thru the gate. The door swung shut behind her.

The three retraced their steps thru the brambled path to the dusty road and then back to the highway. Then they sauntered past the wall where the guard was stationed. He looked at them sharply, and answered Sharon's pleasant, "Buenos noches, Senor," with a grunt. Juliet wondered if Philip and Mrs. Lathrop felt as guilty as she.

Later, as they climbed into the car, Sharon suggested, "Let's go back to my place."

Juliet demurred, saying that she would have to get back, because as she was the Lynn guest, she supposed she shouldn't cause Sir James more worry than he already had.

Actually, she wanted to be alone with Philip—to tell him about the figure she thought was Maria, about the cigaret case. Inherently honest, she decided, too, to make a clean breast to him about the copied letter.

Philip also seemed reluctant to accept Sharon's invitation.

"No, Sharon. I'd better drop you and then take Juliet home. It's getting late."

The conversation on the return to Mrs. Lathrop's was nothing more than a series of congratulations on her part and Philip's over the repossession of her rightful belongings.

There were cordial "good nights" all around when Philip dropped Sharon at the bright blue home on the Preciado.

Then Philip turned his car south once more, swung past the Quisisana hotel, right on Morelos avenue, and down toward Emiliano Zapata avenue. Juliet nestled closer.

"I've got something to tell you, Philip. But it isn't going to make much sense," she began.

"Nothing seems to any more," he answered and looked at her whimsically, slanting his eyes. Nothing ever seemed to disturb Philip. He was always so comforting, and there was never any maliciousness to his kidding. Should she tell him first about the figure in the courtyard or about the cigaret case? The case was more important she thought.

"I don't know whether you knew or not—but late yesterday afternoon I saw Sir James' big cigaret case on the mantel beside his little guns. Then a few hours later when the police were looking for them, they found the guns had disappeared and the case, too."

"Yes, I know. He told me this morning. Strange, isn't it?"

VARIETY SPICES QUEBEC'S LURES FOR AMERICANS

Traditions Charm, Sports Delight Visitors.

QUEBEC, Ont., July 7 [Special].—Citizens of the United States coming to the province of Quebec for vacations this summer are asking what there is to see, and what there is to do, after they have crossed the border.

Here is one travel expert's answer:

In planning a trip thru French Canada, the simplest way is to choose either of the two big cities, Montreal and Quebec, as the hub for journeys farther afield.

From Montreal a jaunt into the Laurentian mountains and the Gatineau territory to the north is only a few hours by train. The mountain playground has plenty of resorts, hotels, golf links, tennis courts, riding stables, and unspoiled lakes and streams.

Unique in North America.

Montreal also is the gateway to the pastoral lakeland of "Les Cantons de l' Est"—the eastern townships.

Rival of that city as a lodestone for sightseers and travelers is Quebec, fortress of the new world, and the only walled city in North America.

This city's battlements are best seen from the town of Levis, on the opposite bank of the St. Lawrence. Vieux Quebec itself is a cluster of gems out of the past. It has crooked, winding streets; sloping, quaint houses; age-worn, turreted fortifications, and old-time churches, monasteries, and private homes.

Famous Shrine Near By.

From here there are trips to l' Ile d' Orleans, where the customs of many centuries are still preserved; to the Shrine of St. Anne de Beaupre, known for its cures, and up the Saguenay river to the twin rocks of Cap Trinite and Cap Eternite.

Border formalities between the two countries are pared to the minimum. No passport is required for American citizens, but they are advised to have a birth certificate, a letter from an official of their home town, a tax receipt, or some other means of identity when they cross the border back into the United States.

American money still commands a 10 per cent premium in the dominion.

ANCIENT NASSAU TOMB FIGURES IN GRAVE MYSTERY

NASSAU, Bahamas, July 7 [Special].—A time-worn gravestone beside the Pirate's well, near the site of old Fort Nassau, is the only local clew to the mystery of why an American soldier has two graves—one in the Bahamas and the other in Louisiana.

The headstone, bearing the simple inscription, "5774, Enoch Campbell, Michigan," stands in a shady corner of the British Colonial hotel grounds, beside the well which bears the date, "1701," and the initials, "W. X. T." The initials are believed to be those of William Teach—better known as Blackbeard—the pirate who made his headquarters here in the early part of the 18th century.

Curious persons have written the war department at Washington, D. C., in an effort to identify Enoch Campbell and learn the story of his death. The war department found that a man of that name was a member of Company B, 6th Michigan infantry. Further investigation disclosed that there is a "Grave 5774" in Chalmette National Historical park at Arabi, La., and that it has a Civil war type headstone bearing the words, "Enoch Campbell, Mich."

There is no record that the remains of Private Campbell ever were removed from the Chalmette cemetery. The date of his death is not recorded.

Nassau residents are wondering who erected the gravestone beside the Pirate's well. And why.

PILGRIMS STILL CROWD TO STATE LINCOLN SHRINES

Springfield, Ill., July 7 [Special].—In spite of the auto tire shortage and transportation problems, thousands of persons from all parts of the country continue to visit Springfield's Lincoln shrines.

At the state maintained Lincoln home, visited by 161,994 last year, registrations have fallen off about one-third in the last two months. About the same decline has been shown in registrations at New Salem State park, where the log cabin village of Lincoln's young manhood has been restored.

Sun Seekers

On the sun deck of a steamer plying the Great Lakes on short cruises out of Chicago this summer.

FIND REMAINS OF TINY CAMELS AND GIANT PIGS

Philadelphia, Pa., July 7 [Special].—Forty million years ago a rhinoceros waddled to a water hole in what is now Wyoming—and now the Academy of Natural Sciences of Philadelphia has put his footprints on display.

The tracks are imprinted in a 600 pound block of sandstone brought here by the academy's paleontological field party, which spent two months digging in the Hat Creek basin of Wyoming.

The party also reported finding remains of three toed horses, saber toothed tigers, tiny camels, and giant pigs.

The 40,000,000 year figure was computed thru examination of the sandstone. This placed the formation in the oligocene period.

HOSTELS EXPAND AS YOUTH TAKES TO THE HIGHWAYS

Young Americans Seeing U. S. on $1 a Day.

Northfield, Mass., July 7 [Special].—The growth of the youth hostel movement in this country is shown by figures released here today. There are now 255 hostels in America, they probably will register more than 50,000 overnight guests this summer, and the youngsters patronizing them will travel under their own power—either on foot or bicycle—a combined total of more than a million miles.

In these days, say officials of American Youth Hostels, young people who formerly depended on autos, trains, and buses for their transportation are turning to the older methods of travel. Gasoline and tire rationing, and the crowded condition of trains and buses over week-ends, have brought about the change.

Bring Out the Walking Shoes.

"Wartime vacations will bring back long-forgotten modes of travel," said a statement issued by the association. "Many resourceful Americans will oil up the old bike, resurrect hiking togs from the attic, or plan trips by horseback or canoe."

Most of the hostel travel is done in groups. The youths carry little luggage and have no clothing style problems. At farmhouses designated as hostels they often cook their own meals, and their expenses are usually less than a dollar a day.

Britain Sponsors Hostels.

Within the last few weeks the British government has established 368 new hostels, thereby doubling the number on the British Isles. Both the ministry of labor and the ministry of education have endorsed the movement as part of the campaign to uphold national morale.

The English Youth Hostel association is supported in part by government funds. In this country the association is self-supporting.

What is the status of the Pan-American highway? Is there anything new to report on it? —F. T.

The Central and South American sections of the highway, which eventually will reach from Fairbanks, Alaska, to the Strait of Magellan, are nearing completion, and it is hoped to dedicate some of those sections next October. But the dedication of the entire project probably will have to wait several years. Among the unfinished parts is the vital link between the Mexican border and the Panama canal. The all-weather road across Guatemala already is in use. In Nicaragua the route from Sebaco to Dirianba by way of Managua will be completed soon. So will the Panama canal link with Rio Hato. More than 2,000 miles of the highway from Buenos Aires to Magellanes, on the Strait of Magellan, are now passable and will be greatly improved this summer.

Some time ago I read a reference to "the glaciers which jump off." Can you advise me as to where they are and why they are so called? C. J. McC.

They are the twins, Hop and Jeffries, in Washington state's Olympic National park. Some time in July Hop glacier, on the summit of Mount Olympus, 8,000 feet above sea level, starts its 5 mile slide down the mountain. It is usually followed by Jeffries. They got their nickname from the sharp grade they follow. The park contains 51 other glaciers, many of them several miles in extent.

OPEN CONCERTS IN HOLLYWOOD BOWL JULY 14

Los Angeles, Cal., July 7 [Special].—For the 21st consecutive year, the "Symphonies Under the Stars" concerts will be held this summer in the Hollywood bowl.

Forty concerts are to be given between July 14 and Sept. 5. Among the artists signed up are Vladimir Horowitz, pianist; Jascha Heifetz, violinist; Risé Stevens, Metropolitan Opera soprano, and Bruno Walter, conductor.

Another outdoor musical series is under way in the Prosellis, the community bowl at Redlands.

Standard Sleeping Cars on the GOLDEN STATE LIMITED go streamlined

Aiding the war effort by releasing former equipment for more important military needs, Rock Island-Southern Pacific have put into service new streamlined standard sleeping cars on the Golden State Limited between Chicago and Los Angeles. All types of accommodations are included—roomettes, double bedrooms, compartments, drawing rooms and sections with upper and lower berths.

Rock Island-Southern Pacific feel it necessary to say that these streamlined cars were ordered many months before Pearl Harbor, and were completed after the war had begun. The addition of these cars helps to better serve America's increased transportation needs.

North Shore Girls Take Posts as Summer Camp Counselors

BY JUDITH CASS.

SOME like the swimming, some the hiking, some prefer the riding, but whatever individual preferences are, there's something about a summer camp that recalls devoted campers year after year. Miss Bessie Cowles, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Knight C. Cowles, and a debutante of last season, has gone back to Camp Ketchuwa in Michigamme, Mich., to act as counselor for the summer. Miss Cowles took north with her some young Lake Forest neighbors who are campers this year, Susie Hill, Rica Owen, and Wendy Smith.

Two other young women who will be acting as counselors at the same camp this summer are Miss Jane Bulger and Miss Helen Wieboldt of Winnetka. Miss Nathalie Bell and Miss Jane Affleck, two other postdebutantes, will be instructing at Camp Bryn Afon near Rhinelander, Wis. Miss Bell, daughter of the Laird Bells, will be teaching dramatics. She will be at the camp only until Aug. 1, as she is coming back then to begin a nurse's aid course.

Miss Affleck will instruct in canoeing and first aid, having completed the instructor's course in Red Cross first aid. Miss Affleck has been doing nurse's aid work at the Evanston hospital. Dain Fuller and Sally Barnett are two young campers at Bryn Afon this summer.

Miss Patty Pettibone, one of the Holman D. Pettibones' daughters, departed last week for the Putney Work camp in Putney, Vt., where camping is combined with farm work. She will be away until Aug. 28. Miss Georgia Pettibone, who went east with her sister to visit friends, soon will start working at the Evanston hospital as a nurse's aid.

Joan and Florence Forgan Arrive with Their Mother.

Attractive additions to the debutante and subdebutante groups in Lake Forest are Miss Joan and Miss Florence Forgan, who with their mother, Mrs. Russell Forgan of New York, and little sister, Ada, have arrived for the summer. The Forgan family formerly lived in Lake Forest, and is being warmly welcomed back.

Miss Joan Forgan, a graduate of the Ethel Walker school, attended the Catharine Childs school last winter, and is making her debut this year. Miss Florence Forgan was graduated from Miss Walker's in June and will enter Sarah Lawrence in the fall. Russell Forgan Jr., who is attending camp, will arrive on Aug. 1 to be with his mother and sisters in the Thomas C. Dennehys' house until after Labor day.

Lieut. John Thompson Benedict, who is arriving today on leave, will greet his new nephew and namesake, Thompson Benedict Gross, who was born on July 1. The baby is the son of Lieut. Benedict's twin sister, Mrs. John Edward Gross, and Mr. Gross, and the grandson of Mrs. James E. Baggot Jr.

Vocational Society Goods to Be Put on Sale Friday.

Attractive yellow invitations to a sale of goods from the Vocational Society for Shut-Ins have been received. The sale is to be held all day on Friday at the Barrington home of Mrs. Edward P. Molloy, whose clever illustrations on the invitations make them look so tempting. Mrs. Molloy, whose home is high on a hill, has a studio done in the Swedish manner that will attract its share of attention from the shoppers Friday.

Mrs. Molloy is having her assistants to luncheon, and plans to make a party of the event by serving tea to all comers in the afternoon. Mrs. Thomas Haywood and Mrs. Newton S. Noble Jr. are among the saleswomen of the day.

Instead of holding its usual flower show this summer, the Lake Geneva Garden club will hold a garden tour thru five homes on July 17. The gardens to be opened between 1 and 7 o'clock that day are those of Mr. and Mrs. William M. Spencer, Mrs. Edward H. Maytag, Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Peterkin Jr., Mr. and Mrs. John Eliot Warner, and Mr. and Mrs. Simeon B. Chapin. Mrs. William F. Petersen and Mrs. William H. Emery are cochairmen of the tour. Holiday home and the Horticultural society of Lake Geneva will benefit from the sale of tickets at $1.10 each for the entire tour.

Jeanne Marie Rodger to Become Bride Today.

There will be a number of out of town guests at the wedding today of Miss Jeanne Marie Rodger and John Crandall Lane, who will be married at 4:30 o'clock in the Winnetka Congregational church. The bridegroom's parents, Mr. and Mrs. John P. Lane, have come from Ketchum, Idaho. Mr. Rodger's sister, Mrs. Charles F. Peck, is here from New Rochelle, N. Y., and Mrs. Rodger's brother, Willis A. Diekema, has brought his wife and two daughters from Holland, Mich. Other visitors include Mrs. G. J. Diekema and Mrs. Howard Holmes of Ann Arbor, Mich.; Mr. and Mrs. Walter L. Conwell of New York, Mr. and Mrs. Frank W. Charske of Darien, Conn.; Miss Betty Miller of Columbus, O., and Mr. and Mrs. William M. Jeffers of Omaha, Neb.

After the ceremony the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Hunter Rodger of Winnetka, will give a reception at the Glen View club. Miss Helen Rodger will be her sister's maid of honor, and little Calvine Burnett will be flower girl. With them in the bridal party will be the bride's cousin, Miss Mary Rodger; the bridegroom's sister, Mrs. Bruce McNeil of Las Vegas, Nev.; Miss Joan Rome of Scarsdale, N. Y.; Mrs. Gardner R. Anstice of Rochester, N. Y.; Miss Marjorie Hubachek, and Miss Charlene Mork. Mr. Lane will be his son's best man, and ushering will be the bride's cousin, John M. Rodger Jr.; Harvey Gilmer, Neil Humphryville, William McMitt, Robert Liess, and Mr. Anstice. Mr. Lane and his bride will go directly to Cambridge, Mass., as he must return immediately to his classes at the Harvard Business school.

Mrs. Gail Belden Arrives with Children for a Visit.

Mrs. Gail Belden and her children, Gail Jr. and Betty, have arrived from Wilmington, Del., to spend a month with the children's grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Barret Conway, in Winnetka. Mr. Belden will join them later.

Mrs. John Payne Kellogg and her children left last week for Quonsett, R. I., to spend the summer with Mr. Kellogg. The country cottage in which the Kellogg family has been living in Libertyville will be unoccupied for the summer.

Spending the Summer in Lake Forest

[TRIBUNE Photo.]

Miss Joan Forgan, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Russell Forgan of New York, is spending the summer in Lake Forest with her family, who have taken a house in the suburb for the season. Miss Forgan is a debutante this year.

Hurry! Hurry! Sally Says, for Bids to Party

BY SALLY JOY BROWN.

[Activities of the Sally Joy Brown department are sponsored by Chicago Tribune Charities, Inc.]

Just wait till you boys and girls see little Bambi romping around the big sunny meadow, meeting his friends, the grasshopper and the talkative, nimble little squirrel. Of course he's only a little baby deer, and many things startle and frighten him, but all the animals and birds of the forest help each other and send out a warning when danger is near. There are so many interesting and funny and wonderful things in Walt Disney's new color picture, "Bambi," that it's hard to tell you about them all, but 100 lucky boys and girls will come with me to see it for themselves.

If you'd like to come to our party at which we'll see this wonderful movie you haven't much time left. "Bambi" is coming soon to the Palace theater, but on July 16 RKO is giving a special preview of the film just for my guests and if you expect to be one of them you'd better have your letter in the mail today.

I'm going to try to select as my guests 50 boys and 50 girls who'll have a wonderful time at this movie party and if you think you'd thoroly enjoy yourself if you won an invitation all you have to do is write a letter which will convince me of that.

Each boy or girl must win his own or her own invitation. I don't want to hear from your mother or your big brother—I want YOU to tell me why you'd like to see "Bambi." Don't worry about your spelling, but don't forget to tell me who you are, where you live, and your age.

The winners will be selected tomorrow, so if you haven't already written your letter do it right away. Address it to Sally Joy Brown, THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE, Chicago, and scurry to the mail box with it!

BY KATE MASSEE

Rating Zero.

A letter from a 12 year old boy at camp to his young cousin in Chicago:

"Dear H! Well, at last I'm finally landed in camp and confediatefully it stinks. I've been here only 2½ days and it seems like that number in years. In all my life I've never had a more terrible time. You wake up early, early in the morning in the bitter cold. After trying to make your bed you go and have breakfast, and what a breakfast. It tastes like it was made as a joke. After this appetiting meal you prepare for inspection. After the inspectors go around and say everything you worked on for hours is terrible you really begin the day. I'm not going to even try to explain my average day; it's too long and gruesome a task. I'll just sum it up and say it's awful. . . . If I stay the whole 8 weeks here, will be away for the 4th of August, my birthday. The camp isn't a bit of fun and for the life of me I can't see why the boys' parents pay money for their sons to stay here. The camp should pay to have the boys come. This will make my fourth letter since Friday. Write soon. Your cousin, R."

Land of Their Youth.

Chatting casually with friends the other evening at the Yar, Col. Yaschenko, genial host at this popular spot, divulged that he and Mme. Yaschenko have immeasurably more interest than the average person in the war news from Russia. The colonel formerly lived in Kharkov, his wife in Sevastopol.

Elephants.

A news dispatch reports that Grace Jewett Austin, society editor of the Bloomington, Ill., Pantagraph, parted with a portion of her collection of more than 2,000 elephant models—gathered from all parts of the world—when she threw 17 of them, made of rubber, on the scrap heap to help the city's rubber salvage drive. That reminds us of Willard P. Rutzen's elephant collection, comprising around 600 miniatures, and to which has been added a rose quartz model, the gift of his longtime friend, Sophie Tucker.

Why, Officer!

A loop correspondent who gives the initials A. B. L. called to say that traffic at a loop corner was pretty snarled up the other noon. Looking around for the officer on duty, he saw him at a newsstand, busily taking notes from Racing Form.

By the Way, Animal Sector.

D. S. writes us about a lovable fox terrier in her block which has a penchant of long standing for coffee with her breakfast. She's doing her bit for the conservation program these days, however, by asking for only one saucerful, and instead of sugar to sweeten it, she's satisfied with saccharin. . . . L. L. says we should live in her neighborhood, because the live poultry market that sells chickens, ducks, and geese on the hoof is decorated with green wall paper patterned in white plumes, and the coops for the birds are painted white and have white wire netting. . . . And along comes F. E. M. with a story of a pair of 10 year old boys—twins—who approached the information desk at the Chicago Historical society and asked the clerk whether they could see Paul Revere's horse, which they'd heard was stuffed and on exhibition there.

George Szelt Takes Over at Ravinia Park

BY EDWARD BARRY.

The Hungarian born Czech conductor, George Szelt, came to the stage of the Ravinia park pavilion last night looking as grim as if his mission were to announce the latest disaster. It was plain before long, however, that the man's unsmiling intentness was merely a by-product of the extreme seriousness with which he regards his art.

With no nonsense whatever, he turned to the task of the evening—which was to call into play his great knowledge, imagination, and integrity and to put before his audience with all possible eloquence and persuasiveness three violently contrasting pieces of romantic music. His medium was the Chicago Symphony orchestra, which he is to conduct during the entire second and third weeks of the Ravinia festival.

It was interesting to see how he depended on purely musical devices to project the music's emotional content and how scrupulously he avoided the declamatory and the formless in his performance. For example, in the second theme of the last movement of the Tschaikowsky "Pathetic" symphony, the accents, the variations in intensity, and the changes in tone coloring were all made to depend on the contour of the melody.

That the performance of the Tschaikowsky symphony, as well as of Wagner's "Siegfried Idyl" and the prelude to the same composer's "The Mastersingers of Nuremberg" will go down in history as good rather than great was due mostly to three things.

First, the trains had one of their busy nights, fortunately rare, and it must have seemed to the harassed musicians that half the produce and population of the United States were being moved past Ravinia's gates at one point in the symphony.

Second, orchestra and conductor, after a year's separation, needed one evening to get used to each other again.

Third, Mr. Szelt, like nearly all Ravinia conductors, often lets the orchestra play much too loud.

Ravinia Society

BY GLADYS PRIDDY.

Cool breezes at Ravinia park last night brought out what appears to be the woman civilians' summer uniform—good warm wraps. Fur jackets and short wool coats were popular.

There were few late comers and nearly all of the box holders arrived in good time to sing the national anthem. Mr. and Mrs. Calvin Fentress Jr. had as their guests Mrs. Gordon Kelley and William Cudahy.

Mrs. Richard Blum of Purchase, N. Y., a guest of the L. Lewis Cohens, was attractive in a cowled white crêpe gown. The cowl made a soft scarf over her silver fox wrap. Mrs. Victor Noerdlinger of New York and Mrs. Irving Livingston also were in the Cohen box.

Mrs. Percy B. Eckhart wore a white wool coat over her light blue lace dinner dress. She and Mr. Eckhart had as their guest Mrs. Francis M. Knight, Mrs. Renslow P. Sherer, Mr. and Mrs. Howell Murray, and Miss Rachel McFerran.

Wedding Near

Miss Catharine Rutherford.

Miss Catharine Rutherford's marriage to Raymond T. Moloney Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Moloney of Wilmette, will take place on Saturday. The bride-to-be is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Rutherford of Jarvis avenue. The wedding will take place in St. Francis Xavier's church in Wilmette.

Negro Music Festival Will Be Presented at Soldiers' Field Sunday

The third annual Negro Music festival will be held Sunday in Soldiers' field for the benefit of the service men's centers in Chicago.

John B. Kennedy, writer and radio commentator, will be master of ceremonies. Many Negro musical stars will be on the program. Included are Muriel Rahn, youthful soprano; J. Wesley Jones and his massed choir of 1,000 singers, the Spirit of America Choral ensemble under the direction of Luschaa Allen, assisted by Miss Erma Smith, and Canada Lee, commentator; Eddie South, violinist; Miss Frankie Fambro, recitalist; Napoleon Reed, tenor; William Franklin, baritone, and Robert Keith McFerrin, baritone.

Tickets for the festival, which is indorsed by the treasury department, the Chicago Chamber of Commerce, and the Chicago Church federation, are on sale at THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE'S public service offices, the Boston store, and the Bond Clothing store.

Freddie Bartholomew, 18, Will Earn $2,250 a Week

Los Angeles, Cal., July 7 (AP).—At 18 Freddie Bartholomew, film actor, will make $2,250 a week for the next year. A one year contract with Columbia Pictures was approved in Superior court today. The court also gave its approval to a contract between Jane Withers, 16 years old, and Republic, which will pay her from $10,000 to $20,000 a picture during the next three years on a sliding scale.

Maria Hussa Is Soloist at Park Concert

BY CECIL SMITH.

In her first appearance in Grant park Maria Hussa, the Viennese soprano who has now made Chicago her home, demonstrated again last evening the artistic discipline and experience which carried her to success when she sang with the Chicago Opera company in "Der Rosenkavalier" in 1940. Her voice is not the largest or the most lustrous in the world, nor does she present herself to her audience in exciting or even very interesting visual terms. But she possesses real musical authority, and she is able to invest the music she sings with poise, coherence, and an unfailing sense of direction.

Despite the vagaries of her relationship to a microphone she did not quite understand, her performance of Agathe's aria, "Leise, leise," from Weber's "Der Freischütz," was commendable for the serenity of lyric line which she brought to the exquisite opening section, as well as for the animation and vigor with which, despite obvious vocal limitations, she presented the dashing finale.

The accompanying orchestra—and a shockingly ragged accompaniment it provided—was the People's Symphony orchestra, conducted by P. Marinus Paulsen. To exemplify his own work as a composer Mr. Paulsen offered "Four Oriental Sketches," which received a Balaban & Katz award in 1923.

Elsewhere Mr. Paulsen, who often had unconcealed difficulty in persuading the orchestra to adopt a uniform tempo, conducted Henry Hadley's "Herold" overture, the Bach-Abert Prelude, Chorale and Fugue, the Dance of the Tumblers from Smetana's "The Bartered Bride," and Tschaikowsky's fourth symphony.

Auction Draws Final Curtain at Auditorium

History was being sold yesterday as second hand goods in the Auditorium hotel.

Eager buyers mingled with solemn souvenir hunters to file thru its dusty corridors at the opening of a four day auction. A tax foreclosure suit was filed by State's Attorney Courtney recently against the historic hotel, 430 South Michigan avenue, and its adjoining units, the Auditorium theater and office building.

Tom Conolly, an employé of the Auditorium at its opening in 1889, was one of the old timers who visited the auction.

* * *

Would-be purchasers fingered the keys of pianos that had felt the touch of Rudolph Friml at the time the now famed composer was accompanist for Ignace Jan Kubelik. Proprietors of restaurants critically studied the silver from which Prince Henry of Prussia had dined. Sold by the yard was carpeting on which had trod the triumphant feet of Adm. George Dewey.

Furnishings of the theater and of the offices have all been moved into various rooms of the hotel, where they will be disposed of as the auction progresses. Most of the items auctioned yesterday were from the hotel, which was forced to close about a year ago. Efforts to raise a fund by public subscription to reopen the buildings were dropped because of war supply difficulties, and a private reorganization has not been feasible.

* * *

The hotel's history began in 1888, a year before the building was completed. A temporary roof was put over the Auditorium theater and Benjamin Harrison was there nominated for President by the Republican convention.

President Harrison shared honors the next year with Adelina Patti on the theater's historic opening night, which was attended by the social, civic, and political leaders of Chicagoland. The Chicago Opera company, formed in 1910 was at home in the theater until construction of the present Civic Opera house.

All the greats of opera for decades, and many stars of the stage played the Auditorium. George M. Cohan's "I'd Rather Be Right," brought a record amount of $41,000 into the cashier's tills. Dwight L. Moody held Sunday morning evangelist groups spellbound with his rousing sermons. John Philip Sousa directed the band which accompanied a Hippodrome show.

* * *

All these traditions rest in the now tarnished and long outmoded buildings, which are considered outstanding examples of the work of the great Chicago architect, Louis Sullivan. Many purchasers took sentimental trophies.

One woman bought the furnishings from a room in which she lived for many years. Many who had attended the opening of the Auditorium were in the auction crowd to purchase inexpensive mementos of the place.

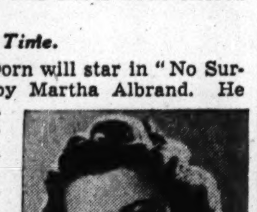
Dusty china covers the dining tables around which once gathered society's fairest belles. The occasional glare of a watchman's flashlight is all that pierces the theater's gloom. After holding forth for 53 years, the play that went on within the Auditorium has signaled "finale." The marquee reads tersely, "Closed."

Looking at Hollywood

By Hedda Hopper

Hollywood, Cal., July 7.—I wonder if they changed the title of the Rita Hayworth picture to "You Were Never Lovelier" because that's what Vic Mature has been saying to her since their romance has come out in the open. Maybe some one should tell Rita the facts of life. After she lost her husband, her rating went up. Now it's going down. . . . Incidentally, Columbia's made a deal with Fred Astaire to do another picture over there. I don't know why they keep saying that Fred Astaire has turned down "Lady in the Dark." Fred told me himself it had never been offered him.

It's About Time.



Jean Rogers.

Philip Dorn will star in "No Surrender" by Martha Albrand. He plays a Dutchman in Holland, who becomes head of the justice department and is considered a traitor, but isn't. Jean Rogers, because of her work in "Mrs. Hadley," gets the lead opposite him. . . . I hear "Mrs. Hadley" is really a fine picture. It's the first important chance Harry Bucquet's had as a director. So what? He's sent immediately to England to do a picture over there. . . . Jeanette MacDonald cabled Gene Raymond in England on his birthday, but so far no word has been received by her. . . . Since "I Married an Angel," with Nelson Eddy, is playing a bad second fiddle to a Maisie picture, it should be recorded that Jeanette never wanted to do it in the first place. I've always said casting makes or breaks any movie, and casting in that was like putting an elephant in a part written for Bambi—and I don't mean Jeanette.

I'm Laughing Now.

Remember the amusing story of Mrs. E. T. K. Fisher's "How to Cook a Wolf?" Well, Paramount's got her under contract, and she's doing an original story for Rosalind Russell [they hope]. . . . I'm wondering what the English gentry are going to say when they see their Lady Korda [Merle Oberon] as a show girl in Lester Cowan's "Heart of the City." Story's about the Windmill theater in London, which remained open during the blitz, and its courageous girls. Well, they always say, life completes the circle. . . . Mitzi Green is being brought out from New York by Metro to test for "Best Foot Forward." I hope it will be the beginning of a new career for her. I saw her when in New York and she looked lovely.

In There Pitching.

Since Paul Muni arrived here from "The Commandos," he seems to have forgotten that he once insisted upon being billed as "Mr. Muni." He's a good actor, but we have many others. When he opened his latest play on Broadway, the critics took Mr. Muni apart. Here's hoping Hollywood will put him together again. . . . Rumor has it that Wendy Hiller, of "Pygmalion" fame, is about to welcome the stork again. . . . Inasmuch as Maureen O'Sullivan's going to have another baby and can't be in the next Tarzan picture with Johnny Weissmuller, Sol Lesser is scanning the newsreels for all the bathing beauties, hoping to pick up Tarzan's mate there. . . . To date, Irene Dunne has the inside track on "The American Way," which George Stevens will direct.

Aren't I the Cat!

Saved by the navy! Richard Ney goes to the naval training center in South Bend, Ind., for three months, and I believe during that time cadets aren't allowed to marry. Anything could happen—even Greer Garson might change her mind. It's been done! . . . I wonder if the reason Mapy Cortes says she and Fernando aren't married is that she's seeing a great deal of Jimmy McHugh, song writer. I had a letter from a Puerto Rican soldier the other day who writes: "I was born there, and I've always known Mapy and Fernando as husband and wife. I can't think why she's denying it, and the truth sooner or later will come out."

A Cry for Help.

I had as a guest on my air show Commander Weldon Lee Hamilton, commander of the dive bombers from the ill-fated Lexington. It was he who saw the wakes on the ocean which tipped him off to the Japanese fleet 40 miles away. "But," said he, "if I hadn't had a pair of binoculars, we would have missed them. The crying need in the navy is more binoculars. The shortage is acute." So I'm begging you, if you have a pair and wish to lend them, send them direct to the United States navy observatory, Washington, D. C., and these are the ones they are asking for: 6-30 or 7-50 Bausch & Lomb, or Zeiss, and attached to each must be the name of the donor. When the war is over they will be returned to you. Sam Goldwyn and Louis B. Mayer were the first to respond to my appeal.

My Sentiments Exactly.

Irene, Metro's new designer, has a word to say about slacks. Here it is: "'The war has done for slacks what we've been trying to do for years—put 'em onto war workers in defense factories. And by the time the girls get home at night, they'll be so tired of 'em they'll be mighty glad to get back into dresses again." . . . Lila Lee's been visiting her sister in Cleveland. Why Lila and Mary Brian, who are both beautiful, can't get jobs here is beyond me. . . . Zasu Pitts visited the Tom Girdlers in Paris, Ky. Zasu leaves for New York in a month to do "Our First Murder" under the direction of Marion Gering.

By Mae Tinée.

Good Morning!

Henry Bellaman's uninspiring novel takes screen form as a long and dreary melodrama in two parts. . . .

The principal characters are picked up as children—only two of whom have a happy or normal environment—and followed thru years of misery and maladjustment to young womanhood and young manhood. . . . Adults, with a few exceptions, seem borderline cases. . . . [The yarn as a whole has been cleaned up a bit.]

Ann Sheridan and Ronald Reagan as the grown Randy Monaghan and Drake McHugh are real and believable—but Ann isn't seen until a long toward the middle of the piece and Ronald gets his McHugh legs unnecessarily amputated by a sadist surgeon. . . . Parris Mitchell's girl is killed by her doctor-father, who commits suicide, and his gracious and charming grandmother [played by that fascinating Mme. Maria Ouspenskaya] dies early in the picture's action. . . . Cummings does the best that could be done with his rôle.

"Kings Row" is a small town with the usual "right" and "wrong" side of the tracks, and the story of the town's inhabitants is a coat of many colors—the outstanding being a gangrenous yellow. . . . A brief, refreshing breeze blows thru the finalé. . . . [What use ozone after the death rattle?]

* * *

A much more commendable and interesting feature on the State-Lake's program is "March of America," in color—with narration by Richard Whorf. . . . Here's where you can get your American history from the time of the landing of the Pilgrims to this year of Our Lord in a concise and engrossing film that takes up no more than—I would say—10 minutes. [Strange bedfellow for "King's Row."]

See you tomorrow.

The Housewife

If you have a coffee fanatic in the family who believes this beverage is good only when you do the grinding of the coffee bean at home you can make him or her a present of a good, old-fashioned coffee mill—the kind you turn with a crank and which deposits the ground coffee in a little wooden drawer. These reminders of a bygone day are being sold again and prices for two sizes of the mill are under two dollars.

EDITH WEIGLE.

Arden Shore Committee to Meet at Arlington Park

The Chicago committee of the Arden Shore association will meet at 11:30 o'clock tomorrow morning at the Post and Paddock club at Arlington Park. Some of those who will be attending for the first time as active members, having completed the provisional training, are Mrs. James Baker, Mrs. Walter Cruttenden, Mrs. Herbert Daemicke, Mrs. Maynard Fessenden, Mrs. Walter Gramm, Mrs. William L. Moody.

Lectures Today

Marie Pabst, "Minerals and Prehistoric Life," guide lecture tour, 11 a. m.; Miriam Wood, guide lecture tour, 2 p. m., Field museum, 28 cents.

J. Archer Kiss, "Day Dreams and Blitzkriegs," first in new series on applied psychology, 8 p. m., Austin Town hall, free.

Northwestern university band concert, G. C. Bainum directing, 7 p. m., Deering meadow, Evanston campus, free.

Garden Club of Illinois to Meet Next Monday

The monthly meeting of the Garden Club of Illinois will be held next Monday at the Lake Shore Country club, Glencoe, with the North Shore Garden club as hostess. Mrs. Benjamin F. Stein is president of the North Shore club. At the afternoon program, which is open to all garden club members, Mrs. Mahlon Ogden Bradley of Highland Park will judge and criticize flower arrangements on tables.

According to Culbertson

[Copyright: 1942: By Ely Culbertson.]

Some defenders seem to feel that the trump suit is declarer's special preserve; that the only time they can venture into it is when meekly following suit to declarer's trump drawing. This is very far from the truth. At times a defender can take over this vital matter of drawing trumps, especially when his adversary has been indiscreet enough to lay himself wide open. Note today's hand:

West, dealer.
Match-point duplicate.
Neither side vulnerable.

NORTH
♠A J 6
♥10 9 5 2
♦K Q 7 5
♣8 5

SOUTH
♠9 8 7 4 3
♥K Q 8 7
♦A 2
♣A 2

The bidding:

West	North	East	South
Pass	Pass	1 spade [!]	Pass
2 clubs	Pass	Pass	2 hearts
Pass	Pass	Pass

This was "duplicate bidding," with a vengeance! East's spade bid was, of course, practically a psychic. South lay in wait by passing, but when West's normal two club response was passed by North and East, South had to come out of his ambush. His hand was not very good against a two club contract, hence he entered the auction by mentioning his heart suit. Both West and North had to exercise considerable restraint at this point, West, not to double two hearts, and North, not to raise.

* * *

The spade queen was opened, dummy winning. A trump then was led to the king, and West made an excellent play when he unhesitatingly played low. Now declarer became really ambitious. Taking it for granted that the trump ace was "on side," he cashed the diamond ace, then the king and queen, discarding his losing club. With the side suits nicely under control [he thought], he then led another trump toward his own hand. East's showing out was a distinct shock, but there was nothing to be done about it. West captured the trick with the heart jack [declarer having played low], then cleaned out all the trumps, in his own hand, in declarer's, and in dummy, by leading the ace and another heart. This left declarer in the sad position of being able to take only one more trick, his club ace, and the highly conservative contract was down one.

If West had accepted the first trump trick offered to him, he never would have been able to lead dummy and declarer out of trumps. Or, if declarer had not played a second trump, but had gone about his business, conceding two spade tricks to East, he would have retained a couple of trumps with which to ruff a club and/or a diamond.

Your Daughter Has a Right to Know

It is every mother's duty to tell her daughter physical facts. How much better that she learn them from you, rather than from girls her own age. In feminine hygiene, facts may be distorted, or wholly untrue. As a result, many brides use overstrong solutions of acids for feminine hygiene which can actually burn, scar and harm delicate tissue.

Today such risks are needless. Science has given womankind Zonite. So powerful, it kills instantly all germs and bacteria with which it comes in contact. Deodorizes—by actually destroying odors. Protects personal daintiness. Yet! Zonite is non-caustic, non-poisonous, safe for delicate tissues. Over 20,000,000 bottles bought. Get Zonite at your druggist today.

A hamburger is not just a hamburger, for a' that. Some hamburgers come to table so dressed up you'd swear they were totally unrelated to the sandwiched meat you wolf with catsup at picnics and after an evening of dancing or movies.

Smothered hamburger is dressed up, but rather simply. It's a dish the high school age members of the family will be fond of!

Smothered Hamburger.

[Eight servings.]

- 1 cup soft bread crumbs
- 1 tablespoon melted butter
- 1½ pounds ground round steak
- 1½ teaspoons salt
- ¼ teaspoon pepper
- 8 slices bacon
- 1 onion, sliced
- 1 can tomato or mushroom soup

Combine crumbs, butter, meat, and seasonings. Shape into eight patties. Wrap each with a slice of bacon and skewer with a toothpick. Dip in flour and brown on both sides in a small amount of fat. Sauté onions in the fat at the same time. When meat is browned, pour soup over it [if you use condensed soup, dilute it a little], cover, and bake at 350 degrees for 40 minutes. Arrange patties on a hot platter. Thicken sauce, if need be, with a tablespoon of flour mixed to a paste in a little cold water. Pour sauce around meat and serve.

That hot bacon dressing is unexcelled for spinach. It's wonderful with dandelion greens, leaf lettuce, romaine, and watercress, too.

Hot Bacon Dressing.

- 4 slices bacon, diced and cooked
- ½ small onion, minced
- ¼ cup vinegar [dilute, if strong]
- 2 teaspoons sugar
- ½ teaspoon salt

Cook onion in hot fat, until tender. Add vinegar, sugar, and salt. Pour, while hot, over shredded greens, stir, and serve at once. This dressing is enough for salad for six. Tarragon flavored vinegar, a wine vinegar, or one of the herb flavored vinegars will give the dressing a touch of the epicurean.

Creamy rice pudding with fruit is a simple dessert capable of endless variation as you change the fruits that go into it. You may use one fruit, or a combination of several. If you use canned or stewed fruit, the juice may be thickened to serve as a sauce.

Creamy Rice and Fruit Pudding.

[Serves six.]

- ½ cup rice
- 2 cups boiling water
- ½ teaspoon salt
- 1¼ cups milk
- ½ cup honey
- 2 cups diced fresh, canned or stewed fruit

Wash rice and cook in the boiling water with the salt. When water is absorbed, continue cooking in the top of a double boiler with honey and milk. When tender, add fruit. Chill and serve with cream or with a fruit sauce.

TODAY'S PRIZE RECIPE

Orange Buttermilk Eggnog.

[Serves four or five.]

- 2 eggs
- Few grains salt
- 1 tablespoon sugar
- 1 cup orange juice, chilled
- 3 cups buttermilk

Break eggs into bowl and sprinkle with salt. Beat until light and fluffy. Add sugar and continue beating until well blended. Add orange juice and buttermilk, beating until blended. Serve immediately.

Mrs. Ernest Edwards,
206 East North Central avenue.
Tuscola, Ill.

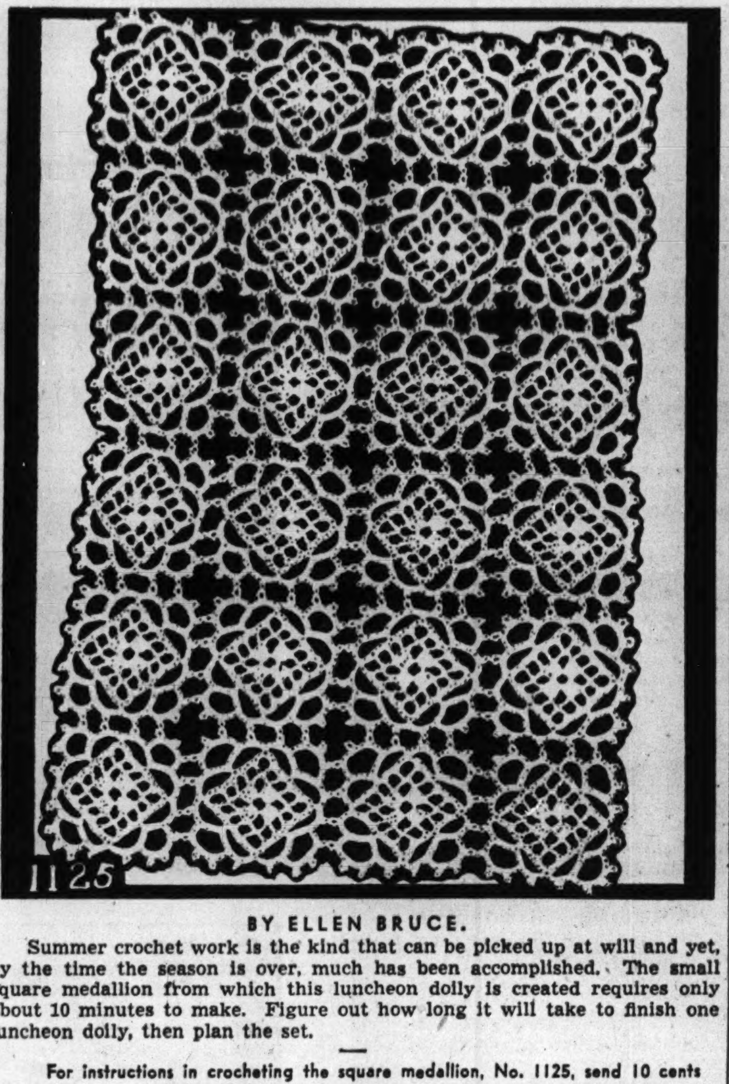
BRUSH AWAY GRAY HAIR ..AND LOOK 10 YEARS YOUNGER

● Now, at home, you can quickly and easily tint telltale streaks of gray to natural-appearing shades—from lightest blonde to darkest black. Brownatone and a small brush does it—or your money back. Used for 30 years by thousands of women (men, too)—Brownatone is guaranteed harmless. No skin test needed, active coloring agent is purely vegetable. Cannot affect waving of hair. Lasting—does not wash out. Just brush or comb it in. One application imparts desired color. Simply retouch as new gray appears. Easy to prove by tinting a test lock of your hair. 60c at drug or toilet counters on a money-back guarantee. Retain your youthful charm. Ask for BROWNATONE. Get it today.

Medallion in Crochet



BY ELLEN BRUCE.

Summer crochet work is the kind that can be picked up at will and yet, by the time the season is over, much has been accomplished. The small square medallion from which this luncheon doily is created requires only about 10 minutes to make. Figure out how long it will take to finish one luncheon doily, then plan the set.

For instructions in crocheting the square medallion, No. 1125, send 10 cents in stamps or coin, plus 2 cents to cover mailing cost, to the Needlework Bureau, Chicago Tribune, 220 Fifth avenue, New York City.

Women in War Work

Book reviewing is the task of another department of The Tribune, but several volumes recently received by the book department are of interest in this column. One, published Monday, is "The Army Woman's Handbook," by Clella Reeves Collins [Whittlesey, $1.25]. Her qualifications for writing advice for the army wife, mother, and family is attested by her identification as the wife of Col. Carter Collins.

General interest in the subject is shown in Mrs. Collins' preface, wherein she writes: "Every girl in America is a potential army wife today."

In 20 chapters Mrs. Collins discusses such specific subjects as what to do when separation comes, wartime and peacetime claims, government life insurance funds and social security, legal aid to soldiers, the service man's income tax, relief organizations, and communcations with service men.

Mrs. Collins suggests an "essentials" list of papers to file in a safety deposit box when the head of the family goes into service. For the benefit of the many new army wives this list includes:

Arrangements for allotment of pay, power of attorney, original birth certificates of wife and children, original marriage certificate and one true copy to be filed with Veterans administration, copy of last income tax return, household goods inventory, deeds to property, tax receipts, rent receipts, insurance policies, etc. Mrs. Collins' complete list includes 22 divisions which include arrangements for any event.

An entire chapter is devoted to wills which are as important to the wife of a civilian as to the army wife. A good idea at any time, it is now even more important that plans be carefully made in order to save time and effort for the extra burdens of a country at war. Now, more than ever, the business responsibilities of the home will fall upon women.

Mrs. Collins' rules for foreign correspondence are those issued by the director of censorship. She reminds writers that postal communication with enemy or enemy occupied countries is illegal and will not be permitted except thru the American Red Cross, which will transmit short messages of a personal nature, and except for communications with prisoners of war.

She says the work of censorship will be aided by conformity to the following rules in regard to persons in foreign countries other than occupied ones: Put name and full address of sender on the outside of the envelope and on letter itself; write correspondence in English, if possible; make letters brief, legible, and clear; avoid use of nicknames, abbreviations, phrases, or codes in places of customary reference or descriptions of any persons, firm, location, or other information, and, if English is not used, write the name of the language in English on the face of the envelope.

There must be no mention of defense matters, shipping, or weather conditions. Further rules apply to business firms sending correspondence out of the country.

The USO benefit show which the Woman's Library club of Glencoe produced recently netted $650 for the service organizations. The show, "Dream of a Clown," was presented by the Woman's club, but the cast was made up entirely of men.

Ordinarily, letters printed in this column contain questions which we believe many other women besides the writers would like to have answered. We vary that routine for the following two letters, however. They are used simply to demonstrate the patriotism of two busy women who are surely representative of many. Answers will not be printed here; the letters themselves are of chief importance.

E. B. writes:

"I read your column and I would like to ask if there isn't some group I could fit into. I love working, especially if I can help some one. Most of my evenings are free. I have a small son 2 years old. My husband is in service with the marines. I work days because my husband cannot send me much money, of course. I have to depend on myself to support my son.

"But I am free evenings, and I would like to help if I can. I am young and active. . . . I have a high school education. I am 20 years old. If you know of anything I could do to earn a small amount of extra money I would be grateful. But I will willingly serve just to be helping, if only in some small way."

M. W.'s letter also displays eagerness to add to a schedule which would appear to be crowded now. She says:

"I am a young married woman whose husband works from 4 p. m. until midnight seven days a week. I would very much like to do some work, but I would like it to be in the evenings or late afternoon.

"I have enrolled in the nutrition class with the Red Cross, and I have volunteered at my Civilian Defense office. I still feel that there must be more to do, and I have time to do it. Among the things that interest me are being a hostess at the USO; working with children; working in a canteen.

"Will you please tell me just how to go about getting into any of this work, and perhaps suggest some other type of work for me?"

[The Women in War Work department reports on women's activities in war and defense work and will answer questions of women wishing to take part in these activities.]

On the House

Mrs. John K. of Oak Park writes that she has solved the problem of how to keep her garden tools clean in the easiest possible fashion. . . . Just inside her garage door she keeps a pail of dry, clean sand, and after she has used the tools, trowel, etc., she sticks them several times into the sand. . . . When they come out they are clean and dry. . . . Also she uses an everyday apple corer as a trowel when she works around small plants and claims it is a help against injury to their frail and tiny roots.

Helps to Be Step Ahead of the Children

BY GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS

[Copyright: 1942: By News Syndicate Co., Inc.]

A surprisingly large number of young people write me that they read this column regularly. They have two explanations. One is that they like to understand what makes people work; another is that they are storing what they read away in their minds, because "some day I expect to have children of my own." A few who describe their unhappy home life say it helps them to see why it is the way it is. In some cases I have been delighted to hear from the young people later on, when they have actually married and have babies of their own.

Naturally there are, in addition, many young women who, as soon as they are married, begin to prepare themselves by reading for the great adventure of parenthood. They all testify that it has helped to know something about babies and children ahead of time.

But there still are those who think that parenthood is instinctive, who can't see why one should delve and ponder and feel the need for thought and preparation for the job of being a mother or a father, who still have the opinion that the subtle task of guiding children is a sixth sense that all parents possess.

Now, some do possess that sixth sense. Some are gifted. Some people without conscious study have a veritable genius for the nourishing of growing youth. But only a few, and even their store of wisdom could be enriched. And that leaves all the others, much more than a majority, in real need of preparation for rearing children, either before they come or as they go along.

"Are you experienced?" asks the housewife when she is engaging a maid.

"Are you experienced?" asks the business man when he is hiring a secretary.

"Are you experienced?" asks the cabinet maker before he takes on a man to work on his fine woods.

But neither society nor nature asks "Are you experienced?" of the people who want a child. Neither asks: "Are you prepared? If you're not, your application is denied."

Well, of course we know that's nature's way and society's. But many of us could well prepare ourselves by keeping a step ahead, at least after the children are born. It helps tremendously, if you are utterly inexperienced with children and feel yourself so, to have an inkling of what they may do and why they may do it.

Is the intelligence test a permanent guide to a child's mental limits? How can the teacher hold the interest of children in studies? Answers to these and scores of other problems are given in "Talks With Teachers," new 28 page booklet by Gladys Huntington Bevans. Get your copy today at the Tribune Public Service offices, 1 South Dearborn street and Tribune Tower. Price, 5 cents. Postpaid, 7 cents.

Thru the Looking Glass

One of the nicest little bread-and-butter gifts for a hostess, we think, is a bath trimming that has more than beauty of fragrance to recommend it. It's also a water softener, and in most country homes nothing is quite as acceptable.

This isn't expensive, but it's rather impressive, packaged in simple style, and bearing the name of a manufacturer who always practices her belief in the importance of quality. Its scent is honeysuckle, certainly one of the best to be found, and, in this medium of water softener, especially delightful. We've been a fan for her honeysuckle sachet for years.

This softener is in powder form, soft yellow granules, that are to be tossed in while the bath is running at a pretty good clip. The little yellow globes dissolve instantly and the way they scent the water so extravagantly is proof of the fact that they are generously and honestly perfumed. The room, the water and your skin will all be honeysuckle scented, which should please any user, especially on mornings when the world doesn't seem too sweet.

And even the hardest water is transformed instantly when this powder is popped into it. It acquires the softness of rain immediately; soap will lather gloriously and the skin will feel far more satiny than it otherwise would.

This is a delightful bath trimming for any one, anywhere, but it has special charms for the woman who lives in a hard water district. You might remember it next time you want a hostess gift. Eleanor Nangle.

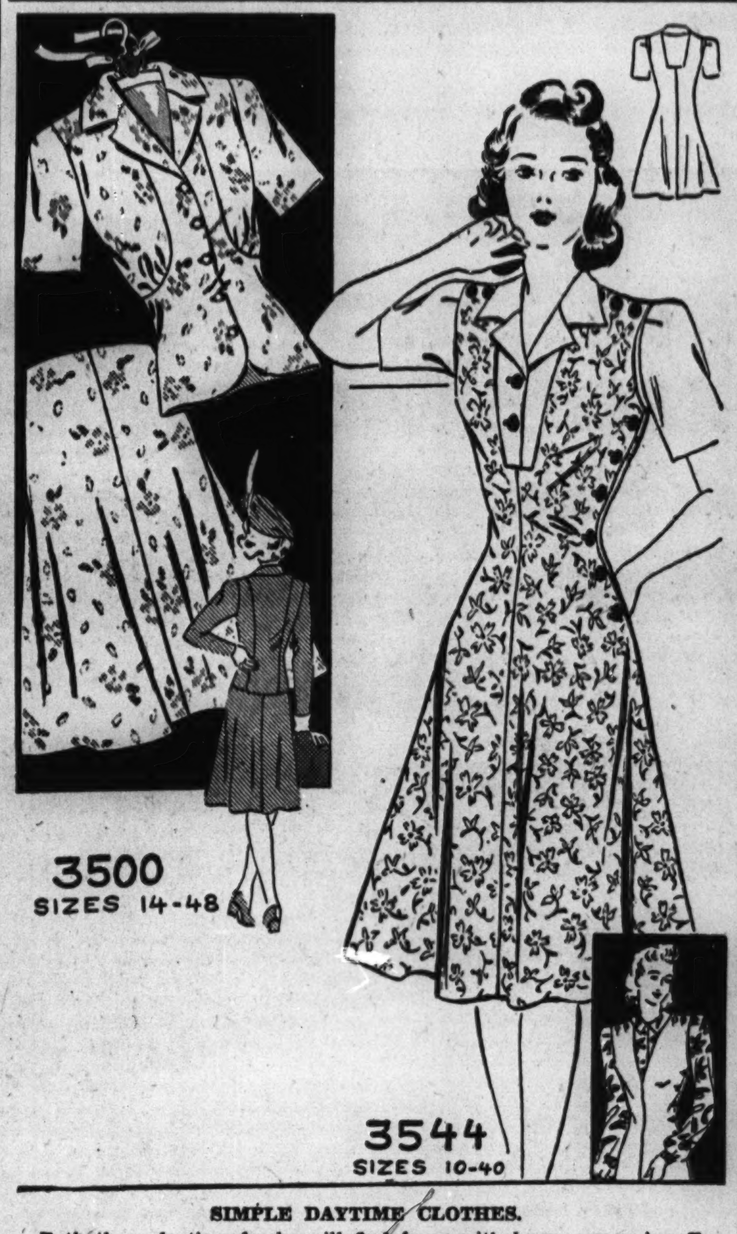
Simple Daytime Dresses



SIMPLE DAYTIME CLOTHES.

Both these daytime frocks will find favor with busy women in offices and out of them. One is a two-piece model which makes up as a suit or as a two-piece floral print. The other has jumper lines, and the blouse contrasts.

Style No. 3500 is designed for sizes 14, 16, 18, and 20, and 36, 38, 40, 42, 44, 46, and 48 inch bust measurements. Size 36 requires 3½ yards of 39 inch material.

Style No. 3544 is designed for sizes 10, 12, 14, 16, 18, and 20, and 36, 38, and 40 inch bust measurements. Size 16 requires, for jumper, 3 yards of 35 inch material; for blouse, 1⅝ yards of 35 inch.

Each pattern costs 10 cents, plus 2 cents to cover mailing cost.

Address orders for Clotilde patterns to Chicago Tribune, P. O. Box 537, Grand Central Annex, NEW YORK CITY, including 10 cents in stamps or coin, plus 2 cents for mailing costs (coin preferred—wrap it carefully) for each pattern ordered. IMPORTANT: Be sure to state clearly the number of the pattern and the size desired and write your name and address plainly. The summer pattern book costs 15 cents—10 cents if ordered with a pattern.

Capital Service Set Opens a 2d Front in Society

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., July 7.—The army and navy have established a second front in Washington society. The service set has grown so large that its members form a complete social circle of their own.

More and more army and navy officers entertain in their own circle, excluding the civilian society leaders, examination of capital social columns reveals.

Secretary of the Navy Frank Knox is one of the most active members of this social set. However, he does not confine himself to service circles.

Capital social columns report that Secretary and Mrs. Knox were dinner guests of Capt. and Mrs. Frank E. Beatty at the exclusive Chevy Chase club. Others in the party included Rear Adm. and Mrs. William Purnell, Rear Adm. Walton D. Sexton, and Ensign Denis Beatty, son of the hosts.

The secretary also was a dinner guest of Lieut. Gen. Thomas Holcomb, commandant of the marine corps. Following dinner the guests were entertained by the weekly marine band concert. The Holcombs have a country home, Rosecroft, on St. Mary's river in southern Maryland where they spend their weekends.

Col. John Potts, commanding officer at the marine barracks, and Mrs. Potts frequently entertain friends at Fontaine, their country place on the Potomac river.

Rear Adm. Timothy Keliher, Maj. Alfred Robbins, and Col. Merrill Spaulding were among the dinner guests of Elwood Wagonhorst at the Chevy Chase club.

Rear Adm. and Mrs. Herbert Seymour Howard gave a cocktail party for Adm. Sir Charles Little, who represents the British navy in Washington.

Col. and Mrs. Robert Davis entertained at the first of a series of mint julep parties. Among the guests were Brig. Gen. Pelham G. Classford, Maj. Frank Capra, and Lieut. Gregg Boutzer.

Capt. and Mrs. Smith Hempstone introduced their friends to their daughter, Miss Eleanor Noyes Hempstone, at a garden party in their new home, White Chimneys, at Bethesda.

Light and Airy Trifle Ideal as a Summer Hat

BY REA SEEGER.

A sure sign of midsummer weather are the lighter-than-nothing frivolities that double for hats. Hatmakers—evidently thoroly in sympathy with the urge to keep headlines cool but opposed to the idea of merely tying up the curls in head handkerchiefs—have emerged from a huddle with these airy trifles in time for hot weather. They're all tricky affairs, almost flirtatious—snoods and elongated pancakes made of chenille, crocheted thread, thin felt, and horse hair braid.

Not to be taken too seriously, such items have tremendous appeal because they're priced for limited budgets, designed to flatter, and sure to give breezy, air conditioned comfort.

One of the smartest and newest ideas is the huge tam beret made of rickrack braid. The braid is stitched securely in checkered pattern about an inch square. Navy, black, pale blue, yellow, and pale green are the colors offered. A perky grosgrain bow the same color as the rickrack braid stands at attention directly in the center of the pompadour. It's the most decorative, colorful summer topper ever devised to keep the brow and brains serene and picturesque.

Remember the daisy chains you made in kindergarten? Some designer recalled those wide looped chains, and, using colored thin felt, made new summer bonnet effects of this chain pattern. Vivid green, scarlet, white, navy, and brown provide all the contrast colors you need for your summer clothes. These daisy chain felt creations cling lightly to the headline and are worn way back on the head, with two longer ends hanging down below the shoulders. They're fresh, young, and eye catching, besides being cool and very inexpensive.

Interview with Dali, Like His Art, Surrealist

BY RITA FITZPATRICK.

An interview with Salvador Dali, prominent surrealist artist, is as strange as one of his paintings.

The scene was the Dalis' suite in the Lake Shore Drive hotel yesterday. The time was hilarious and the place a confusion. Pictures, easels, paint brushes, and oils were strewn about the room, with reporters, photographers, and press agents who spoke little French, and M. and Mme. Dali, who spoke little English.

Dali, who is in Chicago finishing a portrait of Mrs. Charles Swift, was resplendent in a tan gabardine suit, ribbed shirt, suede moccasins, purple socks, blue and red tie, moonstone tie pin, and his eyebrow mustache. He swaggered about the room with the aid of a long painter's pointer, stopping long enough for a photograph and to burst into a torrent of soul-baring French.

"I was born a surrealist," he announced with a dreamy expression and rapid fire French. "It was in Spain. Even as a little boy I used to draw dogs with wings on them. Fantastic. But fantastic. Surrealists are persons who believe in imagination as much as realism. They attempt to render the world of imagination with the world about them. I want to put on canvas the ideas that come into my head as well as this lamp or this table."

He does.

He has some very strange ideas.

One of his recent paintings, a copy of which he displayed and attempted to explain in tortured English, a task that would be difficult even with a mastery of the language, was a "Nightmare of War." From the mouth of a cannon spewed rubbery-looking human figures, a horse, winged victory, a violin, a contemplative cherub, and two bottles of ink.

"The ink bottles were in memory of mon père, my father," he explained sadly. "He was a notary public. Bestiality is the ugliest thing in the world. It is the exact contradiction of architecture, which is the most beautiful thing. But war . . . this great catastrophe is stimulating to the imagination. It revitalizes art."

And while he is having his art revitalized Dali is a busy man these days. He is completing the portrait of Mrs. Swift, which will be exhibited with those of 10 other prominent women in New York in April. He is planning a Bach ballet to be called "Mysteria," with Leonide Massine, famous choregrapher for the Ballet Russe. He recently completed three giant murals for Helena Rubenstein's apartment in New York and he is writing his biography, "The Secret Life of Salvador Dali," to be published in September.

"My husband's book will tell all," Mme. Dali, a chic, dark haired woman of the duchess of Windsor type, contended.

She bowed and "bon joured" the press representatives over the litter in the room to the door. Suddenly she turned with a Gallic gesture and pointed dramatically at her slender husband, who stood posed like a boulevardier beside a vase of roses.

"When he works, he is a monster. Oui, a veritable monster."

The interview was at an end, if it had begun.

White Collar GIRL

BY RUTH MACKAY.

Big City Heartbreak.

Sue was a small town girl who came to Chicago, took the civil service examinations, passed, and was sent to Washington, D. C. In Washington she shared an apartment with two other stenos—Amy and Mary.

One evening, says Betty Bayer, who tells the tale, only two of the girls were at home. Amy had a date and was getting dressed when the bell rang, and, as Amy could not answer the door, Sue opened it to admit Amy's date. Sue and he took one look at each other: This was it! It was all off with Amy.

So, they were married. Sue's department in the government was moved to Chicago and they came here to live, leaving Amy behind in Washington.

Amy was a good sport about it all. Only here's the rub: One evening a dinner guest marveled at the tasty home cooked food prepared by the busy steno, and wondered how she learned to cook. How? Amy taught her!

The Backward Glance.

From R. C. Brundage: "I was working at Shabbona Sept. 19, 1881, when Rock Falls called me on the wire and said, 'Garfield shot twice at B. & O. depot, Washington.' I relayed it to others. They had been using telegraph manifold book then for years. I remember when they had a receiving device that recorded dots and dashes on a tape. Then men learned to receive it by sound. I had a No. 2 Remington typewriter in 1881, bought thru Culver, Page, Hoyne & Co., Chicago, when Hoyne was postmaster. I would like to find that old mill, for I applied a marginal stop to it, permitting writing inside the margin. . . . There used to be a typewriting telegraph transmitter that sent the Morse code. I think their slogan was 'Correct finger habits; always the same finger on the same key.' Then there was a 'Tulloss' system originating at Springfield, O. . . . I retired from the C. B. & Q. 10 years ago but still love to use a mill."

Additional note on the girl who works days . . . and her husband nights. She's hunting for an apartment "lots quieter for a gent sleeping daytimes. I told him I thought I'd take a pillow along with me and ask if I might try a midmorning nap to see how quiet it is."

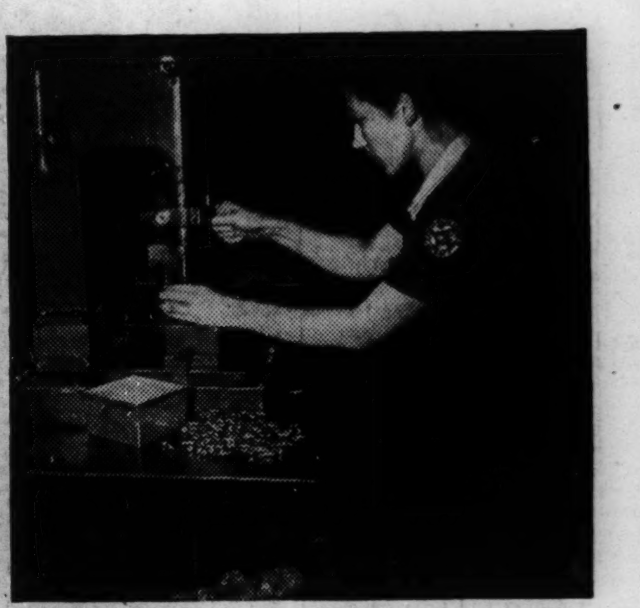
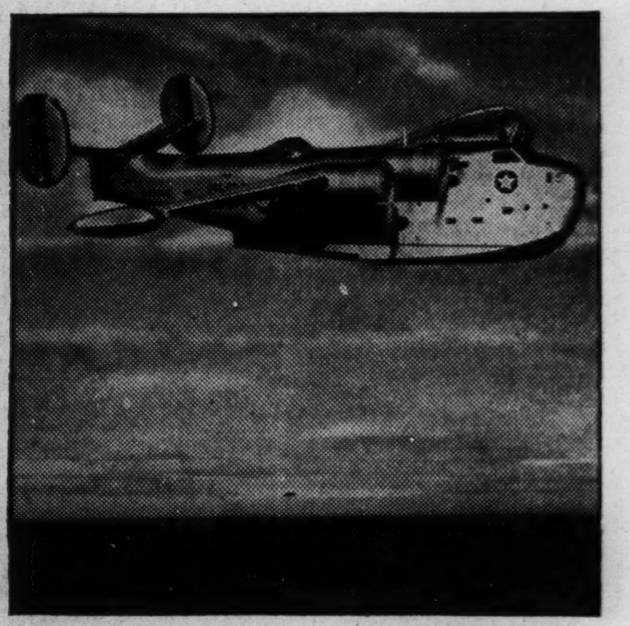
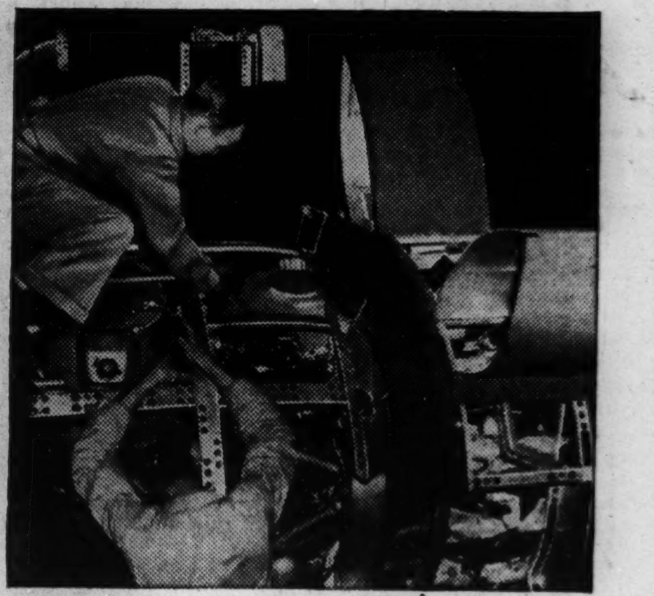
BUILDING THE CONSOLIDATED (B-24) LIBERATOR Down a long assembly line, moving toward Berlin and Tokyo, the Capitals of Hate, come huge numbers of Consolidated's newest Battleship of the Air—the Liberator—or B-24. This gigantic bomber has a wing span as long as half a city block . . . can fly loaded from the U. S. to Hawaii or Europe, with plenty to spare.



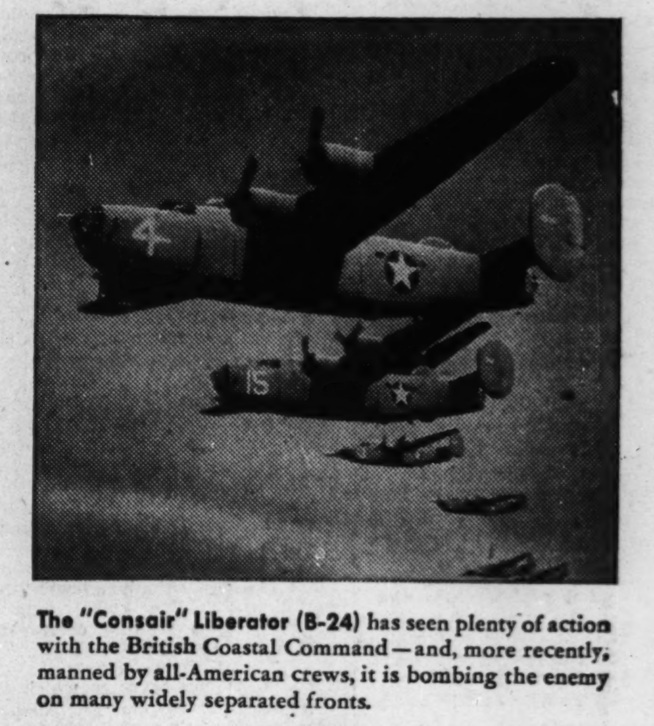
Who has a better right to help build an American bomber than the wife or sister of a man who gave his life at Pearl Harbor? Among "Consair's" thousands of women employees, are quite a few to whom such a loss is an added incentive to "keep 'em rolling" off the line.



"Eyes of the Navy"—Consolidated's PB-2Y flying boat, the Coronado (above), has as much room in its fuselage as a Pullman car. "Consair" also makes the PBY flying boat, which the British dubbed the Catalina. It was a "Cat" which tracked down the Nazi battleship, "Bismark."



Hitching the horses to a B-24—A four-motored giant, heavily armed and armored, the Liberator cuts through the air as fast as many a pursuit ship. Above, "Consair" craftsmen put the finishing touches on one of the four engine installations.



The "Consair" Liberator (B-24) has seen plenty of action with the British Coastal Command—and, more recently, manned by all-American crews, it is bombing the enemy on many widely separated fronts.

The Sands are running out for the Sowers of Hate

WITH A SAVAGERY unknown since Genghis Khan, Germany and Japan have beaten and butchered their way into everlasting infamy.

By flouting every principle of human decency, they have sown the seeds of hatred halfway around the earth.

But the harvest they have sown is ready to be reaped. The new kind of war they began will turn on its creators. Aroused, armed, and fighting mad is the greatest mechanical nation on earth . . . America.

New and deadlier instruments of war are reaching the fighting fronts . . . instruments conceived and made in the U. S. A.

One such instrument is Consolidated's Liberator, officially known by its Army designation B-24. This giant of the air is the very latest thing in long-range bombers. It is literally an aerial battleship. It is the largest and fastest bomber ever turned out by mass production. It carries a heavier bomb load than anything else now in action against the enemy.

The Liberator maneuvers like a hawk. A new wing design makes her a sweetheart to handle. The first test pilot to try her out landed, stepped out in amazement and said, "Holy cow, she's a pursuit ship!"

We're sharing her with other plane makers

The Liberator, or B-24, is Consolidated's baby. We designed her. We spent years making her what she is today. But this war won't be won by one company hanging on to the good things it invents. It can be won only by teamwork.

That's why we're proud to have Douglas Aircraft joining us in the production of Consolidated B-24's . . . and why we welcome the Ford Motor Company, who will devote its great Willow Run plant to the building of this "Consair" bomber.

That's why we're willing to share the blueprints for the B-24 with any other aircraft company the Army wishes to designate.

For only by forgetting to grind each individual axe can America forge one big axe for the Axis.

Consolidated was the first to produce bombers by mass production on a moving assembly line. Today, Liberators are coming out of our huge San Diego plants and our other plant, "Somewhere in Texas," in heavy volume. And they're delivering telling blows against the Axis on world-wide battle fronts.

Big ones for the Navy, too

Consolidated's assembly lines are also turning out huge flying boats for the Navy—the PBY's and the PB-2Y's, which are universally known as Catalinas and Coronados. These mammoth patrol bombers have figured brilliantly in action against the enemy. They're making headlines and history.

Yes, the sands are running out for the Sowers of Hate. America the peace-loving, the patient, is angry and out for vengeance.

She is trampling out the vintage where the Grapes of Wrath are stored. Consolidated Aircraft Corporation, San Diego, Calif.

CONSOLIDATED builds Battleships of the Air

To the Army of Men and Women in the Consolidated Plants:

"We're all partners today in the biggest job this country has ever faced—making bombers and making them fast. Our boss is Uncle Sam—our profits, Victory.

"This is the time for every last one of us to tuck in his shirt and pull together. Let's make as many as possible of next year's planes this year!"

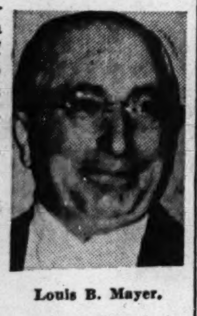
MISS BARBARA WINS TRIAL FOR LASSIE STAKES

Even Stitch Is 2d at Arlington Park.

$126,095 for Relief

JOHN D. ALLEN, president of Arlington Park, and Benjamin F. Lindheimer, chairman of the operating committee, yesterday announced that the 4th of July proceeds had amounted to $126,095.50 and that this sum would be turned over to the Army and Navy Relief societies. Despite the adverse weather conditions on that day, this more than fulfilled the expectations of the track operators who had made a conservative prediction that the yield would be in excess of $100,000. The mutuel clerks contributed $1,890 of the sum.

BY HOWARD BARRY.



Louis B. Mayer.

Louis B. Mayer's Miss Barbara beat five other Lassie stakes contenders yesterday at Arlington Park in a five and a half furlong tuneup for Saturday's $30,000 race. Steve Brooks shook her clear of the pack in the stretch and sent her on to win by three and a half lengths, while Woolford farm's Even Stitch was taking second money and Blenheim Girl third.

A field of seven went to the post in this event, all except Dixiana farm's Head Start being on the list of eligibles for Saturday's stake. Miss Barbara was established as the 7 to 5 favorite, with W. E. Boeing's Clickety Clack the second choice at 5 to 2.

It's a Battle All the Way.

The race developed into a battle all the way involving Miss Barbara, Even Stitch, and Blenheim Girl. In the early stages Hal Price Headley's Askmenow was in it, too. Head Start and Clickety Clack engaged in a duel all between themselves on the extreme outside, the former going very wide on the stretch turn and carrying Clickety Clack out with her. The only other starter, Joseph E. Widener's Yellow Poppy, never was able to get into a contending position.

Even Stitch went out of the gate with a rush to take the lead. Then, about a furlong after the start, Jockey Wayne Wright drove Askmenow up along the rail to assume command. She was unable to draw clear, however, Even Stitch and Blenheim Girl racing beside her and Miss Barbara remaining close up.

Miss Barbara Challenges.

Approaching the stretch it was Askmenow and Even Stitch, head and head, with Miss Barbara moving up past Blenheim Girl to challenge the leaders. Meanwhile Head Start and Clickety Clack were making the swing far on the outside and Yellow Poppy was lagging.

In the straightaway the four leaders were running side by side until they reached the eighth pole. Then Miss Barbara gradually drew clear and was going easily as she crossed the line.

Miss Barbara was scoring her second victory at Arlington. She had won by five lengths the first week of the meeting. Her time yesterday wasn't particularly good—1:06 3-5 for the 5½ furlongs. Her mutuel pay-off was $4.80, $3, and $2.60.

Radio Crusade, a three year old filly owned by the R. C. stable, won the Cavalcade purse, secondary feature on the day's program. She engaged in a closely contested stretch duel with Lotopoise, then drew out in the late stages to win by a length and a quarter. Calumet farm's Pharatheen, the 8 to 5 favorite, dropped far out of it in the early part of this six furlong dash, then improved his position approaching the stretch and took third money.

CUBS DEFEAT JANESVILLE, 8-1; GET 2 HOMERS

Janesville, Wis., July 7 [Special].—The Chicago Cubs defeated their country cousins, the Janesville Cubs of the Wisconsin State league tonight, 8 to 1.

Pitcher Paul Erickson, who spaced seven hits in six innings to gain the verdict, also was the batting star. He hit a three run homer in sixth, a single in the fifth, and a double in the third. Jimmy Foxx got three singles, two of them scratches.

Chicago led thruout, scoring one run in each of the second, third and fourth innings, three in sixth on Erickson's 380 foot swat over the left centerfield fence and two in the ninth on a homer by Dom Dallessandro.

Hiram Bithorn pitched the last three innings for Chicago and yielded only one hit. Janesville used its entire staff of five pitchers. Score:

Chicago [N. L.]......011 013 002—8 14 0
Janesville [Wis.]......001 000 000—1 8 3

In the Wake of the News

BY ARCH WARD.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

CLEVELAND, O., July 7.—The American league still has the best ball players in the world. . . . It's All-Stars stunned the National league's best with a first inning attack in the Polo Grounds last night and repeated in Cleveland's mammoth Municipal stadium tonight against the strongest lineup that could be recruited among Uncle Sam's armed forces. . . . The American league in the last 24 hours has given conclusive evidence that it not only has baseball's power hitters. . . . It has better pitching, better fielding and, above all, greater competitive spark. . . .

Mayor Frank Lausche was escorted to the reviewing stand near the third base dugout at 7:30 o'clock where he remained until 200 military motor vehicles from Camp Custer had circled the track. . . . Bob Elson, America's premier baseball announcer, said the potential radio audience was the largest in the history of the sport. . . . His play by play report was short waved to American troops in all parts of the world. . . . Henry P. Edwards, for many years director of the American league service bureau, motored to the game with Mrs. Edwards from Huntsville, Ala., where he has been living since his retirement last winter. . . . While the ball players went about their work in behalf of war charities smoke was belching from the tall chimneys of war production plants around Municipal stadium. . . . Regular admission prices prevailed at tonight's game except for a $1 war stamp stub at the end of each ticket. . . . The Great Lakes band got a big hand with its rendition of "The Caissons Go Rolling Along." But it brought down the house with "Anchors Aweigh." . . . The delegation of naval officers from Chicago included Capt. E. A. Loftquist, who represented Rear Adm. John Downes; Comm. B. O. Wells, and Lieut. Comm. Bert Howell. . . . Lieut. Edgar A. Thompson of the Great Lakes public relations department came over Sunday to coöperate with Earl Hilligan and Bill Brandt, public service directors of the American and National leagues, respectively. . . . Lieut. Comm. J. Russell Cook, athletic officer at Great Lakes, sat on the bench with the service All-Stars.

Hank Gowdy, Cincinnati coach who was the first major league ball player to enlist in World War I., was in charge of the Service team's batting practice. . . . The military ceremonies were climaxed with a 400-man V for victory formation in which 200 coast guardsmen and 200 naval representatives in training at a Cleveland Diesel plant participated. . . . Al Schacht gave a humorous touch to the evening with imitations of Christy Mathewson, Bobby Feller, and Al Schacht when Al was a pitcher for the Senators. . . . The American league All-Stars, who wore traveling gray uniforms last night inasmuch as they were playing in a National league park, switched to white togs tonight. . . . Pat Mullin, lead off man for the Service team, is a former Tiger, but his big league career ended in midseason last summer when he suffered a broken shoulder in a collision with Bill Dietrich in Comiskey park. . . . The huge throng gave Feller a rising salute when he walked to the mound to pitch to the American league lead off man, who happened to be his old teammate, Lou Boudreau. . . .

Feller, who last year held the National league All-Stars to one hit and no runs in his three inning stretch at Detroit, found the American league batsmen much tougher opposition. . . . He was nicked for four hits and three runs before he was relieved by Rigney in the second inning. . . . The former White Sox ace set down the first three men who faced him. . . . The first time Rigney pitched to Williams he threw four straight balls. . . . He had reason to be cautious, because last season Williams socked him for seven home runs. . . . The first 12 batters who faced Rigney were unable to hit safely, but the 13th, Stan Spence of Washington, got credit for a single when the Great Lakes hurler lost his balance in fielding a slow roller. . . .

The setting tonight was in sharp contrast to the mismanaged, poorly conducted exhibition in the Polo Grounds in New York last night. . . . There was showmanship attending tonight's spectacle. . . . There was none in New York. . . . Cleveland's weather was perfect for baseball. . . . New York's almost washed away the game. . . . Most important, there was no Frantic Fiorello La Guardia in Cleveland to scare away the fans by arbitrarily ordering a total black-out a few minutes after the conclusion of the show. . . . Popcorn is not sold in the Polo Grounds or Yankee stadium, because concessionaires feel it is a hick product. . . . No popcorn, but New York still has its cute little mayor. . . . It was felt by many in the Polo Grounds last night that they would rather have had the popcorn. . . . Baseball owners and the young men on the field who donated their services made an earnest effort to raise a substantial sum for war charities. . . . The mayor of New York did everything he could to hold the fund to the lowest possible level. . . . The success of the New York game was left to chance. . . . The management thought 48 hours advance effort would be plenty to enthuse the fans. . . . They either haven't heard or don't care that success rarely is an accident. . . . It's the result of careful planning and hard work. . . .

President Alva Bradley and Vice President-General Manager Roger Peckinpaugh of the Indians made tonight's game one that will live in All-Star history because they were not afraid to work. . . . While the cause was a worthy one, selling tickets by the thousands was no snap. . . . The withdrawal of players such as Hank Greenberg, Hugh Mulcahy, and Buddy Lewis from the Service squad led many to fear Bob Feller, Cleveland's pet, might not be available. . . . Then, too, it wasn't known until 9:30 last night what team was going to face Feller—the American or National All-Stars. . . . Still, the Cleveland management turned in a grand promotional job. . . . Several players on the Service team took mild shots at their

THREE BROTHERS TO BID FOR ONE SWIMMING TITLE

Lehman Boys Candidates at California Pool.

BY WILFRID SMITH.

The Lehman brothers, Herman, Fred, and William, are prepared to make a mass attack for one of the Chicagoland 100 yard swimming championship. Since all the boys are entered in class A for 11 and 12 year olds, only one of them can win the title in the finals in California park July 26, but all three are hopeful of winning gold qualifying medals in the preliminary races.

Herman Lehman Jr. is 12 and he competed last year in the 100 yard swim. He won a qualifying medal and competed in the championships. His brothers are 11 years of age and this is their first meet. Herman won the Illinois YMCA 40 yard junior championship this year. Fred placed third in the Chicago YMCA 20 yard back stroke race. The brothers will swim in the preliminary races in California park pool July 19.

Entry Determines Qualifiers.

The other trials on that afternoon will be held in Whealan pool, Milwaukee and Devon avenue. On July 18 preliminary races also will be held in Cermak pool, 7600 Ogden avenue, Lyons, Ill., and in the Sherman park pool, 52d street and Racine avenue.

Approximately 120 boys and girls will win qualifying medals at the four preliminary meets. The number qualified in each class from each section will be determined by the number of entries. Whealan and California pools normally have more entries than the Saturday meets. The number of qualifiers by classes also is determined by the number of entries and class B and C, for contestants 13 to 16 years of age, inclusively, will provide half of the total. Semifinals were held at the championships for classes A, B, and C of the boys' division and for class A of the girls' division.

Entries will close at midnight Monday. Individual entry may be made on the blank which is printed daily in these pages. Team entries may be made by a representative of the club if the home address, as well as the age, of each contestant is furnished.

Must Advance One Class.

Eight of the 1941 champions are eligible to compete again but they cannot compete in the age class in which they won their titles. Regardless of age, they must advance to the next higher class if they wish to swim in the preliminaries. Under this rule the class E or senior class champions are barred from further competition. Robert Bennett of Highland Park, Ill., and Betty Harrison, Chicago Towers club, were the class E champions last July.

The other 1941 champions are:

Class A, 11 and 12 years of age, Dianne Cook, Princeton, Ill., and Rusty Garst, Madison, Wis., YMCA.

Class B, 13 and 14 years of age, Alice Miller, Shawnee Country club, and Robert White, 111th street YMCA.

Class C, 15 and 16 years of age, Marilyn Billquist, Oak Park club, and Dick Upsall, Midwest Athletic club.

Class D, 17 and 18 years of age, Jane Cloyd, Winnetka, Ill., and Richard Lyon, Highland Park, Ill.

ANGOTT AGAIN TRIUMPHS OVER MONTGOMERY

Philadelphia, Pa., July 7 (AP).—Lightweight Champion Sammy Angott bulled and mauled his way to a 12 round split decision over Bob Montgomery tonight in a nontitle bout in Shibe park before 16,060 paid spectators.

Angott, who lives in Washington, Pa., but fights out of Louisville, Ky., was a 6½ to 5 choice to whip the Philadelphia Negro for the third straight time.

Billy Davis, formerly of Minersville, Pa., now fighting out of Philadelphia, punched his way to an eight round decision over Johnny Hutchinson of Philadelphia in the semi-windup. Davis weighed 137 to Hutchinson's 138¼. Johnny Walker's winning streak of 13 straight bouts came to an end in the eight round main preliminary. Izzy Jannazzo of New York won the decision. Johnny Forte, 127, Philadelphia, won a decision over Joey Archibald, 126, Providence, in the opening eight round match.

As American Leaguers Rode On in Triumph

Catcher Buddy Rosar of the American league All-Stars makes a neat slide back to first in last night's game with the Service All-Stars in Cleveland's Municipal stadium. The action came in the second inning as Pitcher Jim Bagby of the Americans struck out. A quick throw from Catcher Frank Pytlak of the Service team to Johnny Sturm caught Rosar off base. Sturm is sprawled at left and Rosar at right. The umpire is Lee Ballanfant. The American leaguers won, 5 to 0. [Associated Press Wirephotos.]

Seattle Star Posts a 69 to Lead Western

Spokane, Wash., July 7 (AP).—Harry Givan of Seattle, American Walker Cup team member in 1937, banged out a three under par 69 today to lead the field at the half way mark in the 36 hole qualifying trials of the 1942 Western Amateur Golf tournament. Givan set the pace for a formidable list of entries that included the national and defending Western title holder, Corp. Marvin [Bud] Ward, United States army. Ward scrambled his way to a 73.

Givan was out in 35 and home in 34, against the par 36—36—72 Manito course, 6,454 yards of flat but exacting fairways and greens.

Only Five Break Par.

Only five of the starting field of 89 were able to break par. The others included Verne Callison of Sacramento, Cal., with 36—34—70; and three at 71—Bruce McCormick, Los Angeles, 35—36; Seaman Harry Miller, United States navy, Seattle, and Wilford Wehrle, Racine, Wis., 38—33.

R. B. Van de Mark, Tacoma, and Marsh Hammond, Spokane, turned in par 72s and the rest of the scores ranged upward into the 90s.

Two among the tournament favorites, Bill Welch, Houston, Tex., and Corp. Pat Abbott, Los Angeles, found the going tough. Each carded a 76.

Welch, national public links champion, was hooking balls out of bounds and on one hole lost a stroke because of a mental lapse. He put his second shot within a couple of inches of the pin, then walked up and knocked the ball 12 feet from the cup. He had forgotten that all putts must be dropped but luckily holed out the long one he had made for himself.

Doering Has Trouble.

Another favorite, Art Doering Jr., Chicago, experienced putting trouble but was fairly well up with a 36—37—73.

Corp. Ward had to produce some of his finest golf to get back into the running. He spent much of the first nine in the woods, or off the fairways, to take a 39, but his incoming 34 partly made up for the earlier blundering.

The tournament's most colorful figure, Chick Evans of Chicago, was a late entry and turned in a 41—37—78. This championship was once almost exclusively Evans'. He won it eight times, four in succession from 1920 thru 1923.

Doering's and Wehrle's cards follow:

Par Out	443	444	454—36
Doering Out	453	434	454—36
Wehrle—Out	454	453	445—38
Par In	534	445	344—36—72
Doering In	444	445	534—37—73
Wehrle—In	524	444	343—33—71

Beau Jack Stops Linson in 8th Round in New York

New York, July 7 (AP).—Sidney Walker, known in boxing as Beau Jack, scored a technical knockout over Cosby Linson, 141, New Orleans, in the eighth round of the main event in the Queensboro stadium tonight. Linson suffered deep gashes over both eyes and was unable to continue. He was floored for a count of nine in the first.

The rival managers smile as they wish each other luck before start of contest. Joe McCarthy of Yankees (left) was strategist for the American leaguers and Lieut. Mickey Cochrane (right) piloted the Service stars. [Associated Press Wirephoto.]

DELAWARE PARK TAX AND MUTUEL REVENUE $600,000

Wilmington, Del., July 7 (AP).—State tax and mutuel revenues from the recent racing season at Delaware Park will be approximately $600,000, track officials reported today. The 30-day meet smashed all previous records for attendance, wagers, and size of purses.

Unofficial estimates indicated that some 250,000 persons visited the track during the meet and bet $13,000,000, more than double the "handle" during the initial season at the park in 1937.

Total purse distribution was computed at $469,700, an average of about $16,000 per day, which included $94,900 in war savings bonds paid to the owners of winning thorobreds.

HEAVY COLD PUTS TRIS SPEAKER, 54, IN HOSPITAL

Cleveland, O., July 7 (AP).—Tris Speaker, the old-time outfielder, was much improved tonight. He was taken to the hospital last night suffering with a heavy cold bordering on pneumonia, his physician said. He is 54 years old.

Speaker, a member of baseball's hall of fame, for several years has been chairman of the Cleveland boxing commission. He managed the Cleveland Indians to their only pennant 22 years ago.

WINNERS ROUT FELLER IN 2D BEFORE 62,094

Rigney Pitches Five Shutout Innings.

BY EDWARD BURNS.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Cleveland, O., July 7.—The American league All-Stars tonight beat Uncle Sam's All-Stars, 5 to 0, despite the rooting of most of the crowd of 62,094 which filled all but the outer stretches of Cleveland's Municipal stadium.

The enthusiastic customers failed to see the soldier and sailor team make it a close baseball battle, but got infinitely more than their money's worth for the $125,000 which they paid into the Service Ball and Bat fund and Army Emergency Relief and Navy Relief funds.

The pregame ceremonies, a stirring military show which displayed many of the finest young men now members of the army, the navy, the coast guard, and the marines, and hundreds of units of armored equipment, began long before dark. Then came the baseball game, with much excitement over Chief Boatswain's Mate Bob Feller's return to the scene of his professional triumphs.

Feller Goes Away Early.

In all honesty it must be said that Rapid Robert's homecoming was more dramatic than technically effective. Sailor Feller was started by Lieut. Mickey Cochrane, boss of the Uncle Sam team, with the knowledge he wasn't in as good shape to pitch as his Great Lakes ace, Johnny Rigney.

Subsequent events proved Lieut. Cochrane's pregame hunch correct. Feller was knocked out with none out in the second inning. Singles by Tommy Henrich and Joe DiMaggio with a pass to Ted Williams had given the Americans a pair of runs in the first inning.

When Ken Keltner opened the second with a triple and Buddy Rosar drove him home with a single, Seaman Rigney was rushed in. Johnny got the side out in a hurry. In his first three innings he held the Americans hitless. In his fourth inning he yielded an infield single which was blotted out by a double play. In his fifth round, the game's sixth inning, he struck out Rudy York and Bobby Doerr, then pitched singles to Keltner and Rosar. But he retired the side to end a brilliant shutout performance.

Mickey Harris Pounded.

Pvt. Mickey Harris followed Rigney. He came clear up from the Canal Zone and that may have tired him a bit. In his one inning there was a double by Phil Rizzuto and triples by Williams and George McQuinn. Those smacks were good for two runs to round out the Americans' total.

Pvt. Johnny Grodzicki of Fort Knox, Ky., pitched the eighth and retired three batsmen in order.

Jim Bagby of the Indians started for Joe McCarthy's boys and after a little trouble in the first inning, never was threatened much, tho he yielded singles to Coxswain Don Padgett and Specialist Ernie Andres, and a double to Pvt. Cecil Travis of Camp Wheeler, Fla.

Corp. Johnny Sturm of Jefferson Barracks, Mo., and Andres, were the only ones to negotiate singles off Sid Hudson of the Senators, and Tex Hughson of the Red Sox held the Service team to a double by Pvt. Emmett Mueller, of Jefferson Barracks.

The actual receipts were not announced because of delays in tabulating the concession sales.

NORTH SHORE GOLFERS TO PLAY AT SKOKIE TODAY

Westmoreland Leads in Team Standings.

BY CHARLES BARTLETT.

The third series of 1942 matches in the North Shore league, oldest of the Chicago district's interclub competitive families, will be held today at the Skokie Country club. The site for today's bouts originally was set for Park Ridge, but the latter club yielded its date for this season to Skokie, after that north shore club had transferred its June 10 date to Ridgemoor as part of the Hale America program.

Westmoreland is leading in the team standings for the season with 36 points, followed by Sunset Ridge, 33½; Edgewater, 33; Evanston, 31; North Shore, 25; Park Ridge, 22; Skokie, 18, and Ridgemoor, 17½.

Today's schedule follows:

NO. 1 TEAMS—Skokie vs. Westmoreland; Park Ridge vs. Evanston; Edgewater vs. Ridgemoor, and Sunset Ridge vs. North Shore.

NO. 2 TEAMS—Skokie vs. Park Ridge; Edgewater vs. North Shore; Sunset Ridge vs. Evanston, and Westmoreland vs. Ridgemoor.

NO. 3 TEAMS—Skokie vs. Edgewater; Park Ridge vs. Westmoreland; Sunset Ridge vs. North Shore, and Evanston vs. Ridgemoor.

◆

The 39th annual Pater-Filius competition conducted by the Midlothian Country club will be held there tomorrow. Entrants who crave a full day's exercise may play nine holes in the special four-ball morning event, and continue with the 18 hole two-ball battle in the afternoon. The Pater-Filius trophy will be awarded to the father and son combination with low net score of the matinée 18.

◆

The district's two governing organizations will hold tournaments Friday. The Chicago District Golf association will journey to Lake Geneva's Big Foot club for its second one day handicap event, and the Chicago Women's District Golf association will gather at Bryn Mawr for the first of its two one-day tourneys.

◆

The 15th annual Knights of Columbus all-state tournament will return this year to its longtime home—the Elmhurst Country club. Originally held at the west side club, the K. of C. event has for a number of years been waged at Olympia Fields. Thomas D. Griffin, chairman of the state athletic committee of the organization, announces that this year's field will be limited to 300. They will compete for nine championship trophies and scores of special awards.

Walter Crowe of Barry council, thrice Cook county champion, won the 1941 low gross championship, and Quigley council, eight time team victor, is the defending foursome champion. Policemen and firemen will compete for the Judge John F. O'Connell trophy in a special team match.

Donors of trophies for the championship flight are Fred B. Snite, Thomas D. Griffin, Peter B. Carey, Albert J. Horan, John J. Gorman, Leo M. Flynn, W. S. Toohey, and Ray F. Gleason. Special awards include the Judge John F. Bolton trophy for council attendance.

Pick 11 Fillies and Mares for $5,000 Stake

Eleven fillies and mares were named overnight for the second running of the $5,000 Cinderella handicap which features today's racing at Arlington Park.

Calumet farm's Proud One, winner of the inaugural running of the Cinderella last year, is top weight of the field under 120 pounds, L. B. Mayer's Painted Veil having declined the issue.

Contesting the seven furlong dash with the Calumet filly are Brownell Combs' Miss Dogwood, J. E. Widener's Waygal, Frank P. Letellier's Questvive, Woolford farm's Pig Tails, Silvestra and Inscolassie; Mrs. John Marsch's Blue Delight, H. G. Shoemaker's Lady Romery, Stanley Devore's Kesargo, Mrs. V. Sovinski's Distant Isle. The Cinderella is a prelude to the $10,000 added Matron handicap to be run on July 15.

◆

Omaha's fastest sprinter arrived at Arlington yesterday morning. The 5 year old Rockhesive trained by I. B. Fitzgerald, ran the six furlong course at Ak-Sar-Ben in 1:10 1-5.

◆

Jockey Johnny Adams arrives from Detroit today to ride Miss Dogwood in the Cinderella handicap.

◆

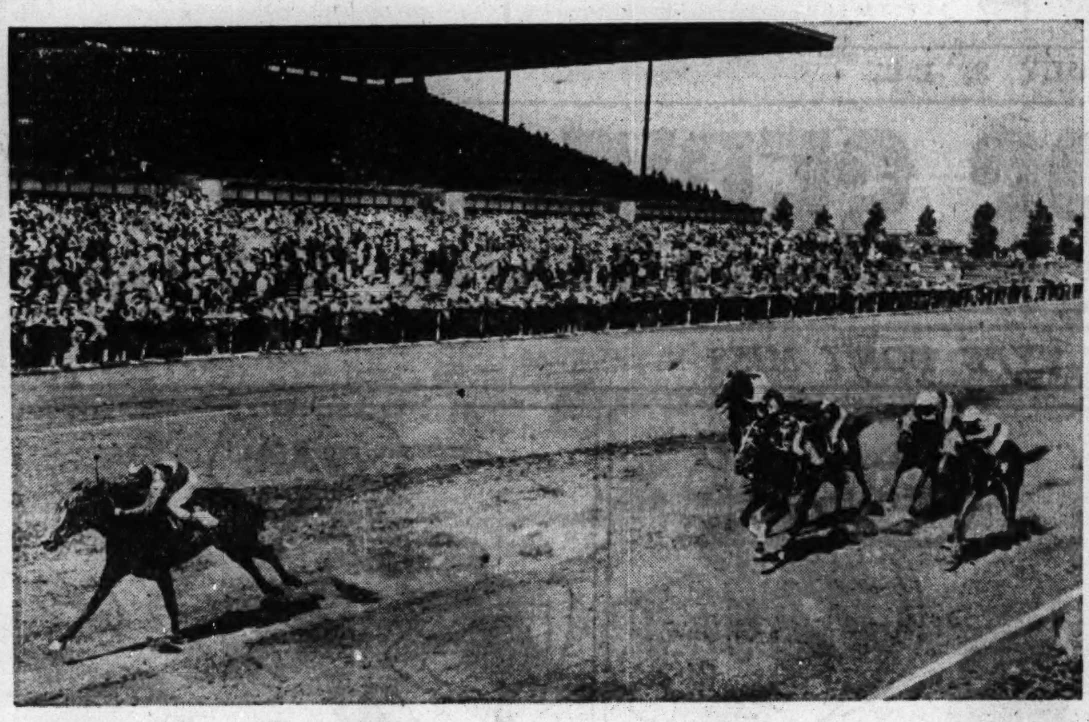
Miss Barbara Proves Filly to Watch



Miss Barbara, filly owned by Louis B. Mayer, gives owners of other candidates for Saturday's Lassie stakes something to think about as she captures 5½ furlongs race at Arlington yesterday. Five other eligibles for the stake competed. Miss Barbara won by 3½ lengths, with Even Stitch second, and Blenheim Girl third. [TRIBUNE Photo.]

Track fast. Time, :22 3-5, :47, :59 3-5, 1:06 2-5. Two dollar mutuels paid: Corona Corona, $3.00 straight, $2.60 place, $2.40 show; Vacuum Cleaner, $32.60 place, $11.80 show; Be Brief, $4.80 show. Winner trained by C. Wilhelm. Went to post at 2:19½. At post ½ minute. Start good, from gate. Won easily, place driving.

CORONA CORONA, a forward factor from the beginning, moved up between the leaders rounding the far turn to take command, drew away steadily entering the stretch, and was taken in hand the last sixteenth. VACUUM CLEANER, slow to settle into stride, closed strongly after reaching the final quarter mile, was going gamely at the end, but was no real threat to the winner. BE BRIEF took a short lead soon after the start, set the pace to the stretch, then weakened.

SECOND RACE—Six furlongs. Purse $1200. Net value to winner, $850; second, $200; third, $100; fourth, $50.

Time, :22 3-5, :46 3-5, 1:12 4-5. Two dollar mutuels paid: Diavoloman, $9.40 straight, $6.40 place, $3.40 show; Paiturf, $7.40 place, $3.80 show; Gummed Up, $2.60 show. Winner trained by W. Causey. Went to post at 2:47. At post ½ minute. Start good, from gate. Won driving, place same.

DIAVOLOMAN, well back for the first half mile, moved up swiftly after being steered to the outside rounding the stretch urn, wore down the leaders in the final sixteenth to win going away. PAITURF, having good early speed, took command soon after the start, set the pace to midway of the stretch, then weakened when the winner challenged. GUMMED UP, a forward factor early, stayed with the pace to the final furlong, then tired.

UNCLE WALTER, always within striking distance of the leaders, closed swiftly while racing on the outside in the final furlong, came on to win handily. BIRD HIGH, a forward factor early, forged to the front rounding the far turn, held on gamely to midway of the stretch, then weakened. CAPTAIN FURY moved up steadily while saving ground in the final quarter mile.

FOURTH RACE—Six furlongs. Purse, $1,200. Net value to winner, $850; second, $200; third, $100; fourth, $50.

BEACH MISS [D.Hauer]	106	8	9	9	9	9	9	Mr.-Mrs.Roberts	31.40-1

Time, :23, :46 3-5, 1:12 4-5. Two dollar mutuels paid: Suprine, $11.40 straight, $5.40 place, $4.00 show; Spring Drift, $5.80 place, $4.00 show; Invoice, $3.20 show. Winner trained by Monte Weil. Went to post at 3:40. Off at once. Start good, from gate. Won driving, place same.

SUPRINE, slow to settle in stride, moved up swiftly on the outside rounding the stretch turn, took command a furlong out and, under a drive, was drawing out at the end. SPRING DRIFT, in a contending position early, closed steadily while saving ground on the final bend, finished strongly, but was not good enough. INVOICE closed gamely while racing on the inside in the stretch drive.

FIFTH RACE—Five and one-half furlongs. Purse $1,500. Net value to winner, $1,000; second, $300; third, $150; fourth, $50.

Time, :22 3-5, :47 2-5, 1:00 1-5, 1:06 3-5. Two dollar mutuels paid: Miss Barbara, $4.80 straight, $3.00 place, $2.60 show; Even Stitch, $5.20 place, $3.60 show; Blenheim Girl, $4.40 show. Winner trained by G. Philpot. Went to post at 4:06½. At post ½ minute. Start good, from gate. Won handily, place driving.

MISS BARBARA, always within striking distance of the pace, raced up between horses going to the far turn, responded to punishment entering the stretch, and continuing on, drew away to win handily. EVEN STITCH broke well, but was taken in hand when outrun rounding the stretch turn, was going gamely at the finish. BLENHEIM GIRL was forced to race on the outside rounding the far turn, finished with good courage in the final furlong.

SIXTH RACE—Six furlongs. Allowances. Three year olds. Purse $1,500. Net value to winner, $1,000; second, $300; third, $150; fourth, $50.

CAPT. CAUTION, outrun in the early stages, closed swiftly after being steered to the outside rounding the stretch turn, wore down the leaders midway of the stretch, drew away to win easily. AUREOLE, up with the pace while racing on the outside going to the turn, moved up steadily rounding the far turn, made a strong bid for the lead entering the final quarter, held on gamely for a furlong, then weakened slightly. POMIVA closed a lot of ground while racing on the inside after going the first half mile, was going gamely at the end.

EIGHTH RACE—Mile and an eighth. Three year olds and up. Claiming. Purse $1,200. Net value to winner, $850; second, $200; third, $100; fourth, $50.

Time, :24 3-5, :49 1-5, 1:14 3-5, 1:40, 1:53 3-5. Two dollar mutuels paid: Cantata, $14.60 straight, $6.40 place, $4.60 show; Doug Brashear, $5.20 place, $3.40 show; Miss Baker, $3.60 show. Winner trained by D. Shaw. Went to post at 5:25. At post ½ minute. Start good, from gate. Won easily, place driving.

CANTATA, away in good shape, dropped back slightly rounding the first turn, rushed up entering the backstretch to take command and, under mild pressure, drew away to a long lead on the far turn, held her advantage to the end. DOUG BRASHEAR, well back in the early stages, closed steadily while saving ground rounding the final bend, moved up swiftly entering the final furlong. MISS BAKER, always well up, made a strong move rounding the stretch turn, then weakened near the end.

More and More, Men Turn to Quality Cigars

Size alone does not give solid satisfaction.

It takes quality tobacco to produce the real enjoyment that makes a good smoke such a grand "refresher" in these days of tough, exacting jobs.

That is why such an army of smokers is turning to El Producto.

Smokers revel in its smooth, distinctive taste. They like the comfortable mildness that never lets them down. They enjoy workmanship that gives a slow, uniform burn to generous shapes and sizes.

Try a pocketful of El Producto. You'll appreciate how quality brings real enjoyment to smoking.

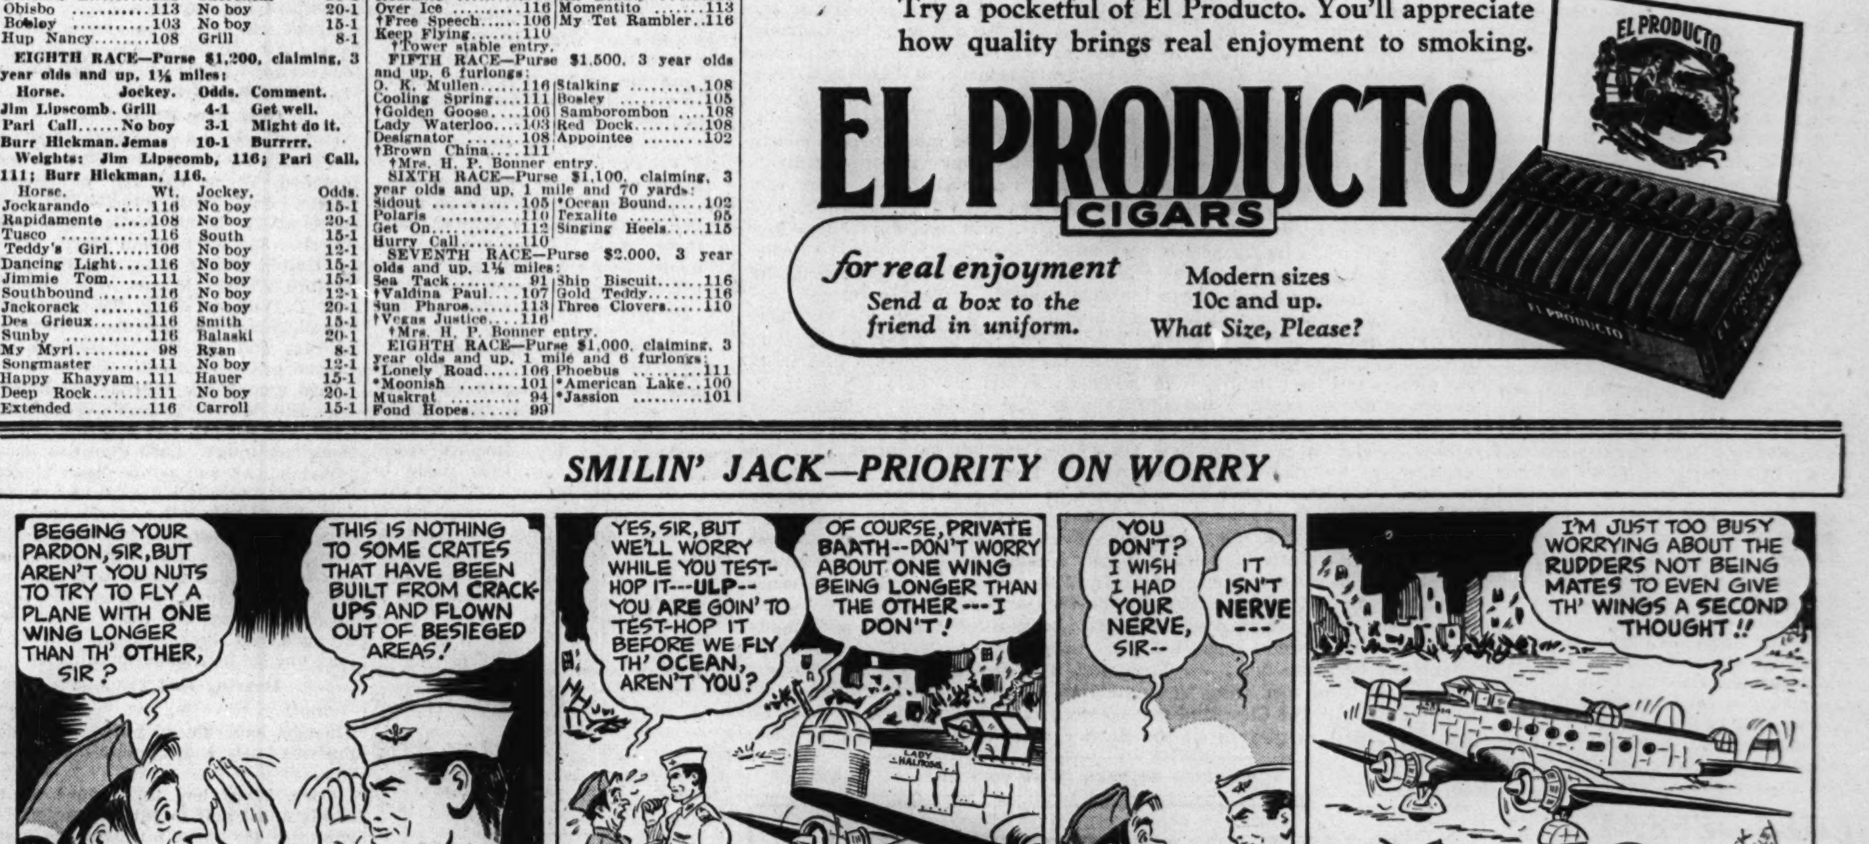
SMILIN' JACK—PRIORITY ON WORRY



BEGGING YOUR PARDON, SIR, BUT AREN'T YOU NUTS TO TRY TO FLY A PLANE WITH ONE WING LONGER THAN TH' OTHER, SIR?
THIS IS NOTHING TO SOME CRATES THAT HAVE BEEN BUILT FROM CRACK-UPS AND FLOWN OUT OF BESIEGED AREAS!
YES, SIR, BUT WE'LL WORRY WHILE YOU TEST-HOP IT---ULP-- YOU ARE GOIN' TO TEST-HOP IT BEFORE WE FLY TH' OCEAN, AREN'T YOU?
OF COURSE, PRIVATE BARTH--DON'T WORRY ABOUT ONE WING BEING LONGER THAN THE OTHER---I DON'T!
YOU DON'T? I WISH I HAD YOUR NERVE, SIR--
IT ISN'T NERVE--
I'M JUST TOO BUSY WORRYING ABOUT THE RUDDERS NOT BEING MATES TO EVEN GIVE TH' WINGS A SECOND THOUGHT!!

A. L. SCORES 5 TO 0 TRIUMPH OVER SERVICE STARS

Rout Feller in 2d Inning; 62,094 Pay $125,000.

single into left, McCoy stopping at second. Travis also walked on four wide ones to load the bases. Bagby's first three pitches to Grace were wide and then Jim put over three called strikes. Keltner threw out Sturm.

After Boudreau opened the American leaguers' offensive with a short fly to Mullin, Henrich rolled a single past Feller. Travis came up with the ball back of second but didn't have a chance for a play. Williams ran the count to three balls and two strikes, then walked. Joe DiMaggio singled to center, Henrich scoring and Williams taking third, whence Ted scored on York's fly to Grace. Doerr fouled to Andres.

Out Goes Mr. Feller.

Andres opened the second inning with a line single to right but Smith was called out on strikes. Feller popped to Keltner and Mullin lined to Williams in left center.

Keltner opened the Americans' second inning with a 450 foot triple to left center and scored on Rosar's single to left. Feller was yanked and Rigney went in, accompanied by his Great Lakes catcher, Pytlak. Bagby struck out and Rosar was doubled off first, Pytlak to Sturm. Boudreau flied to Mullin.

Rizzuto replaced Boudreau at the start of the third inning. McCoy and Padgett flied to Joe DiMaggio, but Travis lined a double to left. Grace again ran the count to three balls and two strikes and this time bounced to Bagby.

Rigney Escapes Trouble.

Henrich walked as the Americans' third inning got under way. Williams, who has been Rigney's most persistent annoyer for several years, walked on four pitches. Joe DiMaggio, who beat Rigney with two homers and a triple in May, could do no better at this juncture than lift a foul to Andres. York forced Williams, Travis to McCoy, Henrich stopping at third. Doerr then flied to Padgett.

Bagby retired with a record of no runs, two singles, and a double, two bases on balls, and two strikeouts, and Hudson took his place at the start of the fourth. Hudson's first act was to walk Sturm, but Andres then grounded into a double play, Rizzuto to Doerr to York, and Pytlak was thrown out by Keltner.

The American leaguers were easy for Rigney in the last of the fourth. Keltner fouled to Padgett and Rosar fouled to Sturm. Hudson grounded to Travis.

Rigney Again Walks Ted.

Spence went to right field for the Americans in the fifth. Rigney was tossed out by Rizzuto and Mullin bounced to Doerr. McCoy sent Doerr back to the grass for his grounder.

Rizzuto bunted and was thrown out by Rigney at the start of the Americans' fifth. Spence's tap got away from Rigney for a single and Williams walked again, but Joe DiMaggio hit into a double play, Andres to McCoy to Sturm.

In the military boys' sixth Hudson leaped into the air for Padgett's smash and threw him out. Travis lined to Keltner and Grace fouled to Keltner. York and Doerr struck out at the start of the Americans' sixth, but Keltner lined a single to left and went to third on Rosar's single to center, after which Hudson grounded out to Andres.

Hudson Finally Yields a Hit.

McQuinn went to first for the Americans at the start of the seventh. Sturm singled to left for the first hit off Hudson and Andres followed with his second safe one, a single to left, Sturm stopping at second. After Hajduk went to second to run for Sturm Pytlak failed in two attempts to sacrifice, then fanned. Johnny Lucadello batted for Rigney and hit into a double play, Hudson to Rizzuto to McQuinn and the service men had been balked again.

Harris went to the mound, Hajduk to first and Chapman to center field for the Service team in the seventh. Rizzuto opened with a double to right and got to third on a delayed steal. Rizzuto held third while McCoy threw out Spence, but trotted home on Williams' triple to left center. Joe DiMaggio popped to Hajduk, but McQuinn tripled to right center, scoring Williams. Doerr fouled to Pytlak.

Mueller Hits Pinch Double.

Hughson was the Americans' pitcher at the start of the eighth. Chapman grounded out to McQuinn but Mueller, batting for McCoy, dropped a double between Joe DiMaggio and Spence. Padgett flied to Williams and Rizzuto threw out Travis.

Grodzicki took over the pitching job for the Service Men at the start of the Americans' eighth and made Keltner bounce to Andres. Rosar sent Chapman tearing back for his fly and Hughson was called out on strikes.

In the ninth Arnovich batted for Grace and grounded out to Keltner. Doerr threw out Hajduk and Andres fouled to Rosar to end the game.

Braves Beat Jamestown in Exhibition, 4 to 3

Jamestown, N. Y., July 7 (AP).—The Boston Braves of the National league defeated Jamestown of the Pony league, 4 to 3, tonight behind the six hit pitching of Dick Errickson and Tom Earley. Score:

Boston [N]..........010 110 100—4 12 3
Jamestown [Pony]..100 010 010—3 6 1
Batteries—Errickson, Earley and Masi; Rogala and Dulany.

Bill Poland, Joe Baski Draw in Eight Rounds

New York, July 7 (AP).—Bill Poland, 193½ pounds, New York, and Joe Baski, 203, also from New York, fought to an eight round draw in the main event of a fight card in the Bronx coliseum tonight.

friend Greenberg's reason for not participating in tonight's game. . . . "He said he was too busy to make the trip," said one sailor. . . . "That was designed to indicate the rest of us have nothing but time on our hands. If I remember correctly, Hank ran out on an All-Star game when he wasn't so busy." . . .

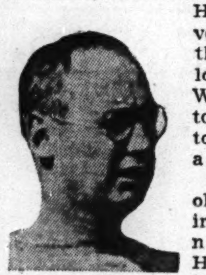
Two of the most popular athletes in American sport played prominent rôles in the pregame ballyhoo—Commander Gene Tunney and Lieut. Jack Dempsey of the coast guard. . . . It seemed to us that Commander Tunney wore his uniform more jauntily than Lieut. Dempsey did his, but then the commander has been at it longer and besides, ranks quite a little more gold striping. . . . Nobody worked harder than Dempsey, however, to make the game a success. . . . "I'll do anything you ask of me including a swim in the lake with rocks around my neck," Jack told officials in charge of the program. . . . Dempsey told friends before the game that he is applying the same principle to his physical training work that he employed in the ring—offense. . . . "Wait for nothing," Jack urges his coast guardsmen. . . . "In this game you knock a man down, but you don't retire to your corner [an old Dempsey custom]. You jump on him and give him the business before he gives it to you." . . .

Manager Lou Boudreau's great performance in last night's game didn't hurt the Cleveland gate. . . . The Harvey boy's popularity in Cleveland is increasing, and it always has been of high order since he joined the Indians. . . . Lieut. Com. Edward Peabody's Great Lakes Naval Training station band, recognized as one of the best in the land, had competition for top musical honors from the Fort Hayes band of Columbus. . . . You can't have a war without marines and you can't have a real military show without them, either. . . . A marine corps detail from Navy pier was led by Corp. J. L. Selph, who fought at Midway and lived to come back. . . . Col. John Taylor and Ray McCarthy of the war department's public relations office in Washington, D. C., made the trip from New York on the American league special. . . . Clark Griffith, owner of the Washington Senators, was frisked for $50 on the Eighth avenue subway after the game in the Polo Grounds. . . . Pat Mullin, former Tiger outfielder, will make application for the army air corps when he returns tomorrow to his post in New Cumberland, Pa. . . . Seven of the eight army men on the Service team tonight are privates. . . . Johnny Sturm, former Yankee first baseman, is a corporal. . . . The highest rated navy men were Feller and Fred Hutchinson, chief petty officers, and Ernie Andres, first class petty officer. . . . Frank Pytlak and Joe Grace were the only sailors who wear left arm insignia with their service uniforms. . . . Pytlak is a yeoman, third class, and Grace, storekeeper, third class. . . . Others wear the right arm insignia of the deck force. . . .

We didn't hear the broadcasts, but friends tell us that the feeling of brotherly love the three announcers at each game displayed as they cut up the assignment was nothing less than noble. . . . Of course, any one of the boys could have gone the full distance—at the risk of being slain by the other two. . . . Said Seaman Johnny Rigney: "As a general proposition, working for Jim Dykes and for Mickey Cochrane is about the same chore, for they were contemporaries on the Athletics and both are from the Connie Mack school of managing." . . . Right now there's probably a lot of difference, tho. . . . Lieut. Cochrane has had a winning team and that does a lot for the disposition. . . . Heinie Mueller, former member of the Phillies now stationed at Jefferson Barracks, Mo., amused his teammates before the game with his tale of success against Satchel Paige in an exhibition several years ago. . . . The great Negro pitcher was warned not to throw fast balls at Mueller. . . . "Ah ain't goin' to toss curves at dat little shrimp. Nobody can hit mah fast ball, especially dat midget," said Paige. . . . Mueller got three doubles. . . . President Will Harridge presented each member of the American league All-Stars with a $50 war bond as a reward for his selection to the squad.

Ten Years Ago Today—Jack Chevigny, back field coach at Notre Dame, signed a three year contract to coach the Chicago Cardinals football team. . . . The Philadelphia Athletics moved back into second place when they defeated the White Sox twice. . . . Equipoise was a 1 to 4 favorite to win the $20,000 Arlington Gold Cup.

Robert Fisher, Ex-Coach at Harvard, Dies



Robert T. Fisher.

Newton, Mass., July 7 (AP).—Robert T. Fisher, head coach of football at Harvard university during the decade following the first World war, died today at the Newton hospital after a heart attack.

Fisher, 53 years old, was a gridiron pupil of the noted Percy Haughton, famed in Harvard coaching history, and he coached the only Harvard eleven ever to play in the Rose bowl. This was in 1920, when Harvard defeated Oregon, 7 to 6.

Fisher played guard at Harvard, and in 1910 and 1911 was picked on the late Walter Camp's All-America teams. He was captain in 1911, the first year Harvard and Princeton played.

In business life, Fisher was manager of Boston office of Spencer, Trask & Co., an investment house. During the first World war, he was a captain in the army air service. At the end of the war he went to Harvard to serve as head coach until 1926.

YOU'LL HAVE TO FOLLOW A HORSE TO GO TO RACES

Westbury, N. Y., July 7 (AP).—You'll use a horse if you come to the trotting races out here on Long Island, starting Monday.

Roosevelt raceway officials have arranged for some 20 converted horse drawn market wagons and a tallyho or two instead of buses to meet trains at Westbury and nearby Mineola and bring fans to the track during the 55 day meeting.

SIGNS WITH REDSKINS.

Ripon, Wis., July 7 [Special].—Milburn [Tiny] Croft, 265 pound Ripon college football tackle who was graduated this spring, has signed for a pro tryout with the Washington Redskins this fall.

GEISEL RESTING EASILY; LEAVES HOSPITAL SOON

Harry Geisel, veteran American league umpire who suffered a severe brain concussion when knocked down accidentally in the New York Yankee-White Sox game in Chicago June 27, may be released from Mercy hospital in a few days, Dr. John D. Claridge said yesterday.

Geisel's condition is good now, the physician said, but indicated that the umpire may elect to rest a few more days after his release before returning to duty. Geisel was knocked down in a collision with Yankee Pitcher Spud Chandler in a play at third base.

M'LAIN MEETS MILLS TONIGHT AT MADISON A. C.

Roger McLain, Madison Athletic club lightweight, will try for his fourth victory in five appearances in a five round amateur boxing match against Herman Mills of the Savoy A. C. tonight in Parichy stadium, Harrison street and Harlem avenue. Supporting contests will bring together Tommy Zaffore and Tommy Lewis, King Millage and Cleveland Maxwell, Jack McBurnie and Johnny Hines, and Bob Stanton and Otto James.

BENDAS VS. CAMP GRANT.

Camp Grant's strong baseball team will make its third Chicago appearance of the season Sunday, visiting Berwyn to meet the Benda Coals at 31st and East avenue. The soldiers will be seeking their second straight victory over the Coals.

PAULINE BETZ, MISS WOLF GO TO NET SEMI-FINALS

Greenberg, Larned Win in North Shore Tennis.

Pauline Betz, talented Rollins college co-ed, and Catherine Wolf, veteran Elkhart, Ind., campaigner, reached the semi-finals of the women's singles division of the North Shore tennis tournament in Evanston yesterday with a pair of straight set victories.

Miss Betz won her quarter-final match against Mitzi Radek of the Lawchester Tennis club, Chicago, 6-1, 6-1. Miss Wolf's victory was at the expense of Mrs. Eleanor Cushingham of the Chicago Town and Tennis club, 6-3, 6-1. The two matches were the only ones played in the quarter-final bracket yesterday.

Seymour Greenberg Advances.

In the men's division, Seymour Greenberg, top seeded player, led a band of six survivors into the quarter-finals, leaving two matches in the second round yet to be played. The left handed Northwestern university star met up with another southpaw yesterday in Harold Johnson of La Grange, but the smooth stroking Wildcat player prevailed in a 6-1, 6-0 triumph.

Gardner Larned, second seeded Chicagoan, encountered formidable competition from Karl Hodge, St. Louis veteran, but finally ground out a 6-2, 7-5 victory. After losing the first set, Hodge employed his unorthodox style to pull into a 5 to 4 lead in the second set, at which point the Chicago youngster settled down and ran thru three straight games to clinch victory.

Parks Is Given a Battle.

Olen Parks, Notre Dame star, was forced to call upon all his skill to defeat Ralph Dilley of Chicago, 7-5, 6-4. The match was a see-saw affair and only Parks' greater experience enabled him to win in straight sets. In other second round matches, Richard Mason of Wilmette defeated Arthur Leighton of River Forest, 6-0, 6-4; James Gates of Chicago defeated Robert O'Connor of Chicago, 6-1, 10-8, and Howe Atwater of Wilmette defeated Alvin Bunis of Highland Park, 7-5, 6-2. Summaries:

2 Falkenburg Boys Advance in Net Meet

Philadelphia, Pa., July 7—(AP).—Bob and Tom Falkenburg defeated two strong opponents today to reach the semi-finals in the United States interscholastic tennis tournament at Merion Cricket club.

Bob, United States boys champion in 1941 and 1940, scored a 6-3, 6-1 victory over Benny Migdow of Chicago, Crane Tech southpaw and Illinois state junior champion. Tom eliminated William Ylvisker, Laurenceville school, 8-6, 6-3. The Falkenburgs represent Fairfax school, Hollywood.

Charles Samson, Denver, eliminated Haverford [Pa.] school's Diehl Mateer, 6-0, 6-0. Earlier Samson marked up a 6-3, 6-4 victory over Tom Burke, Elmhurst, N. Y., altho Burke's name had gone up on the scoreboard yesterday the winner. Tournament officials explained Samson's telegram announcing he would arrive a day late had been mislaid.

First break in seeded order came when Holmes Cathrall, Scranton, Pa., upset Bruce Daniels, Worcester academy, seeded second, 2-6, 9-7, 6-1. Cathrall now faces R. Falkenburg. Top seeded Frank Willett, Anniston, Ala., took a hard won victory over Bob Bensinger, Tacoma Park, Md., 3-6, 6-4, 6-2. Both are former United States boys indoor champions.

CLASSIC LEAGUE MAY EXPAND AT MEETING TONIGHT

Bowling Circuit Has New Plan of Operation.

BY C. H. BEUKEMA.

Whether the Classic Bowling league is to continue as an eight team circuit or is to be expanded to 10 or 12 teams probably will be determined tonight when the circuit meets at Gold Coast recreation, 1213 North Clark street.

Seven of last season's eight teams will return under their 1941-'42 sponsors, while the eighth, the erstwhile Pabst Blue Ribbons, will have a new backer, the J. R. Thompson restaurants. Most of the lineups will be altered, in each case with a view to strengthening the team, tho the majority of individuals who made up the league last year will return to competition next season. Changes of scenery, as in major league baseball, often prove effective in improving a bowler's game and thus in strengthening teams. Teams holding over will be Monarch Beer, Schlitz, Koenig Brau, Blatz, Ambrosia, National Bowling Equipment, and Washington Shirts.

Gills Ready to Join.

The Joseph L. Gills, who last year won the Stevenson Major league crown and finished second in the Windy City Major, definitely will become Classic leaguers if one of three other teams considering bids joins up. Those three are the Budweisers, the nation's No. 1 five last year, the Mineralites, and the Gold Crown Beers. One of these teams, in addition to the Gills, will be needed to swell the Classic to a 10 team circuit. All four would make it a 12 team league.

The Classic will operate on a new plan under which each team will have a home establishment for Wednesday night bowling and the circuit will travel on Sunday nights. This will permit its bowlers to acquire some degree of familiarity with the limited number of alleys on which they will bowl Wednesdays. Heretofore the league has been exclusively a traveling organization and its teams have had to face not only different alleys twice each week, but newly polished alleys as well plus new and heavier pins than those set up for house leagues.

Better for Spectators.

"We ran into some difficult conditions last year, conditions which at times were hardly conducive even to average scoring," said Eddie Krems, new president of the league, last night. "Under the new setup we believe we will find conditions that are better for the bowler and will make for more interesting competition for the spectator."

Krems, who has been out of competition except to fill in during the last two years, hopes to return to full time competition with the Thompson team. With him will be two holdovers from the Pabsts, Herb Freitag and Jules Sowa, plus Jack Bishop and Joe Puccinelli who last year were with Schlitz. The Gills will carry two holdovers, Adolph Carlson and Eli Maricich, and have added Joe Sinke, last year of the Pabsts; Rudy Habetler, with the Chapin & Gores last season, and Marty Milkau, formerly of the Heileman Old Style Lagers.

Fight Decisions

At Philadelphia, Pa.—Billy Davis beat Johnny Hutchinson [8]; Izzy Jannazzo beat Johnny Walker [8]; Johnny Forte beat Joey Archibald [8]; Sammy Angott beat Bob Montgomery [12].

At New York—Sidney Walker [Beau Jack] stopped Cosby Linson [8]; Bill Poland and Joe Baski drew [8]; Mario Morales beat Leo Lebron [6]; Pete Geno knocked out Felix Morales [2].

At Brooklyn, N. Y.—Carmine Fatta beat Carmel Fenoy [8]; Milton Kessler beat Oliver White [8]; Jimmy Carollo knocked out Bob Dudley [1].

KEEPS YOUR TRUCK ON THE JOB
More and more of the nation's truck operators are preventing delays on the "road to victory" with GMC Preventive Maintenance. Its importance in peace time was proved by the way it cut operating and maintenance costs, saved on service time, reduced accidents and increased truck life. In war time, P.M. service becomes doubly important because America is largely depending upon the present supply of motor trucks to keep the victory loads rolling . . . for the duration.

GRAINS ADVANCE ON FEARS OVER INFLATION CURBS

Wheat Rises 2 Cents Above Lows of Monday.

Storage Space Cut

Space for the storage of only 2,613,000 bushels of grain remained available as of July 3 in Chicago area warehouses and elevators having a total storage capacity of 34,687,000 bushels, the government sponsored Chicago grain storage committee reported yesterday. Warehouses and elevators owned by mills and grain processors not normally available for public use had space available for 4,152,000 bushels. They have a rated capacity of 13,575,000 bushels.

BY PHILIP WARDEN.

Commodity dealers' increasing expressions of opinion that anti-inflation controls are inadequate and may soon crumble brought speculative buying into the grain markets yesterday, lifting wheat prices as much as 2 cents from the low point of Monday. The September future closed at $1.19⅛ a bushel.

Much of the buying originated in the southwest where the new crop is being harvested. Lighter receipts of wheat in the area reduced some of the pressure from hedge selling, pit brokers said.

Hearings Influence Trend.

Congressional bickerings over the agriculture appropriations bill continued to influence the market trend. At the close wheat futures were up ⅜ to ⅝ cent a bushel. Corn was ⅜ to ⅞ cent higher; oats, unchanged to ⅛ cent higher; rye, 1 to 1⅜ cents higher, and soy beans, ¼ cent lower to ½ cent higher. Only the July soy bean delivery closed lower.

Under the bill approved yesterday by the senate, full parity loans on basic farm crops would boost the wheat loan rate to $1.52½ a bushel in Chicago from the present $1.32.

The Chicago market price of wheat is about 15½ cents less than the farmer can obtain by taking out a government loan on it.

Country Selling Increases.

Advance of the July corn future to an 87 cent range brought out larger country selling, cash grain men reported. With the industries in the market for supplies, bookings of corn to come to Chicago were reported in excess of 200,000 bushels. Market observers reported some of the buying of corn futures appeared to be the removal of hedges against sales of cash corn.

DAY by DAY on the FARM
By GAIL COMPTON

Brief Rest Period.

July 7, 1942.

THE farm workers are enjoying a brief rest from the heavy midseason tasks. All of the first crop of hay is in except for a few bales of timothy that are still waiting to dry out from the last rain. The field corn is laid by, and beat the "knee high" deadline comfortably. The rows look clean and the stalks are a deep, healthy green promising a rich yield.

The next big job will be combining the wheat field. The wheat is almost ready to be cut. The stalks have turned and the heads are filled with fat kernels. The men may have some trouble with the harvest for the stalks are so rank they have gone down in several places.

There may be more trouble when it comes time to combine the oats for they too have grown a lot of straw and go down easily in the slightest wind or rainstorm. The men probably will have to cut the fields in only one direction if they become too badly tangled.

Odd Jobs to Do.

The men now are devoting their time to odd jobs and cleaning out the thistles and other weeds. One of the men took a minute off the other day to kill a chicken hawk that had fixed a hungry eye on the chicken yard. With a .22 rifle he drilled a shot thru the hawk's neck at more than 100 yards. The other men claim he couldn't duplicate the shot again, but he stoutly maintains it was merely an example of his usual accuracy with a rifle.

The comparative quiet and serenity of the farm is echoed in the flower gardens where thousands of blooms fill the air with a blend of delightful perfumes.

The phlox are putting on the main display these days, and the beds are filled with the stately flowers. These are an excellent midsummer flower for they appear during July and last until August, filling in the gap between spring and fall blooms.

The annuals are starting to come in now, and the first of the glads were taken last week. This is early for the flowers, but they got an excellent start in the greenhouse the first of March and have been thriving in the open garden since transplanting.

Add to Riot of Color.

The yucca plant with its cream colored flowers and the Rega lilies add to the riot of color. The lilies are on the way out but have made a good showing. The delphiniums also are on the wane after a good blossoming period.

The double petunias are at their best now and border many of the flower beds with their vari-colored blooms. The gardener has tied each plant to a foot high piece of chicken wire running around the bed border. By this method the plants are kept from falling on the ground, where they are apt to become dirty and unattractive.

All the shrubs and nearly all the trees have finished flowering. In the arboretum, however, a dwarf buckeye is putting on a fine display of flowers. This buckeye makes an excellent specimen tree and blossoms long after everything else has finished, giving a bit of late color to the arboretum.

Commodities

Cotton futures closed 85 cents to $1.45 a bale higher yesterday. Limited hedging and profit taking during the session were outweighed by commission house and New Orleans buying. Principal factor in the advance was the expectation that the senate might vote favorably on the Bankhead bill, which calls for 100 per cent of parity on basic crops. Wool tops showed gains of 1 to 1.3 cents a pound.

LIGHT SELLING FORCES RETREAT IN STOCK PRICES

Profits Taken After Three Advancing Sessions.

New York, July 7 (AP).—The stock market ran into light selling today and leaders retreated fractions to a point. Cloudy war news from Russia apparently more than offset cheerful tidings from Egypt as a speculative and investment factor and this, plus the fact the list had enjoyed three successive rallying sessions, led to profit taking.

Some comfort, however, was derived from the lack of any real selling pressure. Volume dwindled compared with recent expansion in dealings when the direction was upward. Transfers totaled 332,440 shares, against 420,210 Monday.

Average Closes Lower.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks was off .2 of a point at 36.1.

Altho several pivotal issues were up modest fractions at the close, losses among the more active performers were widespread. Losers included United States Steel, Bethlehem, Santa Fe, Southern Railway, Great Northern, American Telephone, Anaconda, Chrysler, United States Rubber, Montgomery Ward, Sears Roebuck, Douglas Aircraft, American Can, du Pont, and Western Union.

Sale of a membership was arranged today at $23,000, an advance of $2,000 over the last transfer.

CHICAGO TREND HIGHER.

Advances outweighed declines on the Chicago Stock exchange yesterday. Of the issues traded, 41 advanced, 28 declined, and 18 were unchanged. Volume was 14,000 shares, compared with 10,000 Monday. McCord Radiator rose ¼ point to 16⅜, a new high for the year. Sears, Roebuck was off 1⅛ to 55⅝, coincident with the company's announcement of a decline in June sales. Commonwealth Edison, the volume leader, was down ¼, with Walgreen and Cities Service, other leaders, unchanged.

CHICAGO AREA'S DIESEL ENGINES FIGHT NAZI SUBS

Produced in Volume by Electro-Motive.

BY PHILIP HAMPSON.

An amazing new Diesel engine, built in the Chicago district, has gone to work with the United States navy fighting Nazi submarines, the Electro-Motive division of the General Motors corporation disclosed yesterday. The engine, used to power submarine chasers, has been "hush hush," the navy having permitted the release of a few details only yesterday.

Electro-Motive is in full production on the engine at its La Grange plant and shipments are moving to the navy in volume.

High speed, high horse power, and light weight are among the advantages claimed for the engine. Used in connection with a variable pitch marine propeller—also built by Electro-Motive—the engine is said to add materially to cruising radius, speed, and maneuverability of subchasers.

Reverses Craft's Direction.

Another innovation is a reversible propeller, which makes it possible to reverse the direction of the craft without reversing the engine. This is accomplished thru a device which reverses the direction of the propeller shaft. The arrangement makes it possible for the subchaser virtually to "stop on a dime" in its maneuvering. The variable pitch propeller permits the speed of the craft to be increased or slowed without changing the speed of the engine.

Information as to power, weight, the speed with which the engine can drive a subchaser or other details has not been disclosed for military reasons.

The engine—called a "pancake" because of its flat construction—includes four banks of four cylinders each located around a vertical crankshaft. The engine, reduction gear, and propeller pitch control are designed as a complete unit.

Space Reduced Materially.

Occupying about one-third the space of previous Diesels of the same horse power, the engine is said to be the lightest ocean duty Diesel in the world.

Saving in weight and space make possible the storing of more fuel for longer range operations; carrying more armament and ammunition; lighter over-all weight for more speed, and more room for the installation of more engines to give faster speed.

It is said that in actual practice a combination of all these advantages has been designed into the newer subchasers. Two of the engines are used to power the smaller type subchasers which have been delivered to the navy. Another advantage claimed is reduction of the fire hazard attendant upon the use of gasoline engines.

Many Peacetime Uses.

When the war is won the engine is expected to be used for many purposes in the nation's peacetime economy. It is said to be especially promising for transportation—both rail and highway—because of its economy in space.

The navy is understood to have been looking for an engine of this type ever since the first World war. About a year before Hitler occupied Holland, the problem was discussed with Charles F. Kettering, vice president of General Motors in charge of research. Development work on both the engine and the reversible propeller took place at the Detroit laboratory of General Motors.

Electro-Motive was given the job of building the engines in January, 1941. Within a year it had built a plant and by last May had met the navy's production requirements.

WEIGEL ADVISES CHECK AGAINST HIGH COAL BILLS

John C. Weigel, regional OPA administrator, in urging householders to put in their winter's coal supply now, yesterday suggested a check of last year's receipts to make certain higher prices are not charged than a year ago. He reminded householders that coal is included in cost of living items on which OPA ceilings apply.

Weigel said his office is interested in fuel costs "because rent, food, clothing, and fuel together take over 80 per cent of a family's income, often 90 per cent."

He said that buying coal during the summer will free transportation systems next winter for the hauling of war supplies.

Class 1 Rail Employment Reaches 1,292,595 in June

Washington, D. C., July 7 (AP).—Employment on the nation's class 1 railroads reached 1,292,595 at the end of June, the Interstate Commerce commission reported today. This was an increase of 1.73 per cent over May and 11.83 per cent over June, 1941.

Sears Reports Sales Dip of 12 Pct. in June

Sears, Roebuck & Co. reported yesterday that sales in June dropped nearly 9½ million dollars, or 12 per cent, from June, 1941. Volume for the five months thru June declined more than 4 million dollars, or 1.1 per cent from the corresponding period a year ago. The Walgreen company, Chicago drug store chain, announced all-time highs in sales for June and the first six months of 1942, while Butler Brothers, general merchandise and variety goods company, also of Chicago, showed substantial sales gains in those periods.

Sears' sales total last month was $69,120,849 against $78,567,676 last year. For the five months period sales amounted to $351,486,688, compared with $355,498,055 the preceding year.

Follows Mail Order Trend.

The shrinkage of dollar sales volume follows a trend of recent months in the mail order industry. Montgomery Ward & Co. reported Monday that its June sales were 8.31 per cent under 1941 levels, but gains in February and March kept the five months' cumulative volume at an all-time high and resulted in an increase of 0.35 per cent over last year.

The June sales decrease was the second for Sears in the first five months of its current fiscal year. May volume fell 19.4 per cent from 1941.

The trend of lower mail order company sales is attributed to a growing scarcity of merchandise available for sale, particularly in the "hard" lines in which Sears and Montgomery Ward formerly did a heavy business.

Forward Buying One Factor.

A Sears representative said forward buying earlier in the year by consumers who feared scarcities and high prices also contributed to the June decrease. Losses in unit volume were considerably larger than reflected in dollar sales figures since price levels are above that of a year ago.

Walgreen's record sales total last month was $7,998,938, compared with $6,774,468 in June, 1941, or an increase of 18.1 per cent. For the six months, volume was $45,696,147 against $39,891,527, or a gain of 14.5 per cent.

Consolidated gross sales of Butler Brothers, including the Scott-Burr Stores corporation, in June totaled $8,684,463, compared with $7,634,588 in June, 1941, or a gain of 13.75 per cent.

Bond Stores, Inc., manufacturer and retailer of men's clothing with general offices in New York City, had June sales of $3,155,605, a decline of 7.8 per cent from the $3,421,518 of June, 1941. Six months' volume was $25,403,830, compared with $19,950,069, or a gain of 27.3 per cent.

Call Hearing to Consider New Drilling Regulations

Springfield, Ill., July 7 (AP).—The oil and gas conservation division announced today that a public meeting of oil and coal operators would be held July 16 here to consider adoption of new rules governing drilling, operating and plugging of wells.

TREASURY TO OFFER 2 BILLION DOLLARS OF 2% BONDS TODAY

Washington, D. C., July 7 (AP).—Secretary Henry Morgenthau announced tonight the treasury will offer for sale tomorrow 2 billion dollars of 2 per cent 7 to 9 year bonds. The sale is the regular monthly financing which has become necessary to pay for war expenditures in excess of tax receipts.

Another type of financing is expected late this month or early next month, when investors will be permitted to apply for 2½ per cent 20 to 25 year bonds of a type sold in May.

Tomorrow's bond sale will be open to all types of investors without subscriptions. Subscriptions will be received for two days, and billed on a pro rata basis depending on the size of subscriptions in comparison with the offering.

WPB Releases Inventories of Copper, Silk

Washington, D. C., July 7 (AP).—The War Production board revised restrictions on inventories today, freeing hundreds of thousands of tons of copper, aluminum, rubber, silk and other critical war materials now idle because of WPB regulations.

Officials said the new order would release about 250,000 tons of copper and copper base alloys alone for free movement into industrial channels and provide immediate relief for hard pressed firms which have much of their capital tied up in frozen inventories.

WPB said it was impossible to estimate the total idle stocks affected, but placed their value at "hundreds of millions" of dollars.

Most important change was elimination of the necessity for obtaining formal WPB permission for transfers of idle critical materials. Companies now may make sales without obtaining approval from Washington.

All existing priority regulations and WPB orders will continue to apply to buyers, however. The regulation also establishes certain restrictions covering persons to whom war materials may be sold, the uses to which they may be put, and which priority ratings, if any, are necessary in buying them.

ILLINOIS RETAIL FEDERATION FOR INVENTORY QUIZ

The Illinois Federation of Retail Associations said yesterday it approved the announcement that an inventory committee appointed by the WPB will study thoroly the possible need of a general inventory order.

The organization expressed disappointment, however, that a small merchant was not included in the committee. The statement, signed by J. T. Meek, executive secretary of the federation, said this class of retailer merits recognition "and such a recognition would do much to allay suspicions that the war program is designed to eliminate the 'little fellow.'"

"It would have been a wise and proper move to include a small retail merchant on this committee," the federation stated in a communication to Donald M. Nelson, chairman of the WPB. "As we understand it, the study is expected to show whether or not the small merchant is having difficulty getting merchandise because of overstocking on the part of the big fellows."

Steel Shortage in Warehouse Stocks Critical

A new bottleneck in war production is fast approaching with the increasing severity of stock shortages in steel warehouses, steel company officials in the Chicago district said yesterday. All agreed that the problem is becoming more critical, with small chance of alleviation in the near future.

Great difficulty is being experienced in replenishing dwindling stocks, and with the war effort increasing in tempo it is believed by steel men that many war production lines will be slowed down, with some forced to halt entirely until the deficiency is corrected.

Restock Orders Delayed.

One of the major stumbling blocks encountered in attempting to build up depleted stocks is that warehouses cannot order a restock on a high priority rating until the tonnage involved is actually shipped, which often means, under today's conditions, 4 to 20 weeks before they will get shipment from the mills.

This prevents a warehouse from anticipating the war requirements of its customers. The situation is further aggravated because ratings of A-1-a must be extended for prompt stock replacements, but the warehouse is required to fill orders with ratings as low as A-10. Under present mill conditions, officials say, the warehouse rating of A-1-k is wholly ineffective.

An official of one large Chicago area warehouse asserted that there were shortages of 60 and 70 per cent in certain sizes. Many of the sizes and shapes in which the greatest shortages occur, he said, are necessary in tooling up processes and are vitally needed in essential industries such as utilities, railroads, mines, and quarries.

WPA Seeking Solution.

Manufacturers report that up to now, in most cases, much of the necessary materials have been obtainable, altho it has been "nip and tuck." In many instances they have had to obtain needed steel from warehouses in cities hundreds of miles away.

In an attempt to find a solution to the almost insurmountable problem, the War Production board and other government agencies are studying proposals to insure a steady flow of steel required by warehouses for distribution in small quantities. According to J. R. Stuart, head of the warehouse unit, WPB's iron and steel branch, it is possible any such plans will be accompanied by added limitations on the types of orders on which steel may be sold from warehouse stock.

PULLMAN LAUDS SUBCONTRACTORS FOR WAR OUTPUT

The Pullman-Standard Car Manufacturing company—primary contractor of ships, tanks, shells, mortars, and howitzer carriages—has placed more than 3,800 ordnance subcontracts with more than 725 companies in 151 cities in 20 states, C. A. Liddle, president, disclosed yesterday. He described subcontractors as the "unsung heroes of the war production battle."

Liddle said that subcontractors deserve credit for increasing the efficiency and speed of ordnance production. Subcontracts let by Pullman-Standard in 1940 are paying practical dividends today in added tanks, guns, shells, and other war implements.

Besides being a primary contractor, Pullman-Standard is a subcontractor of airplane wings and other parts.

BICYCLE AND WAR WORK INSURANCE WILL MAKE DEBUT

New York, July 7 [Special].—The casualty insurance industry tomorrow will introduce insurance covering the liability of bicyclists and the personal liability of volunteer war workers in the performance of their duties in recognition of unusual conditions arising out of the war. The National Bureau of Casualty and Surety Underwriters made public the provisions in the form of new "owners, landlords, and tenants" classification. A special method of providing liability coverage for army and navy post exchanges also has been developed, the bureau announced.

14,000 Strike at Canadian Arms Plant; Some Return

MONTREAL, Que., July 7 (AP).—Part of the 14,000 workers on strike at a Cherrier, Que., munitions plant have agreed to go back to work tomorrow at midnight and the rest will vote at shift massmeetings. Labor leaders urged the men to return to work after all had walked out in a dispute over the alleged dismissal of several employés for union activities.

HOGS TOPPLED FROM PEAK IN MARKET FLOOD

Packers Say Profits Still Impossible.

Hog prices toppled yesterday from the 16 year peaks reached Monday, but packers reported they faced the same dilemma that hounded them all spring—they can't buy hogs that can be processed and sold at a profit.

A top of $14.85 per hundred pounds was paid on the Chicago market as prices declined 25 to 40 cents in the most severe break in nine months. Farmers, attempting to cash in on the recent advance, sent 31,000 hogs to the stockyards, the largest volume since January.

Altho prices slumped the packing industry raised its clamor for federal ceilings on live hog costs—ceilings that market men say would have to be almost $1 per hundred pounds lower than current market levels.

No Limits on Live Costs.

The problem that has bothered both the packers and the Office of Price Administration since late March centers in the fact that there are ceiling prices on pork cuts sold by the packers, but no limits on the prices they pay for live hogs, which have risen almost constantly since the wholesale pork ceilings were set.

Caught between rising hog costs and the ceilings on processed meat prices, packers asserted they were losing $1 to $1.40 per hundred pounds on every hog purchased. Not only have the profits from pork processing disappeared, but many packers claim their entire pork business is being operated at a loss.

Packers say they cannot simply withdraw from the market and wait for prices to drop. Many have contracts with the government to supply vast quantities of pork and lard for the armed forces and for lend-lease purposes. Others have customers they want to hold at all costs.

Labor Costs a Vital Factor.

Of equal or even more importance in keeping their plants operating, packers assert, are their labor costs. Contracts with labor unions require the payment of minimum wages to packing house employés regardless of the number of hours worked.

Packers will need experienced meat cutters as soon as the fall pig marketing starts. If they lay off men now when prices are high, packers fear it would be almost impossible to obtain trained men in the fall.

In view of this situation, "It's cheaper to pay too much for hogs than not get any at all," as one packing executive expressed the problem. Because an insufficient number of hogs are being marketed to meet current processing requirements, prices must be bid up to obtain supplies.

Little Chance of Increase.

Altho farmers apparently have not been selling all their available hogs on the recent market rise, packers foresee little chance for any substantial increase in marketings over the next two months. Likewise, government purchases, which last week were in excess of 100 million pounds, show no signs of diminishing and more than likely will be stepped up.

To market observers, there are three possible solutions to the packers' dilemma: Raise wholesale pork price ceilings; reduce the demand for pork thru consumer rationing, or place live hogs under ceilings.

OPA officials have repeatedly asserted that present price ceilings must stick, so the first solution appears to have little chance of being applied. Packers claim that because large marketings of hogs are in prospect in the fall, the government is not likely to attempt such a comprehensive program as pork rationing would entail.

Rationing Held Possible.

But interests close to the Washington administration say that either pork rationing or ceilings on live hog costs are distinct possibilities. Smaller units in the packing field have been hit the hardest and are more urgent in their pleas for relief.

Whether ceilings can be placed on live hog costs depends largely on the attitude of the farmer, market observers report. Before issuing such an order the OPA would be required to gain consent of the department of agriculture. Claude R. Wickard, secretary of agriculture, is a hog raiser and is believed to be opposed to any ceilings on live hog costs.

Yesterday's cattle prices were largely on a par with those of Monday. Fat lambs and yearlings fell another 25 cents per hundred pounds.

Illinois to Curb Transportation; ODT Controls Traffic to Ports

Parley Called

Springfield, Ill., July 7 (AP).—The Illinois Commerce commission today summoned representatives of all railroads and bus companies operating in the state to a meeting Thursday to discuss methods of eliminating nonessential and duplicating transportation services during the war.

The meeting was called at the suggestion of Joseph B. Eastman, national director of defense transportation, who said extra rail equipment must be released for troop movements and carrying of war supplies.

Must Suffer Inconveniences.

Local train service should be discontinued in places where bus service is available, Eastman said in a letter to Chairman John D. Biggs, "in spite of some degree of local dislocations and inconveniences, for the wartime needs of the nation must be paramount." In some cases, he added, bus service probably will be discontinued where trains can better serve the public.

Biggs said that railroad representatives would meet the commission at 9:30 a. m. Thursday and that bus company representatives would follow at 2:30 p. m.

Bans Congestion

Washington, D. C., July 7 (AP).—The Office of Defense Transportation today issued an order setting up strict controls over the movement of goods from inland areas to United States ports for export.

Designed to eliminate cargo jams at port cities and to assure prompt and orderly movement of commodities most essential to the economies of the importing countries, the order was worked out by ODT with the state department, the Board of Economic Warfare and the War Shipping administration.

File Special Applications.

Effective immediately, exporters having shipments of 2,240 pounds or more intended for Latin America are required to file with the BEW office of export control five copies of a special application for freight space in vessels departing on or after Aug. 15.

If and when the applications are approved by the BEW, they will be delivered to the War Shipping administration which, when space is available, will issue an ODT unit permit as evidence of the availability of cargo space.

Goods Must Be Ready.

Shippers were notified that the applications must be filed not only for goods at interior points but also for goods at seaboard and for all goods shipped under individual, general or any other type of license. Applications will be considered only when the goods are ready for shipment.

Cargo bookings to offshore destinations other than Latin America may continue to be made by ship operators on direct application by shippers, but are subject to final approval by the WSA's office of supervision of cargo clearance in New York and in other ports where other WSA branches may be set up.

GRAIN SHIPPERS TO ACT

Plans to control this year's grain movement and assure full utilization of freight cars will be discussed by A. H. Schwietert, traffic director of the Chicago Association of Commerce, and Lawrence Farlow of Bloomington, chairman of the grain committee and secretary of the Farmers' Grain Dealers of Illinois, at the 59th convention of the Mid-West Shippers' Advisory board in the Palmer House tomorrow.

The organization includes industrialists, farmers, bankers, and marketing and trade bodies coöperating with the railroads.

Plan Synthetic Rubber Output in Gary by 1943

New York, July 7 [Special].—Actual production of synthetic rubber at a giant plant to be built at Gary, Ind., still is scheduled to begin about June 1, 1943, despite delays caused by changes in original plans and specifications to reduce the amount of steel and other critical materials used in construction.

The filling and grading of a tract of about 900 acres, begun several weeks ago, is expected to be complete next month, and construction work is to begin soon afterward. Buildings will occupy about 600 acres of the plant site.

W. B. Plummer, president of Rubber Synthetics, Inc., disclosed today that equipment costing about 5 million dollars has been ordered for the three way project in which five companies will combine their efforts to turn out the Buna S type rubber.

Cost Set at 75 Millions.

Production of 100,000 tons a year is planned, instead of the 150,000 tons originally projected. Plummer said the total cost probably will be about 75 million dollars, "or a little less." The original estimate was 100 millions.

"In view of the increased pressure to economize on steel and other vital materials," he said, "we redesigned the plants and will use a different type of feed stock from refineries. This has reduced costs 25 to 30 per cent in some particulars. The changes held us up some, but despite the delay we still are hopeful of being in operation by the previously set deadline of June 1, 1943."

Jointly Owned Enterprise.

Rubber Synthetics, Inc., which is owned jointly by the Standard Oil Company [Indiana], Sinclair Refining company, and Cities Service company, will produce butadiene, major ingredient of the Buna rubber. Another section of the Gary project will be operated by the Dow Chemical company, and will produce styrene, the second main ingredient. The third phase of operations, combining the two ingredients to make Buna, will be conducted by United States Rubber, Firestone Tire and Rubber, and another company not yet announced.

Rubber Synthetics is to build the power house and cooling system for all plants. Engineering, designing, and construction work, for the most part, is being handled by the Lummus company and the Stone & Webster Engineering corporation.

ALTER SCHEDULE OF 3 STREAMLINERS FROM CHICAGO TO FLORIDA

Changes in operating schedules of three streamlined all-chair car trains between Chicago and Miami, Fla., were announced yesterday by the Chicago and Eastern Illinois, the Illinois Central, and the Pennsylvania railroads, effective next Sunday. The C. & E. I. Dixie Flagler, the I. C. City of Miami, and the Pennsylvania Southwind, which operate alternately every third day, will leave Chicago as before at 8:20 a. m., one each morning, but will arrive in Miami at 3:25 p. m. the following day, instead of 2:55 as at present. Returning they will leave Miami at 5:05 p. m. instead of 4:30 and arrive in Chicago at 9:55 p. m. the next day instead of 9:05. Arrivals and departures at intermediate points will be adjusted to correspond.

The North Western will extend its streamliner service into the upper peninsula of Michigan week-ends, effective July 18, with the Peninsula "400" to continue beyond Escanaba to Ishpeming, Mich., on Saturday evenings and leave Ishpeming the following morning for its regular return trip.

American Airlines Has Big Gains in Express Volume

Air express shipments carried by American Airlines during May increased 102 per cent over last year to 835,754 pounds, L. W. King, regional traffic manager, reported yesterday. Shipments during the first five months of this year increased 103 per cent to 2,613,515 pounds.

OPA EMPOWERS REGIONAL AIDS TO USE SUBPENA

Can Call Witnesses in Ration Probes.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., July 7.—Price Administrator Leon Henderson today delegated to his regional administrators authority to sign and issue subpenas in rationing investigations. His order was based on the second war power act passed by congress last March. Congressmen have been complaining of Henderson's unprecedented powers.

Under today's order, witnesses can be compelled to appear and to testify. They also can be compelled to produce books, records and other documentary evidence for the regional administrators to scrutinize in the course of a rationing investigation.

Clarifies Bottle Deposit Rule.

Henderson also issued an interpretation of his general maximum price regulation as it relates to deposit charges for containers, including beer and soft drink bottles. Some dealers have boosted this charge—a nickel for the bottle of a nickel drink, for example.

An excessive charge, the OPA chief ruled, is a violation of the maximum price regulation, punishable by revocation of the merchant's license to do business.

The announced purpose of this interpretation is to prevent chiseling on OPA price ceilings, to promote the conservation and efficient use of critical war materials, and to help the packaging trade meet an increasing shortage in some type of containers. The ruling hinges on what constitutes an excessive charge.

Detailed Explanation.

The OPA statement, in question and answer form, explains:

Q.—Where a deposit charge was made for the container in March, 1942—the base pricing period under the general maximum price regulations—may the charge be continued? A.—Yes.

Q.—May the deposit charge be increased above the amount charged in

LOSSES OFFSET RISE IN LEHMAN NET ASSET VALUE

Trust Reports Its Ordinary Income Up in Year.

Larger net ordinary income was reported yesterday by the Lehman corporation, New York investment trust, for the fiscal year ended June 30. However, net realized loss on the sale of investment holdings was also larger than in the preceding year, and net asset value per share, altho higher than on March 31 this year was smaller than June 30, 1941.

Net ordinary income for the fiscal year was $2,795,251, equal to $1.41 a share, compared with $2,512,823 in the preceding year, Robert Lehman, president, reported to stockholders. Not included in these figures were realized losses of $1,921,010 and $812,110 in the respective periods.

Net assets on June 30 amounted to $49,768,843 and were equivalent to $25.09 a share. The asset value per share on March 31 was $24.74 and a year ago was $28.77.

Investments Increased.

The corporation during the quarter purchased securities with a value of $2,483,000 and sold securities with a value of $1,643,000, indicating a net increase in investments of about $840,000. Common stocks comprised 73.4 per cent of its holdings on June 30 and cash and government bonds 13.2 per cent. Preferred stocks accounted for 6.5 per cent and bonds, other than governments, 6.7 per cent.

Changes in the common stock portfolio were marked by the addition of several food and beverage company issues, including General Foods, National Dairy Products, Pepsi-Cola, and Coca-Cola, and reductions in railroad and rail equipment issues, including Santa Fe, Chesapeake & Ohio, Great Northern, Northern Pacific, Pennsylvania, and Superheater.

Principal changes in Lehman's common stock holdings during the quarter ended June 30 were:

OPA EMPOWERS REGIONAL AIDS TO CALL WITNESSES

Can Subpena Books in Rationing Probes.

March? A.—Yes, provided the amount of the charge is not excessive.

Q.—Where no deposit was made in March for the container, may the seller now require a deposit charge in addition to the price which was in effect in March? A.—No, unless it was customary for the buyer to return the container to the seller. If the custom existed, the deposit charge which may be made must not be excessive. If no deposit was required in March and the buyer did not customarily return the container, a seller who charges for the contents what he previously charged for both contents and container obviously is unlawfully increasing his charge for the contents.

Can Lower Price.

Q.—But can a seller impose a deposit charge when none was made in March and there was no custom of return, if at the same time he lowers his price? A.—Yes, provided [1] the deposit charge is made in good faith for the purpose of obtaining return of the container; and [2] the deposit charge is not excessive under the rules stated below. The good faith of the seller will depend primarily on whether he makes use of the returned container. Thus, a retailer of milk in quart paper cartons may not lawfully impose a 3 cent deposit charge for the carton, even if he lowers his selling price per quart by 1 cent or 2 cents. It is obvious that the seller in these circumstances is interested not in the return of the unusable paper carton, but rather in the strong possibility that a majority of his customers will neglect to return the empty carton, thus increasing the seller's real charge for milk. Good faith always will exist, however, if the reduction in price is as large as the amount of the deposit.

Circumstances Considered.

Q.—When is a deposit charge excessive? A.—This will depend upon the circumstances in each case. A deposit charge never will be excessive if it does not exceed the deposit charged in March, or the seller's reduction in his March price, or the seller's cost of replacing the container. The deposit charge must be designed to induce return and must be set at a level fixed with reference to the need for return. It may not be set at a spuriously high level designed to allow a seller an extra profit by virtue of inevitable breakage or loss.

AIR 'TRAINS' SOON TO HAUL FREIGHT, WHITING ASSERTS

Furniture Industry Told It Must Build Them.

Within a year huge wooden freight gliders—pulled in "trains" of three or four by large "tug" planes—will be carrying heavy goods and perishables across the nation, Col. Lawrence Whiting, president of the American Furniture Mart, told the National Wholesale Furniture association last night.

"That is not speculation," Col. Whiting said. "A new form of transport will arise in the next few months. It will help ease the rail and truck transport problem. It will help ease the rubber problem."

Large companies now engaged in the transport field will operate the air trains, and the furniture industry in Chicago and elsewhere will be a major factor in the production of the wooden planes and gliders, he said.

Trains to Fly 200 Tons.

Large planes already in use, capable of carrying 20 tons of freight, will haul 60 additional tons in gliders, he said. Within a year, three-glider trains will be hauling 200 tons or more he said.

Asserting that a new field is opening up for the industry, Whiting said, "We are in a position to know that the demand for wood products will become fantastic."

Whiting spoke at a dinner in the Furniture club in the Mart. He said the furniture industry has produced or is producing between 500 and 600 million dollars of war goods.

He also revealed that two plants to process natural rubber are to be built in Lima, Peru. They will use American process licenses and will be largely financed by American capital. He predicted others will be built in Latin America, and that ultimately Latin America will be selling rubber goods in the United States.

Retailers Hear Carpet Man.

Peter P. Hagan, president of the Charles P. Cochrane company, told the National Retail Furniture association earlier in the day that half of the nation's carpet industry is devoted to making army goods, but he said no shortage in carpets or rugs should develop in 1942.

The associations met in connection with the Mart's current furniture show which opened Monday. A two week show is being held also in the Merchandise Mart. Both marts reported attendance is less than at previous shows, but that buying is in good volume.

Whiting announced that a recommendation that the November market be dropped and that only two shows be held in 1943, will be submitted to the Furniture Mart's directors tonight. One show would be held from Jan. 4 to 16, and the other from June 21 to 30.

BORG-WARNER.

I would like to purchase some Borg-Warner shares, but hesitate in view of government restrictions on the manufacture of household appliances and the conversion of the automotive industry to war work. Can you furnish a report on the company, including a breakdown of sales last year? How do first quarter earnings compare with 1941?—R. F. B.

Answer: Borg-Warner corporation was organized in Illinois in 1928. Prior to the war more than half the company's output consisted of important mechanisms and parts used by the automotive industry. These included transmissions, clutches, carburetors, universal joints, and radiators. The company also manufactures a wide variety of household appliances, airplane parts, and miscellaneous fabricated steel items.

Early this year virtually all production was converted to war work. Altho suspension of automobile and electric refrigeration production for civilian use deprived the company of its most important markets, ready adaptability of many of its products to military requirements permitted continued output of these items. The company also has converted much of its facilities to the production of various types of special military equipment.

In 1941, 50.41 per cent of the company's sales were to the automotive industry, 23.45 per cent were household appliances, 11.33 per cent aviation industry, 10.04 per cent miscellaneous industries, 4.77 per cent agricultural implements industry. A record of recent financial results follows:

	Total income.	Net income.	Dividends.
1941	$27,224,767	$7,475,049	$2.00
1940	13,461,183	6,730,462	1.50
1939	9,636,538	5,683,801	1.35
1938	2,804,603	*19,966	.25
1937	12,848,251	8,348,089	3.00

*Loss.

Two dividends of 40 cents each have been paid this year. Sole capitalization at the end of 1941 was 2,336,716 shares of $5 par common stock outstanding. Net income in the first quarter amounted to $1,867,012, compared with $1,617,212 in the same 1941 period. Total current assets on March 31 were $54,447,061, against total current liabilities of $24,257,550.

CANADIAN CORPORATION.

Is Aluminum Limited a United States or Canadian corporation?—F. D.

Answer: Canadian.

O. K. RELOCATION OF PIPE LINES TO BOOST OIL FLOW

Little New Material Will Be Employed.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., July 7.—Oil Coordinator Harold L. Ickes today announced that he has obtained War Production board approval of a pipeline relocation program involving a cost of more than 30 million dollars to step up deliveries of oil to the east coast.

This program, which will be financed by the oil industry, is in addition to the new 35 million dollar pipeline from Longview, Tex., to Salem, Ill., recently approved by the WPB, and which is expected to be completed in December. This pipeline, requiring an estimated 125,000 tons of steel, is to furnish 300,000 barrels of oil daily to southern Illinois for transhipment to the east.

Steel Needed Is Issue.

One of the main objections to the Texas-Illinois pipeline, long agitated for by Ickes, was that it took valuable steel from armament industries. No estimates were available on the amount of steel required in the relocation program, but officials declared it would be small.

New materials will be used "only in those instances where secondhand pipe, pumping facilities, and other equipment cannot be obtained or employed," said the oil coördinator. "It was for the small amount of new materials that WPB clearance was needed."

The relocation program, involving seven projects, is designed to increase the flow of crude oil and petroleum products to the Atlantic coast by more than 200,000 barrels daily, of which 87,000 barrels will be moved directly to the east coast by pipelines and the remainder will move initially by pipeline to points on the Mississippi and Ohio rivers and in Illinois and then eastward by tank car and river barge, according to Ickes' office.

Thirty Undertakings Involved.

More than 30 separate undertakings are involved in the seven project program, but in general the program calls for conversion or reversal of present oil lines from Texas and Oklahoma and installation of pumping stations at intermediate points supplemented by the laying of secondhand pipelines to points in Missouri, Kansas, Illinois, Ohio, Pennsylvania, Louisiana, Florida, and Kentucky.

One project calls for increasing the crude oil movement from Texas to Illinois and then east by 41,000 barrels daily, of which 25,000 barrels will be moved out of Illinois by pipelines and 16,000 barrels by lake tankers and rail.

In a simultaneous announcement the Office of Defense Transportation today claimed that it made available in May 4,000 tank cars for long haul service as a result of restrictions on use of such equipment in hauls of less than 100 miles, where tank trucks were used instead. In June there was even a greater diversion, according to an analysis now under way, said the ODT.

FIRST NATIONAL BANK SHARES BIG REYNOLDS TOBACCO CO. CREDIT

The First National Bank of Chicago will participate to a "substantial" extent in the creation of a 75 million dollar line of credit for Reynolds Tobacco company, it was learned yesterday. The bank's share has not been finally determined, an official said.

The credit is of a standby nature, for use when needed, and will run for five years, the official said. The arrangement assures the tobacco company adequate funds when needed at reasonable interest cost.

Twelve banks, including institutions in New York and several other cities, were reported to be joining in the credit pool.

JULY 15 DEADLINE FOR EXCHANGING MONEY IN HAWAII

Washington, D. C., July 7 (AP).—The treasury said today that July 15 will be the deadline for exchanging all United States currency in Hawaii for a new special series of bills to be used exclusively in Hawaii for the duration of the war.

After July 15 no one in Hawaii will be permitted to have any regular United States currency without a special license from J. B. Poindexter, governor of Hawaii. Any persons receiving money from outside will be required to exchange it immediately.

The treasury said the new Hawaiian money will be "fully backed by the credit of the United States." The change was described as a measure "to complement other measures taken for the protection of Hawaiian citizens and the economic defense of Hawaii.
